DEMOCRATS ACT TO HALT WASTE OF U. S. BUREAUS

Mills Urges More and Higher Taxes.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—While Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills was proposing new taxes and further boosts of corporation taxes and individual income surtaxes to the ways and means committee today, the Democratic leadership of the house moved for immediate legislation to abolish superfluous bureaus and boards and eliminate other wastes in federal government expenditures.

REP. JOSEPH W. BYRNS. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

At the instance of Speaker John N. Garner [Dem., Tex.], Representative Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.], chairman of the house appropriations committee, introduced a resolution providing for the appointment of an economy committee of five members charged "to proceed immediately with an investigation to determine which, if any, of the federal bureaus and commissions now functioning may be abolished, restricted in activity or consolidated without impairment of orderly government, together with recommendations as to the possible economies to be effected thereby."

Too Many Useless Bureaus.

The resolution, which is scheduled for immediate adoption by the house, is premised on the enormous increase in federal expenditures in the last decade, the creation of unnecessary bureaus, boards and commissions and the "unprecedented economic depression," making "it essential that expenses of government be substantially curtailed, in order that the national budget may be balanced and the credit of the nation maintained."

The committee is directed to report its findings to the house not later than April 15 next.

Speaker Garner said the committee should be able in the time allotted to work out a plan for a thoroughgoing reorganization of the administrative branch of the government.

"The administration has been talking about this for three years, but, up to date, has not done a solitary thing about it," the speaker added. "We purpose to see that a business-like job is done.

Forget Theories, Cut Costs.

"We Democrats are trying to give the country a demonstration of real economy. The administration makes gestures and writes theses. We do the work."

Mr. Garner indorsed the proposal to consolidate the war and navy departments, which he hoped would be reported favorably by the expenditures committee. He was unwilling to concede to the administration any originality in bringing forward the Glass-Steagall currency bill passed by the house yesterday. This plan, he said, was first broached 30 years ago by a Democratic senator, Jones of Arkansas.

Although Secretary Mills continued to base his estimates of revenue on the assessment of increased corporation and individual income taxes on 1931 incomes, the ways and means committee voted formally against any retroactive increases.

Need 455 Millions More.

On account of a shrinkage of prospective revenue for the fiscal year of 1933 amounting to 321 millions since the December estimate of the treasury and a shrinkage of the prospective receipts from taxes then proposed, Mr. Mills told the committee it would be necessary to raise 455 millions more in order to wipe out the prospective deficit of one billion 241 million. He proposed further reduction of expenditures aggregating 118 million and then outlined new taxes and further increases of existing taxes which would bring in the remaining 337 millions.

Mr. Mills' estimates of the revenue to be expected from these additional sources were:

1. An additional 1 per cent increase in the corporation income tax rate, making it 13 instead of the present 12 per cent, $17,000,000.
2. Further increases in individual surtax rates, $50,000,000.
3. One cent a gallon tax on gasoline, $165 million.
4. Seven per cent tax on elec-

Measure Engulfed in Party Split.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—The $750,000,000 Costigan-La Follette relief bill was defeated in the senate tonight by a vote of 35 to 48.

Under the conflicting pressures put upon them—of federal relief or no federal relief, of federal relief administered by a Washington bureau or federal relief administered by the various states—party ranks were split asunder and the three-quarter billion dollar measure, with its radical backing, fell through the gap.

The radical bloc was the only group to vote solidly in favor of the bill's proposal to give $375,000,000 to the states for direct relief of the unemployed, and $375,000,000 to the states for road work.

Regulars Join Ranks.

To their thirteen votes, composed of nine radical Republicans, three radical Democrats and the single Farmer-Labor member, were added the affirmative votes of sixteen regular Democrats and six regular Republicans.

The roll call on the bill follows:

Paired for the bill were Bulow, Barkley, and Harris [Democrats], and paired against the bill were Moses, Waterman, and Metcalf [Republicans]. Other pairs were general.

Final Appeals Fail.

Last minute appeals by Senators La Follette, radical Republican of Wisconsin, and Costigan, radical Democrat of Colorado, co-authors of the bill, and by Senator Copeland [Dem., N. Y.], failed to sway the regular Republicans and their allies—the conservative Democrats.

Their substitute bill having been defeated yesterday, the Democratic regulars were in no mood to compromise. They did not like the federal bureau which the Costigan-La Follette bill would have set up for the administration of the huge fund for direct relief.

Many felt as Senator Hugo Black [Dem., Ala.] did when he declared that the measure was one created and favored by "those who pin their faith to bureaus."

Warns of Revolt.

The possibility of a revolution by the unemployed was voiced by Senator Copeland in one of the final speeches before the vote was taken. Declaring that he would not be true to the people of the 79 bread lines in New York if he did not support the measure, he declared:

"We say that such a thing as revolution could never happen in our country. We think the United States is immune. Let me tell you that men won't starve without a protest."

"Men and women are dying and countless children are going to bed hungry while we argue here," said Senator Costigan in a final plea for the bill's passage.

He appealed on behalf of the "new democracy" and warned that America would find new leaders if the present ones refused the aid of the federal government to the hungry and the jobless.

The note of possible revolution was also sounded by Senator La Follete.

"I appeal to the senators not to be as blind as the Bourbons of France before the French revolution," he said "The question here to be determined is whether this is a government designed to protect the welfare of all the people or whether it shall be a

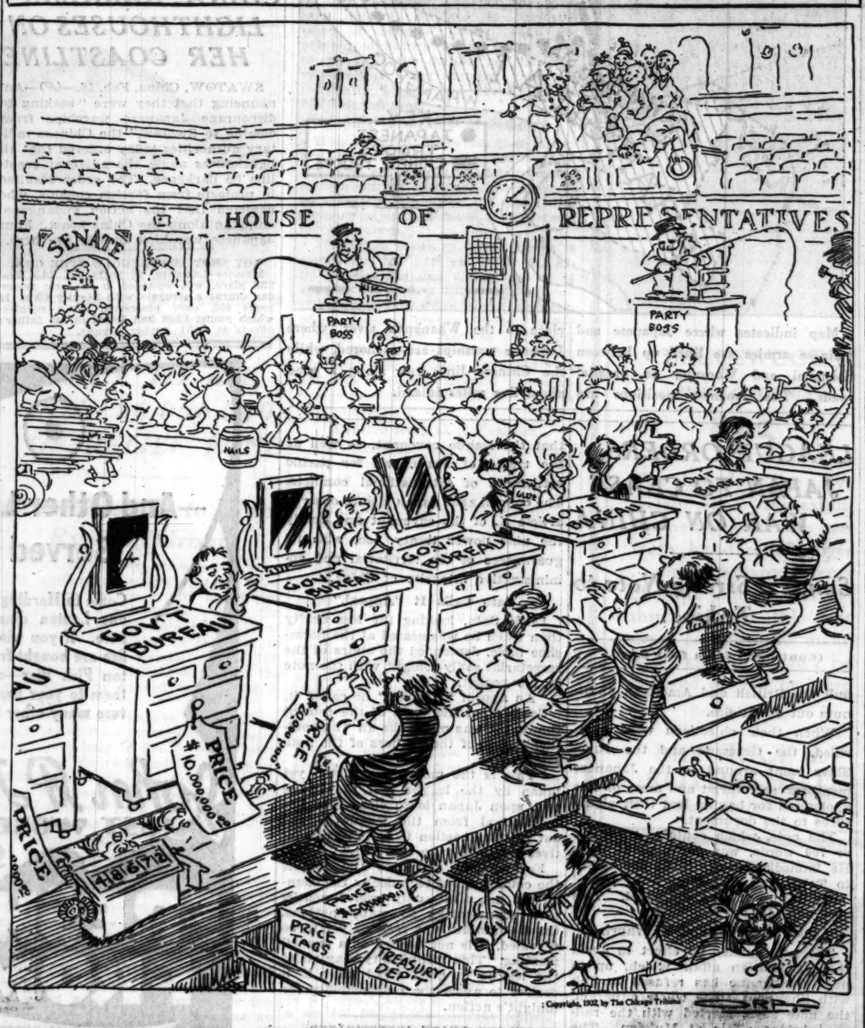
MASS PRODUCTION



HELD AS PHONE MASHER OF ROBS WIDOWS

Harry Goldfine, 25 years old, and his wife, Ceil, of 1244 South Springfield avenue, were arrested yesterday by the Marquette police. Goldfine is charged with robbing several widows after gaining their friendship.

According to the police, his method was to call a widow's number on the telephone "by mistake," make her acquaintance over the phone, and arrange a meeting. Then, it is charged, Goldfine would appear at the meeting place with companions and rob the woman.

Mrs. Lucille Hennek, 2408 Lunt avenue, identified Goldfine as the stranger who had arranged to meet her and then appeared with two other men. They robbed her of $3,400 worth of jewelry and $100, she said.

GIRL AND ESCORT TAKE HOLDUP AS JOKE; BOTH SHOT

Frank Simon, 27 years old, 1529 Noble street, and Miss Estelle Georgick, 24 years old, were sitting in an automobile in front of Miss Georgick's home at 1141 North Homan avenue late last night when two men came up.

One of them, with a pistol in his hand, threw open the car door and yelled that it was a stickup. Simon, believing it was a joke by one of Miss Georgick's brothers, was slow in raising his hands. The man fired three times. One bullet struck the girl in the left hand. The other two struck Simon.

At the Lutheran Memorial hospital, where both were taken, it was said the condition of Simon was critical.

3 SLAIN, 12 SHOT AS SPANISH REDS TERRORIZE CITY

MADRID, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The efforts of Spanish authorities to control the activities of radical strikers resulted today in the deaths of at least three persons, the wounding of a dozen and the arrest of upwards of 200 others in Saragossa and Seville.

Police and civil guards restored order in Saragossa after a three hour street battle with firearms, in which communists and syndicalists barricaded themselves in their houses. Authorities stormed them and one policeman and two strikers were slain.

Five 2-Gun Men Walk In; Six 2-Gun Men Walk Out

Ten robbers, five with two pistols each and five with only one apiece, invaded the office of the Landan Cartage company at 1025 Rundell place last night. While eight of the well armed gang watched seven other employés, the other two tried to make Fred Lund, a clerk, open the office safe. He said he didn't remember the combination. After hitting him on the head the leader called off his troupe. The only loot obtained was one more pistol, taken from a watchman.

Wed to Save Wife's Honor, Pearsons Says

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Former Mayor Harry P. Pearsons of Evanston yesterday pictured himself as having been coaxed into marriage by a woman's plea to save her honor. Swinging a spatted foot over one knee as he sat in the witness box in Judge Harry B. Miller's courtroom, the former north shore executive testified that his second wife, now suing him for separate maintenance, had appealed to his gallantry to avoid the consequences of their pre-marital intimacies. The courtroom was crowded for his testimony.

H. P. PEARSONS.

As in the case of Parke E. Simmons, another Evanston attorney, whose wife, Mrs. Mary de Diemar Wright, has a suit pending for separate maintenance, the expected heir of the Pearsonses did not put in an appearance. Pearsons testified that his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Schmitt Pearsons, informed him she intended to undergo an operation, and since her heart was bad, she feared she might die with a stain against her name. He thereupon married her, he declared, with the understanding that in the event she survived the operation, a divorce would be obtained.

Secretly Married in 1928.

Their secret marriage at Ottawa, Ill., in June of 1928, he said, was followed by a period during which he supposed the alleged operation had taken place. He admitted he knew the physician only as "Dr. Stewart," and that his only knowledge of the matter came to him in conversation with Mrs. Pearsons. She was registered at the Plaza hotel in August of 1928, he recited, and he visited her there under the assumption that she was recuperating from the operation.

Attorney Frank Cantwell, for Mrs. Pearsons, was putting the defendant through a cross-examination when court adjourned last night. He will resume today, it is anticipated, with further questions about the pre-marital relations and post-marital feuds of the couple.

Questioned by Attorney.

On direct examination by his attorney, Lloyd C. Whitman, Pearsons told of having been introduced to Mrs. Schmitt by a mutual friend, and of their friendship progressing rapidly to a more ardent stage. He told of frequent visits to her apartment on the south side, and of trips out of town together.

Q.—During this time, what were your relations with Mrs. Schmitt? A.—Why, she was my mistress.

Q.—When was the first talk of marriage between you? A.—In April of 1928. At that time she informed me she was to become a mother and that I was responsible. She said she had been told by a physician that her heart was bad, and that she might die if she underwent the operation she intended to have. I then agreed to marry her, with the understanding between us that if she lived, we would get a divorce, and that we would continue living apart. No announcement was ever to be made of the marriage if she came through the operation all right.

Q.—During this time did you borrow any money from Mrs. Schmitt? A.—I did not.

On cross-examination Pearsons asserted further that the only money he had ever given Mrs. Pearsons during their marriage was to help defray the expenses of the purported operation.

The identity of the "Mary Doe" named in Mrs. Pearsons' petition was disclosed when Pearsons named a Miss Gloeckle as the temporary occupant of an apartment at 429 Briar place, whom he had taken to dinner on one occasion when they were trailed by his wife. His invitation had been extended to Miss Gloeckle and her hostess, Mrs. Kast, an old friend of his, but the latter was leaving the city that night and he therefore went to dinner with Miss Gloeckle only.

U. S. Drafts Protest

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 17 [Wednesday, 12:05 p. m.]—Katsuji Debuchi, ambassador to the United States, reported to the foreign office today that Secretary of State Stimson has informed him that the United States is drafting a strong protest to Japan regarding the landing of troops in the international settlement at Shanghai, thus jeopardizing the lives and property of Americans. Stimson was not convinced by Debuchi's argument that the United States and Great Britain also have landed troops, Debuchi reported. He quoted Stimson as saying that if the Chinese enter or fire on the settlement on any pretext while Japanese forces are utilizing the settlement as a military base, the United States will hold Japan responsible.

GENEVA, Feb. 16.—The league of nations council got up its nerve tonight, with the assembly about to take the Sino-Japanese war out of its hands, and called upon Japan to subside.

In the stiffest note that has gone out of Geneva since the league of nations was born, a committee of twelve council members sitting without the Japanese or Chinese delegates, called upon Japan to respect its obligations—the league covenant and the Kellogg anti-war pact.

Japan's Delegates Distressed.

At the same time, in a note which Joseph Paul-Boncour, chairman of the council, handed to Naotake Sato, head of the Japanese delegation, Japan is warned that the fruits of her victories will never be recognized by members of the league—a forecast of impending moral isolation along the lines of Secretary of State Stimson's recent note to Tokio in which the United States served notice that it would refuse to recognize any agreements which Japan forced on China.

The Japanese delegates here were visibly distressed by the council's decision to speak up, which was rendered inevitable by the report of its Shanghai commission of inquiry that "a state of open warfare exists" and by the Chinese insistence upon carrying their cause to the assembly.

Chinese Are Unimpressed.

The Chinese, on the other hand, viewed the council's tardy gesture impassively and announced that they would go on and have the assembly called if between now and Thursday or Friday the council does not decide to do it on its own.

"The council's note to Japan is very good," said a member of the Chinese delegation, "but it will not get results. Japan will ignore it as it has ignored other notes. What we want is results."

The council's note is of British make. It was submitted by the marquis of Londonderry, British secretary for air. He asked that the note be made quite stiff.

Germany and France Object.

Germany, on its own, and Jugo-Slavia, speaking for France, objected. The Germans particularly held that it was useless for the league to bark unless it could follow up with something like a bite. The intimation of the Germans was that the league could not risk getting burned just to

BULLETIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 17 (Wednesday).—The foreign office announced today that Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese minister to China, had wired last night that he has abandoned all hope of a peaceful withdrawal by the Chinese troops and had asked permission to hand them an ultimatum. This permission was granted and the Chinese were ordered last night to withdraw 20 kilometers (12 miles) from Shanghai, otherwise Japan would compel such withdrawal by force.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 17 [Wednesday, 10 a. m.]—Japanese guns loosed high explosive shells and shrapnel along a 16 mile front today.

The bombardment, which had raged all night, extended from Shanghai along the Whangpoo river to Woosung. Heavy artillery on land and guns of the warships thundered while hundreds of machine guns showered bullets on the Chinese lines.

Presages Big Drive.

The bombardment, which is believed to presage Japan's big drive to oust the Chinese from Shanghai, was ordered in an effort to break up the movement of Chinese reinforcements into the beleagured trenches of the 19th route army which has defended the city for twenty days.

Chinese artillery replied at times as reinforcements continued to arrive in Shanghai last night by train from Nanking. The reinforcements include a considerable number of cavalry mounted on Mongolian ponies. Reports in Chinese newspapers declare that a large contingent of the Christian Gen. Feng yu Hsiang's "big sword corps" have been sent here.

British Sailors Wounded.

The battle line now extends the entire distance from Shanghai to Woosung. Both sides are maintaining communications along parallel motor roads which are closely guarded. The Japanese occupy a road nearest the Whangpoo river, while the Chinese control a similar road about five miles inland.

Two British sailors, Crior and Francis, were wounded, two Chinese were killed and eight wounded by shells which fell in the international settlement.

United States marines received a further shower from Japanese 75s last night. Nine shells fell within the American lines, three of which exploded. There were no casualties. According to the marines' report this morning, the Chinese brought an armored car along the railway to cover troop trains, which the Japanese tried to shell. Apparently they were unsuccessful since the Chinese trains operated all night.

Japanese Strength Uncertain.

Due to conflicting statements by Japanese military and naval authorities it is impossible to determine accurately the exact strength of Japanese reinforcements and auxiliary equipment which has been landed at Shanghai during the past three days.

Neutral military observers, however, are of the opinion that the Japanese landed 18,000 regular troops, including the entire 9th division, which was increased to full war strength. The Japanese also brought in a considerable portion of the artillery detachments belonging to the 12th, or Kurume division, which were merged with the 9th division. All are commanded by Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda.

Among the equipment landed yesterday were 26 new army bombers, a dozen caterpillar tanks, one field artillery regiment consisting of six batteries of four guns each, one independent mountain type artillery regiment and two battalions consisting of "sasebo" and "keichi" heavy artillery.

Strategy Kept Secret.

While the exact point from where the Japanese offensive will begin is kept secret, the fact that most of the Japanese reinforcements are being massed near the Kiangwan race course, in the northwestern sector, has caused the Chinese to adopt a similar massing of their troops in the same area.

The Japanese, who now have 47 warcraft in Shanghai harbor and vicinity, have established a naval base on the coast of Chekiang province off the port of Ningpo, south of Shanghai, where a large Japanese aircraft carrier is anchored and is being used as a hospital ship.

Bodies of dead and wounded Japanese are being transported to the base aboard destroyers and placed on the deck of the aircraft carrier, where the wounded are receiving medical attention and the bodies of the dead prepared for cremation in order that the ashes can be sent to Japan for a special Shinto religious ceremony prior to burial.

Japanese naval headquarters announced that their casualties up to yesterday were 80 killed and 480 wounded.

Report Financial Difficulties.

The declaration in Tokio yesterday by War Minister Araki that if the Chinese refuse to withdraw Japan is prepared to rush more reinforcements, possibly two or three additional divisions, was followed today by the following Reuter report from Tokio:

"Japan obviously is between the devil and the deep blue sea, for while the war minister is declaring his intention to send more divisions to Shanghai, the Japanese financial situation is rapidly becoming worse and the finance minister is opposing the dispatch of further troops."

The report said the Japanese cabinet had approved a war bond issue of 34,000,000 yen [$12,240,000] to finance the Shanghai expedition.

The Chinese Bankers' association, in order to weather the financial crisis incidental to the Sino-Japanese military complications, yesterday created an "emergency joint treasury," by which it is hoped to make immediately available fresh funds amounting to $25,000,000.

Japan Tries to Buy Victory.

It was reported yesterday that the Japanese had dispatched secret emissaries to the headquarters of Gen. Tsai Ting-hai, Chinese commander, at Chenju, near Shanghai, in an effort to "buy over" the Chinese commander and induce him to withdraw voluntarily. The Japanese are said to have offered Tsai substantial financial support to enable him to establish himself as dictator over the Shanghai district, a sort of puppet governor under the Japanese.

The American consulate today lodged a third protest with Japanese authorities over another Japanese raid last night on the premises of the middle school of Soochow university, which is located within the Hongkew section of the international settlement.

The raid was conducted by armed Japanese civilians, who smashed doors, destroyed furniture, broke windows and destroyed books.

While the raiders engaged in the work of destruction, the outside gates of the premises were guarded by Japanse uniformed sailors carrying rifles, who prevented any one from entering the school premises.

The school is operated under the auspices of the Southern Methodist mission, president of which is Dr. W. B. Nance, well known American missionary and educator.

JAPANESE BEGIN TO WORRY ABOUT CHINA STRENGTH

Fear They Will Have to Send More Troops.

TOKIO, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Japanese government officials evinced much interest today in the way Gen. Chiang Kai-shek will jump.

Military authorities express the belief that Chiang, former president of China and chief of the Chinese armies, would not take a personal part in the Shanghai conflict, although they pointed out that he has been supporting the 19th route army now in the field and might feel compelled, by growing Chinese enthusiasm over the record of the 19th, to take a hand.

Out To Destroy 19th.

It was said that if his national guard divisions—known as "Chiang's own"—joined the 19th, a new question would arise—whether the Japanese and Chinese were not engaged on a national scale instead of being involved only locally at Shanghai, as Tokio contends they are.

Japanese opinion, it was said, agrees that the 19th must be destroyed. Officials explained that the unit, composed almost entirely of anti-Japanese elements from Canton, has heretofore been victorious over the Japanese, and hence the soldiers have become national Chinese heroes.

War Minister Araki and other military leaders have publicly expressed concern about the possible need for additional Japanese reinforcements in case other Chinese units join the 19th.

Decision in 72 Hours.

Gen. Araki said the next 72 hours would determine whether reinforcements must be sent—and this was taken to mean that within that time Gen. Chiang was expected to indicate his intentions.

To send more reinforcements, the consent of the emperor and the cabinet must be obtained. Officials said the question had not been presented before the cabinet.

The foreign office today instructed the consul general at Shanghai to inform the British and American authorities that they were landing troops in the international settlement and therefore there seemed to be no reason why the Japanese should not. These instructions were to cover the Japanese consul's reply to British and American protests.

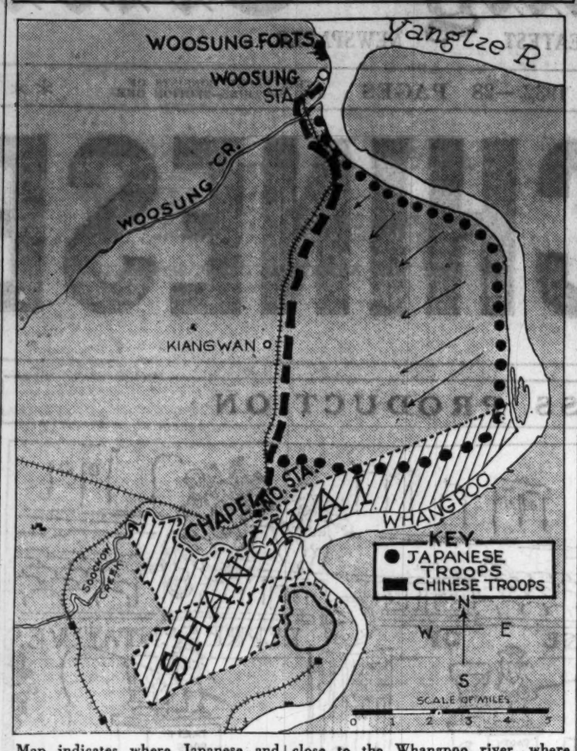
Negotiate for Manchurian State.

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Feb. 16.—(AP)—A group of Chinese leaders, watched over by numerous Japanese advisors, continued their negotiations for the formation of a separate Manchurian state today at a secret meeting in the Fengtien provincial government building.

Japanese civil and military officials asserted they were following a hands-off policy, but observers were inclined to the belief that the presence of Japanese advisers and the exceptional activity at the headquarters of Gen. Shigeru Honjo, Tokio's Manchurian commander, indicated considerable interest in the negotiations.

Gen. Ma Chan-shan, who conducted the Chinese defense of Tsitsihar early in the Manchurian campaign, arrived from Harbin by airplane to participate in the discussions. The general said the Chinese resistance to the recent occupation of Harbin by Japan had resulted from a misunderstanding that has been cleared up.

THE 16 MILE BATTLE FRONT



Map indicates where Japanese and Chinese armies are lined up between Shanghai and Woosung on parallel roads. The Japanese positions are close to the Whangpoo river, where Japanese warships are anchored, while the Chinese lines run along a road about five miles inland.

pull the British and American chestnuts out of the fire.

When their objections were overruled, the Germans and the Jugo-Slavs went around to the Japanese members' secretariat and more or less apologized for having lent their signatures to the document.

The note, which contains some 600 or 700 words, was delivered to Sato. He immediately put it on the cables to Tokio, but asked for a 24 hours' delay before it was published. This was accorded.

Links Shanghai and Manchuria.

The note makes no effort to avoid the Manchurian affair which, up to now, the league has refused to link with Shanghai. The whole situation, the note says, started with the railroad bridge affair at Mukden. The Japanese representative described this to the council as a local incident and promised that the Japanese would withdraw, but they didn't withdraw.

On the contrary, the note goes on, the Japanese went on to Chinchow and then to Shanghai, while on the other hand the Chinese troops withdrew from Chinchow to China proper. The council regrets that Japan did not fulfill her engagements to withdraw her troops.

The present appeal, the council says, is directed to the Japanese government and people to refrain from using their superior military and physical force and to their national honor to keep their pledges.

Asked to Show Self Worthy.

An international conflict, the council reminds the Japanese, cannot be settled in a permanent fashion by force. Situations arrived at by force cannot be recognized. If the conflict continues longer the harm it is bound to cause will not be limited to the two parties concerned.

Japan is told that as a permanent member of the council and in view of her special position in the east, she is under special responsibility and she is asked to show herself worthy of the confidence that other powers place in her by using moderate wisdom in this conflict.

Then Japan is asked to remember that the league covenant, as well as the treaty of Paris, call for pacific settlement of international conflicts. The council asks Japan also to observe article X. of the covenant and finally the nine power treaty, too, with its guarantees of the territorial and administrative integrity of China.

Sato Calls It "Appeal."

Little Sato, looking far less crafty than when he was seated at the horseshoe table, descended the stairs of the secretariat sadly tonight with the note in his pocket.

"An appeal to Japan," he called it.

Some other members of the council thought it was more like an "admonition." One of the authors of the note said:

"This is the most serious step yet taken by the league and the blame cast upon Japan is so clear that her withdrawal from the league is not out of the question if her representatives mean to take the hint."

For practical purposes the note is the council's, but technically the council did not meet—only twelve gentlemen representing so many nations. On the minutes, for reasons yet to be revealed, it is not carried as a council meeting. This technicality may stand the league in good stead later if it desires to avoid the responsibility for tonight's action.

SUDDEN DEATH INVESTIGATED.

Paul Gargaro, 61 years old, 1422 Sedgwick street, a former physician and pharmacist, who had been unemployed for eight months, died suddenly in a drug store at 400 North avenue on Monday. Gargaro had $3,000 life insurance. Deputy Coroner Emil Selten continued the inquest to investigate a suspicion of suicide by poison.

2 GUNMEN ROB 6 GAS STATIONS IN 9 MINUTES

Two robbers in a small automobile held up six filling station attendants on the near south and west sides last evening in nine minutes.

At 6:42 p. m. they appeared at 3036 South Park avenue and took $20 from Burton Touts. A minute later they took $23 from George Donahue at 3001 South Park avenue. The next stop was two minutes later at 25th street and Cottage Grove avenue, where Joseph Scanlon surrendered $45. At 24th street and Cottage Grove avenue the pair forced Robert Johnson to give up $18. At 6:49 p. m. Walter Kleckmer was robbed of $8 at 1800 South State street and at 6:51 Edward Zack handed over $10 at 18th and Canal streets.

The men were in a small maroon sedan with a tan top. One of the men remained at the wheel and the other, wearing a tan camel's hair coat, got out at each place, presented his pistol and took the currency. All the stations belonged to the Standard Oil company.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Feb. 16.—Fighting in the rebellion led by Manuel Castro Quesada, defeated presidential candidate, spread to the streets of the capital today and his followers began seizing provisions from grocery stores. Six persons had been reported slain.

The rebels are said to number between 500 and 600 and are well equipped with ammunition. They are maintaining headquarters in the Bellavista military garrison.

GUNMEN HOLD UP TWO STORES; GET $515 AND GOODS

Two clothing stores were robbed last night of $515 and stock valued at several thousand dollars.

Seven bandits, riding in one automobile, held up Morris Hoffman, manager of the Piezall Dress shop at 148 North Cicero avenue, and escaped with $115 and 300 dresses and 40 coats.

One gunman late last night entered the Ritz Clothing store, 151 Broadway, Melrose Park, took $400 and locked the manager, William Kassin, and a clerk, Irwin Ruzon, in a washroom. According to Kassin a truck was then backed up to the door and several men carried out clothing valued at $6,000.

CHINESE AND JAPS BOTH BOMBARD AMERICAN FLYER

SHANGHAI, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Tom Derby, an American civilian aviator, came through a bombardment by both Chinese and Japanese anti-aircraft guns today on his way from Nanking and successfully landed his ship on the race course here. Derby said anti-aircraft shells popped all around him as he passed over the Chinese lines, but neither he nor his plane was hit.

His arrival caused considerable excitement. Many persons who had seen him in the sky thought, because of the colors of his plane, that they were watching a Chinese ship come down, and a great group hurried to the race course.

Derby went to Nanking on Jan. 25 to demonstrate his ship to a prospective purchaser. The Sino-Japanese trouble delayed his return, but finally he decided to take a chance.

CHINA DARKENS LIGHTHOUSES ON HER COASTLINE

SWATOW, China, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Announcing that they were "seeking to discourage Japanese warships from coming to Swatow," the Chinese military authorities today ordered that all lighthouses along the adjacent coastline be darkened. The order resulted in protests from foreign consuls, who asserted that the action endangered shipping along the China coast. Four Japanese warships already are here.

BOY SHOT IN STRUGGLE OVER GUN.

Maurice Lamanto, 11 years old, 345 West 23d place, was wounded in the arm yesterday during a struggle with Stanley Chin, 13 years old, over possession of a revolver which young Chin had found in his father's effects at 2131 Archer avenue.

NANKING CONSTRUCTS AIR RAID DUGOUTS IN ITS BACK YARDS

NANKING, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Chinese residents of Nanking went feverishly to work today to construct dugouts against air raids. News of continued bombing at Shanghai has made them nervous.

Dugouts have been started in back yards in almost every quarter of the city. Some of them are crude, and some are elaborate, depending on the financial state of the builder. They range all the way from little holes in the ground to great cellars, costing as much as $3,000, which have been built for officials.

Canada May Name 'Special War Ambassador' to China

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Premier Bennett revealed today that the Canadian government is considering the advisability of sending a "special ambassador" to China in view of the Sino-Japanese difficulty.

CLING TO MEMEL! LITHUANIA CRIES ON 14TH BIRTHDAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KAUNAS, Lithuania, Feb. 16.—The republic of Lithuania today celebrated its 14th birthday by parades, receptions and massmeetings at which speakers urged the people not to relinquish their claim to the Vilna corridor and possession of the Memel district. While on previous national holidays the press and politicians concentrated efforts to arouse public enthusiasm for Vilna, Memel today occupies the center of attention and the feeling against the Germans is growing.

The ousting of Lithuanian students from the veterinary faculty of Berlin university, anti-Lithuanian demonstrations before the Lithuanian consulate at Tilsit, accompanied by the beating of a Lithuanian writer named Vidunas, and the appearance of the German cruiser Leipzig at Pillau near the Memel frontier, resulted in heated protests in today's oratory. The Lithuanian press informed Germany that Lithuania will not be bluffed into changing its attitude toward the Memel question.

COUNTY ECONOMY MEASURE DRAWS JIBES OF BOARD

Scoff at Proposal to Get Advice on Budget.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Members of the county board laughed yesterday at the hard pressed taxpayers.

The merriment arose when Miss Amelia Sears, a board member, presented a resolution asking various civic and business organizations to "aid in the reestablishment of public confidence and credit of Cook county and other local governments."

Miss Sears wanted the organizations to attend the board's public hearing next Saturday on its $42,199,541 budget for 1932. Her list was comprehensive and therefore of some length.

Gibes Greet Proposal.

"Why not also invite the Elks," inquired one commissioner.

"We will need the Stadium to hear all those," commented another.

"Send it to the finance committee," chorused four or five others."

"It would be in bad taste," was the argument of Commissioner Daniel Ryan against inviting the organizations to the hearing. With gibes and wisecracks, the board adopted that view; Miss Sears pleaded that a national crisis made it necessary to cut government costs, but no one seconded her motion to adopt the resolution.

County bonds were blacklisted by the government for postal savings investment when the county defaulted on the payment of $1,868,000 last June.

Schools Accept Advice.

In contrast with the county board's action the school board Monday night consulted Sewell Avery of the mayor's advisory committee, D. F. Kelly of the tax warrant sales committee, and Francis X. Busch of the public affairs committee of the Union League club. They convinced the school board that its $90,045,140 budget for 1932 cannot pay out, and that tax warrants cannot be sold on such an authorization of expenditures.

The school board, still controlled by the appointees of a former city hall administration, built a budget which proclaimed taxes for 1932 will be only 11.2 per cent lower than for 1930. One of the advisers of the trustees is said to have characterized that as "silly."

The county board has constructed a budget which asserts that taxes for 1932 will be only 5.3 per cent lower than for 1930.

The 1930 taxes place an estimated burden of $286,000,000 upon the property owners. The county board's percentage indicates that the commissioners believe that $270,000,000 in taxes can be collected for 1932. School trustees have been told a 30 to 40 per cent further cut is necessary, if the taxes are to be gotten to a point where they can be paid.

Following is the list of organizations whose advice was bought in Miss Sears' resolution:

D. F. Kelly's Citizens' committee.
Chicago Association of Commerce.
Chicago Bar association.
Chicago Bureau of Public Efficiency.
Civil Service association.
Federation of Labor.
Citizens' association.
Chicago Woman's club.
City club.
Civic federation.
League of Women Voters.
Woman's City club.
Union League club.
Editors of newspapers.

Miss Sears asked that the views of these organizations be sought "on an actual reduction in the county tax burden and the balancing of the budget by the elimination of unnecessary public expenditures."

She charged that the income from taxes, in the county budget, is too high by approximately $888,000.

Boost School Coal Prices.

The coal contractors, who supply the schools and whose bills are unpaid, informed the trustees yesterday that they will not deliver fuel except at a 30 per cent increase in prices. Charles S. Ellis for the Consumers' company, Charles C. Fitzmorris for the Eureka and Excelsior coal companies, L. T. Huston for the company bearing his name, and Joseph Hock for the Wisconsin Lime and Cement company said that the tax warrants, which they are compelled to accept, would sell for about 70 cents on the dollar.

President Myers, Trustees Carr, Brandenburg and Blatchford argued with the coal men in vain. The board decided to advertise for bids for the next three months, in the hope of getting coal at a cheaper price.

ASK EXTRADITION FOR TWO IN QUIZ ON STOLEN BONDS

Extradition proceedings will be started at once to return Oscar Mohr and Arthur Rosenberg to New York, it was said last night. The pair are held in the county jail in connection with the finding of $41,000 in stolen bonds in Mohr's hotel room. Both said they would fight extradition.

Lieut. William Fay of the New York police, after questioning the two men, telegraphed the New York authorities to start extradition proceedings. The bonds were found to be part of a lot of $53,000 in securities entrusted to a clerk by Ernest & Co., a New York house, on Oct. 26. No trace of the clerk or of the remaining bonds has been found.

TEACHERS CALL MASSMEETINGS ON BUDGET CUTS

See Peril of Pay Trims in New Economy.

Agreement of school trustees and civic leaders to more reductions in the school budget brought forth the announcement last night that three mass-meetings of teachers to discuss the situation will be held. The south side teachers will meet Monday at the Hyde Park High school, the joint board of teachers' unions called a meeting for Friday night, and the High School Teachers' association will meet tomorrow night.

Some teacher leaders, who have heretofore counseled patience, announced that a walkout would be discussed at the meetings as the teachers' answer to a policy which, the leaders say, will mean salary cuts for the unpaid instructors.

Would Close Schools.

"If the public cannot keep the schools up in a half-way respectable fashion, the schools should be closed," said Miss Agnes B. Clohesy, president of the Elementary Teachers' union.

"I would not favor a further reduction in teachers' salaries," said Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, trustee, "and I feel that added budget trims would mean salary cuts. I believe that the schools should be closed immediately, not only because of the lack of money, but also because it would awaken the taxpayers to action so that they would pay the part of their taxes they deem fair."

Criticizes D. F. Kelly.

Speaking before 200 teacher delegates of south side schools at a meeting at Hyde Park High school, Robert C. Keenan of Bowen High school criticized D. F. Kelly of the tax warrant sales committee which has been trying to get money with which to pay teachers. Mr. Keenan interpreted the Kelly committee's demand for a cut in the budget as the announcement of an intention to trim salaries. "That," said Mr. Keenan, "is directly contrary to Mr. Kelly's statement last fall that he would oppose any cut in teachers' salaries."

In a resolution sent out yesterday, the Men Teachers' union characterized the proposed budget cuts as a "fatal blow at public education."

3 Kidnaping Robbers Held in $30,000 Bonds Each

The three bandits captured last Thursday night in an attempted robbery of Neisner Brothers' variety store, 5254 North Clark street, were held to the grand jury by Judge James F. Fardy in the Felony court yesterday in bonds of $30,000 each on robbery charges. The defendants, Leonard Macey, Roy Rogers and Edward Davis, kidnaped Carl M. Coan, the store manager, from in front of his home at 5713 Magnolia avenue. His wife saw the seizure and police went to the store, capturing the three.

Deputies Herders

Deputy sheriffs in Lake county were becoming capable cowhands and farmers yesterday on the Paschendale farm of Chris Paschen, former building commissioner of Chicago. Their chief duty is to prevent 146 cows, now in Lake county, from straying across the Wisconsin line and out of their jurisdiction. The state line runs through the farm.

All stock and equipment on the farm is tied up in a legal tangle as a result of a judgment for $1,500 obtained by a fertilizer company. The problem was further complicated by the Foreman-State National bank, now absorbed by the First National bank, which stated it held a chattel mortgage on the farm stock and equipment. A hearing on the issues will be held in Waukegan tomorrow.

800 BLIND PAID $50 APIECE IN COUNTY PENSIONS

Eight hundred men and women who advanced haltingly, tapping the sidewalk with their canes or grasping the hands of companions, stood in line yesterday outside the east wing of the County hospital. One by one they filed into a doorway at 604 South Wood street, and past a grilled window where attendants handed them checks. The county was paying its blind pensioners for the period from Nov. 15 to Dec. 31. Each pensioner received $50.

"We offer to mail the checks to their homes," said Joseph Moss, county welfare superintendent, "but most of them prefer to come themselves so that they can get the checks put in their own hands. Only those who are disabled stay at home. In all, we have 1,300 pensioners and today we are paying out $65,000."

MOUNTIE 'SPOTS' FLEEING KILLER FROM HIS PLANE

AKLAVIK, N. W. T., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Making faster time than at any period since he was driven from his fortress in the Rat river district, Albert Johnson, a trapper who killed a Canadian "mountie," was believed traveling today through the Porcupine river country, about 175 miles from the Alaska boundary.

The report of Johnson's position was brought here by Capt. W. R. "Wop" May, assisting with his airplane in the hunt for Johnson. He returned for supplies and after a short stay took off for Pierre house.

Although hampered by a blizzard Sunday and Monday, the ground forces are still on the trapper's trail. Fresh teams from Pierre house have replaced eight dog teams which left Aklavik on the search.

COUNTY TO ASK ONLY $6,000,000 OF RELIEF FUND

Committee Is to Meet Ryerson Group.

Unwillingness to change the present system of unemployment relief was shown by the county board yesterday. It was indicated that the board will ask for only $6,000,000 of the $18,750,000 which is expected to be placed at the disposal of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, the statutory body headed by Edward J. Ryerson Jr.

Sitting as the finance committee, a majority of the commissioners created a subcommittee of five to confer with Chairman Ryerson and his associates. This conference will take place as soon as President Whealan of the board returns from Springfield, and it is expected to cover all phases of the administration of the fund.

To Decide on Administration.

The first question to be settled concerns the amount of the fund to be administered through the social service offices of the county board. Commissioner Amelia Sears, toward the close of the meeting, moved that the board ask for $15,000,000, thereby taking over most of the burden of the relief work to be charged to the relief commission. But there was no second to her motion.

This silence bore out earlier indications that most of the commissioners share President Whealan's opinion that the present arrangements for the division of relief work—the county doing its part by providing food, milk, shoes, and coal to a definite number of destitute families, and private agencies seeing after rent evictions and similar cases—should be continued.

To Ask Only $6,000,000.

Under this plan the county would not ask more than $6,000,000 from the state commission. Of that amount half would be asked for relief work during the remainder of the year and the other half would reimburse the county's general fund for the $3,000,000 advanced from it in the belief that it would be replaced when the state plan became effective.

Lawyers now have raised the question whether this reimbursement is possible under the new state law. That is one of the questions to be taken up with the state commission by the board's committee. The members of the latter are President Whealan and Commissioners Kavanagh, Busse, Kelly, and Sears.

PETITIONS READY TO PUT NORTHUP ON STATE TICKET

Urged to Run for Attorney Generalship.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Nominating petitions to put John E. Northup in the race for the Republican nomination for attorney general of Illinois were reported ready for circulation yesterday.

The first assistant state's attorney, who recently brought to a successful conclusion his long fought battle to convict T. J. Crowe and other leaders in the "whoopee" era of the sanitary district, declined to comment when it became known that the printed signature forms were ready to go into the hands of the canvassers. It was implied that enthusiastic friends had acted without his full consent.

Awaits Assurance of Support.

It is believed, however, that Attorney Northup will make the race if sufficient assurances of support come to him during the next few days. It is said that promises of substantial support have been made to him from many sources.

While the sanitary district case is considered his greatest triumph, Attorney Northup has a long record of success as a law enforcing official. It began in 1906 when he was appointed an assistant state's attorney under John J. Healy, a post he held until 1912. He was a special assistant in the same office during 1913 and 1914 and was a special assistant to the attorney general of the United States in 1921 and 1922.

Drafted from U. S. Position.

Mr. Northup was first assistant United States district attorney from 1926 to 1929 and in the latter year was "drafted" to become first assistant under John A. Swanson in the state's attorney's office. Most of his time since that appointment has been devoted to the sanitary district cases.

His entrance into the attorney generalship fight, it is conceded, would make it a hot one, particularly in Cook county. The two leading candidates now in the field are Judge Robert E. Gentzel, who has the backing of the Harding-Crowe forces, and the principal downstate contender is Charles W. Hadley of Wheaton, former chairman of the Illinois commerce commission.

State's Attorney Swanson, a candidate for renomination, is to be honored with a demonstration by the Chicago Jewelers' association at the Palmer house tomorrow evening.

"He will be our honored guest," read an announcement signed by Albert C. Becken Jr., president of the association. "Under his supervision we have maintained a practically unbroken record of successful prosecutions of jewelry trade crooks."

Hail McNally Candidacy.

Dr. William D. McNally's decision to run for the Republican nomination for coroner was hailed in a statement by Dr. Louis K. Eastman, chairman of a "draft McNally committee" as a matter for public congratulation.

"During the sixteen years Dr. McNally spent in the coroner's office in three major executive capacities," says the statement, "he has been time and again complimented by the metropolitan press of Chicago for his devotion to his tasks."

Attorney Barratt O'Hara has filed his petition as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for state's attorney. "There is a spirit of rebellion in the air," said O'Hara, "against the handpicking of candidates. In this instance also there are rumors that there may be an effort to make the race for state's attorney a setup for the Republicans."

PERU SMASHES REVOLT PLOT; 2 SLAIN IN CLASHES

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Two persons were killed in clashes in Callao and Lima coincident with a government announcement today that swift and drastic steps were being taken to squelch a "revolutionary plot." First hints of trouble came in a letter to the assembly from Luis Flores, minister of the interior, early today. He said the government was obliged to deport the leaders of the movement, under the recently enacted emergency laws.

REVEALS MELON SEEDS AS PART OF 'CANCER' CURE

Davenport, Ia., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Sixty black watermelon seeds, one ounce of white clover seeds and an ounce of corn silk, boiled in a gallon of water, was revealed today as one of the "secret cancer cures" of Norman T. Baker, head of the "Cancer Institute" at Muscatine, in his suit for libel against the American Medical association.

The testimony was given by Maude Randell, Sigourney, Ia., in a deposition. She said she once had been an employé of Baker and that he had written the formula and handed it to her. The "medicine," which was the "builder" referred to by previous witnesses, testimony indicated, was injected into the patients.

Before introducing the watermelon-clover seed-corn silk formula into evidence, there had been testimony that Baker's "secret cancer cure" contained a third each of carbolic acid, alcohol and glycerin with a dash of peppermint. This mixture, also said to have been injected into patients was pronounced deadly by scientists who analyzed it.

Baker, previous to being barred from the air by the federal radio commission, had been charged by the state of Iowa with practicing medicine without a license.

ARCTIC VOLCANO SHOOTS UP ROCKS; PERILS VILLAGES

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Reported as a serious menace to villages on Unimak island, Shishaldin volcano has again boiled over, shooting rock, ash, and lava for miles around. A radio message from False Pass, at the northeast end of the island, one of the largest of the Aleutian chain, said a series of explosions heard a distance of 50 miles signaled the latest eruption. Earlier this month Shishaldin erupted and its smoke and ash carried great distances over the Bering sea.

U. S. INDICTS 17; CHARGES ALIEN SMUGGLING RING

New York Immigration Official Named.

Seventeen men, including an inspector in the federal immigration department, a bank clerk, and a notary public, were named yesterday in indictments returned by the federal grand jury charging conspiracy to obtain illegal entry into the United States for aliens. The indictments listed 13 specific cases in which the accused men are alleged to have gained entry for aliens through the use of forged reëntry blanks.

According to Assistant United States Attorney James C. Leaton, who is in charge of the prosecution, the defendants formed one of the largest alien smuggling rings ever exposed. The indictments were returned before Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

Origin of Ring Described.

The operations of the ring centered on four men, according to Prosecutor Leaton. They are Vito Rizzi, 1112 Huron street; Antonio Pugliese, a New York bank clerk; Simon Rothberg, a New York immigration inspector, and Joseph Ciaccio, a New York notary.

It is charged that Rizzi, an Italian seaman, deserted his ship in New York in 1928 and wished to remain in the United States. He visited Pugliese, who in turn got in touch with Rothberg.

According to the charges, Pugliese paid Rothberg $500 to furnish Rizzi with reëntry papers. Rothberg, the indictments say, examined the immigration records and furnished Rizzi with the name and description of an Italian, legally in the United States at that time. Rizzi, it is charged, returned to Italy and reëmbarked for the United States, using the forged reëntry papers to constitute a legal entry.

Charge Rizzi Is Go Between.

According to Prosecutor Leaton, Rizzi then became a salesman for Pugliese in the smuggling of aliens. Rothberg furnished the reëntry papers, always giving the name and description of a legal entrant, and Rizzi acted as the go between with aliens, the government charges. Ciacci is alleged to have aided in the scheme by notarizing all documents.

The majority of the men named in the indictments have been arrested and bench warrants have been issued for the others. The thirteen defendants besides Rizzi, Pugliese, Rothberg, and Ciaccio are aliens who were smuggled into Chicago, according to the charges. All have applied for citizenship papers on the basis of forged reëntry papers.

A New York investigation of the same ring is expected to result in a number of indictments there. Rothberg is said to have been already named in a New York indictment, which, officials said, would have precedence over the Chicago charge.

FREE COINAGE OF SILVER ASKED BY WESTERN STATES

Denver, Colo., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the statutory ratio of 15.988 to 1 was demanded at the closing session of the western states silver conference today.

Reverberations from the silver campaigns of William Jennings Bryan sounded through the Colorado senate chambers as speakers repeated historical remarks of the great commoner in urging that the government enforce the statute which "definitely commits this country to a bimetallic standard of money."

The conference empowered its committee on permanent organization to call a nonpartisan conference in Washington "in the event the present laws of the United States pertaining to bimetalism be not thus enforced within a reasonable time hereafter."

The resolution, enthusiastically adopted by the delegates from 12 states in attendance, placed the blame for present economic conditions on the demonetization of silver; the insufficient supply of gold "necessary to liquidate the enormous amount of international, national, public and private indebtedness, at the same time carry on the ordinary flow of trade and commerce; the ease with which the limited gold supply of the world may be and now is concentrated by the United States and France; the extinguishment of the purchasing power of China, India and other silver using or silver producing countries,

BAIL TO BE CUT FOR MRS. KEGEL IF SHE GIVES UP

Judge John Prystalski of the Criminal court ruled yesterday that the bonds of Mrs. Marie Sahlin Kegel, indicted on a charge of attempting to murder Mrs. Mary Ryan with poison, would be reduced from $50,000 to $15,000 if she is surrendered at once.

Mrs. Kegel, estranged wife of Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, former Chicago health commissioner, has been in hiding since the indictment was returned. Mrs. Ryan, who was formerly a domestic in the Kegel household, and a prospective witness for the doctor in his divorce suit against Mrs. Kegel, is reported to be recovering at the John B. Murphy hospital. Yesterday she told interviewers of Mrs. Kegel's alleged enmity for her.

"Once," she said, "I went into the house and found Dr. Kegel asleep. Gas was turned on. When I turned it off Mrs. Kegel scolded me. She kept a bottle that she said contained pep-up medicine for the doctor. I took a drink of that one day and it made me sick. I told him about it. After that I was told on the telephone I would be taken for a ride. Mrs. Kegel put poison in an ice cream soda I drank after I refused to go away to avoid testifying in the divorce case."

ALDERMEN WILL HEAR STORIES OF JOBLESS PILOTS

Four of the 22 pilots discharged by Century Air lines last week called on Mayor Cermak yesterday to request that the city council investigate the manner in which they were discharged, and the way the air line handled the wage dispute that preceded their dismissals.

Mayor Cermak referred them to Ald. John P. Wilson, chairman of the council committee on recreation and aviation, and to Ald. Dorsey Crowe, who is a pilot and a member of the committee. After talking with the two aldermen the pilots announced they will put their charges in shape, gather evidence and witnesses, and present their material before a meeting of the committee.

The four pilots were C. H. Thomas, former chief pilot; Paul Kessler, Daniel Boone, and W. R. Williams. They are members of the Air Line Pilots' association, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor. They took to Mayor Cermak a telegram from Congressman Sabath requesting the inquiry. Congressmen La Guardia, Fernandez, and Maas had protested against the treatment accorded the pilots previously.

Police Hunt 'Whip' Moron After Attack on Bride

The Fillmore police were searching through their district last night for a moron who attacked Mrs. Florence Krause, 20 years old, bride of three weeks, in her home at 418 South Central Park avenue early yesterday. Entering through a window, his face masked, the moron tied up John Krause, the husband, in the bathroom. Before attacking Mrs. Krause he beat her with a leather whip.

PROBE STENCH BOMB ATTACKS.

The police last night were investigating the throwing of two stench bombs early yesterday. One broke a window of the home of Otto Strejc, a city fireman, 5744 South Francisco avenue, and the other struck a window of Samuel Cohen's barber shop at 1522 South Spaulding avenue.

FAMILY GUARDED AFTER BLAGDEN FOILS KIDNAPERS

Missing Sportsman Turns Up in Cleveland.

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—State troopers threw a guard around the home of Harry H. Blagden at Upper Saranac Lake today at the request of the wealthy sportsman, who said he had been warned that other members of his family were slated for kidnaping.

Blagden, who had been mysteriously missing since last Thursday, turned up at the home of a friend in Cleveland last night with a harrowing story of having been abducted by "big time bootleggers," who mistook him for E. Roland Harriman, son of the famous railroad magnate, who was due at his cottage that night on a visit.

The kidnapers forced him to write a note to his brother, Thomas Blagden, demanding $1,000, he said over the long distance telephone, but evidently became alarmed over the publicity given his case and failed to keep an appointed rendezvous for the delivery of the ransom money.

Warned of Further Attempt.

Before he escaped from them near Cleveland Blagden said the kidnapers warned him that they had not abandoned their determination to get money out of his family and that they were returning to Lake Placid "for others." Inasmuch as his 77 year old father, Thomas Sr., Augustus Blagden, the oldest of the sportsman's four brothers, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Blagden live at the Upper Saranac, Blagden lost no time in getting in touch with the state police here on the phone and asking them to detail a guard for the protection of his relatives.

Capt. C. J. Broadfield of the state police lost no time in ordering troopers to the scene. The captain said that ample steps would be taken to protect the sportsman's property from members of the kidnaping gang believed to be still in hiding in the Adirondacks.

Tells of Experiences.

According to Blagden's telephoned description his abductors were foreigners, evidently out of employment and bent on making a quick cleanup. Blagden said that he was held for two days in a windowless room above a garage which he believes was in Albany, N. Y. Several times during his stay there he said his captors threatened to kill him if the ransom money was not forthcoming.

Finally, he said, the men bundled him into a truck and took him to Cleveland.

"Faints" on "L" to Collect Alms; Sent to Bridewell

James Webb, 21 years old, of Olney, Ill., admitted to Municipal Judge James Sbarbaro yesterday that he had "fainted" on the average of a dozen times a day, principally on elevated trains, as a means of collecting alms. "Fined $200, and work it out in the Bridewell," ordered Judge Sbarbaro.

CLEVELAND ELECTS DEMOCRAT AS FIRST MAYOR IN EIGHT YEARS

Cleveland, O., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—After 16 years of Republican rule, Cleveland voters in a special election today installed Ray T. Miller, 39 year old county prosecutor and a Democrat, as mayor. Last November the same voters scrapped the city manager form of government after an eight year trial.

Complete official compilations of ballots gave Miller a majority of 7,703. The vote was, Miller [D.] 102,632; Morgan [R.] 94,929.

Cleveland, the largest city ever to have a city manager as chief executive, turned from that form of government after corruption in the city hall was revealed. Two Republican city councilmen were sent to the penitentiary, four others were brought to trial on graft charges and another was killed, presumably because he threatened to talk.

Daniel E. Morgan, the Republican candidate who was decisively defeated today, was appointed city manager after the trials by the Republican controlled council. He was supported by Maurice Maschke, reputed Republican boss and Republican national committeeman from Ohio.

Miller, the prosecutor who exposed the corruption that sent the councilmen to prison, campaigned for an "unshackled police force." He is a brother of Don Miller of Notre Dame "Four Horsemen" fame.

The mayoralty campaign was the most bitter in the history of the city. Newton D. Baker, United States Senator Robert J. Bulkley, Congressman Robert Crosser, and other prominent Democrats took the stump for Miller and urged the voters to fight for clean government.

The Republicans brought thousands of Negroes to the city hall to register. Democrats charged fraud and scores of arrests were made. Police found that 21 Negroes had given the address of the office of Councilman Herman Finkle as their home. Finkle said they were unemployed and that he permitted them to live there.

Miller will take office as soon as his election is certified, which probably will be either Thursday or Friday.

Cat Locked in Mail Box Attacks Mail Carrier

Evansville, Ind., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Difference of opinion concerning what constitutes a joke may result disastrously for the person who put a cat in a rural mailbox on an Evanston route. Oscar Wiggers, who carries mail in the eastern section of the city, reports that when he opened a box upon which the signal flat was up, a cat fighting in a fury of fright leaped out at him. The matter has been reported to the United States inspector of mails.

Iowa Cuts Salaries 5 Pct. at Three State Colleges

Iowa City, Iowa., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Salaries of all employés, from presidents to janitors, at the University of Iowa at Iowa City, Iowa State college at Ames, and Iowa State Teachers college at Cedar Falls, will be cut 5 per cent for the fiscal year of 1932-33, it was announced today by the Iowa state board of education. The year begins July 1.

OUST OUTLAW BILLBOARDS BY NEW ORDINANCE

Revised Regulations to Force Fee Payment.

The corporation counsel's office yesterday began the preparation of an ordinance, at the request of Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady [14th], which is designed to collect license fees from nearly 8,000 billboards which are believed to have been erected in the city without permission of the authorities.

The measure is being drafted by Gibson E. Gorman, assistant corporation counsel, as the result of public hearings on the billboard question conducted by the council committe on judiciary, of which Ald. O'Grady is chairman.

New Safeguards Provided.

Regulations requiring frontage consent of property owners and compliance with zoning regulations for erection of billboards remain the same as those in the present ordinance. The new measure, however, requires that each billboard beaf a plaque giving the date on which a permit was issued for its erection by the city.

Ald. O'Grady said that as soon as the proposed ordinance is passed, he will seek council authority for the removal of all unlicensed billboards. Enforcement of the order rendered easier by the requirement for the dated plaques, he said, should result in the collection of nearly $40,000 in fees from the 8,000 boards which have been erected without permits. He said he would also endeavor to find the dates of erection of these unlicensed signs, and collect annual inspection fees for the period in which they have been in use.

New Schedule of Fees.

The proposed ordinance also sets up a new schedule of fees for erection of billboards, replacing the former flat fee of $5 for each 25 linear feet of sign, with a limit of 12 feet on the height. The new fees are $2 for signs under 24 square feet in area, $3 for signs form 24 to 100 feet square in area, $4.50 from 100 to 200 square feet in area, $5 from 200 to 375 square feet, and for signs larger than this, $5 for the first 375 square feet plus 5 cents a square foot for additional area.

The standard commercial billboard for printed bills is 12 by 25 feet, and would pay the same fee of $5 under the new ordinance as it does under the present one. In addition to fees for erection of the signs, the city charges an annual inspection fee for all billboards.

JUDGE ORDERS THREE YOUTHS BE SPANKED AND DOES IT HIMSELF

Woodbury, N. J., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Police Recorder Frank L. Johnson sentenced three schoolboys charged with having broken the lock of a motion picture theater's exit door to see the movie, to receive ten lashes each tonight, and then administered the flogging himself with a borrowed strap.

The boys, Franklin Heiser, 16 years old, Norman Redfield, 15, and William Elliott, 12, were accompanied to court by their mothers.

Recorder Johnson found them guilty and fined each $5. Then he asked their mothers if they did not think the boys should be flogged. The mothers agreed and volunteered to give them a good spanking when they got them home.

"It is quite likely that you would spank the boys," Johnson admitted, "but I am going to be sure they are punished, so I'll do it myself." And he did.

FLAT JANITORS TAKE PAY CUT; EFFECTIVE MAR. 1

Will Save $2,000,000 for Property Owners.

BY AL CHASE.

Two million dollars annually will be saved property owners as a result of a drastic reduction in the wages of Chicago's 7,500 flat building janitors which will take effect on March 1. This was announced last night by Arthur Kruggel, chairman of the renting and management division of the Chicago Real Estate board, which negotiated the wage cut with the Chicago Flat Janitors' union. The new agreement provides for a 5 per cent reduction in the wage schedule and in addition reduces the charges for janitor service in vacant apartments.

ARTHUR KRUGGEL. [Wallinger Photo.]

Actually the reduction in janitors' wages will figure much more than 5 per cent, according to Mr. Kruggel, who points out that the schedule is based on a sliding scale of apartment rentals and with rents at the figure they are today, the reduction figuring from April 1, 1931, will be from 13 per cent upwards.

Second Cut in 13 Years.

This is the second reduction taken by the janitors in the last thirteen years. On April 1, 1931, they accepted a 5 per cent cut, but only on buildings of six flats or more. At that time all extra charges for maintaining various kinds of equipment were eliminated. It was then estimated that property owners would save about $864,000 in janitors' wages. The present agreement applies to all kinds and sizes of apartments which have janitor service.

The reduction in charges for vacant apartments is as follows: flats with a rental value up to and including $35, $2.75 per month for a suite, making a reduction of seventy-five cents; flats with a rental of from $36 up to and including $59, $3 per month for each suite, or a reduction of fifty cents; apartments with a rental of $60 and above, $3.25 a flat, or a reduction of twenty-five cents.

Mr. Kruggel said the wage reduction was effected after considerable negotiation. He said the unions felt that they had their wages thoroughly deflated as a result of last year's 5 per cent cut, which was based on rentals, and with the heavy fall in rents during 1931 the janitors' pay envelopes suffered proportionately.

Shrinkage of Wages.

He said that whereas the average wage received by Chicago flat janitors prior to the cut last year was $175, a fair average is now $115. Last year a janitor got $7.60 for a flat which rented for $120. Now, with the rent down to $90, he gets only $5.70. Now, with a 5 per cent cut, his $5.70 shrinks to about $5.40, provided the rent doesn't go any lower.

In the negotiations between the realty men and union officials the flat janitors' union was represented by Oscar F. Nelson, counsel for the union and vice president of the Chicago Federation of Labor; Jerry J. Horan, president of the union; Gus E. Van Heck, vice president of the union and Claud F. Peters and E. G. Anderson.

Mr. Kruggel was assisted in his negotiations for the Chicago Real Estate board by Thomas J. Fleming, of Ross & Browne, and Louis T. Orr, of the Howard & Orr company.

Pay Cut for Machinists.

Charles W. Fry, business manager of the machinists' union, informed members of the city council finance committee yesterday that the union's members had voted to accept a reduction of their wages from $11 to $10 a day, or a fraction over 9 per cent. The new scale becomes effective March 1. This follows the recent reduction of 20 per cent by the Building Trades council. The machinists are not affiliated with the council.

Garner-for-President Club Formed in His Home Town

Detroit, Tex., Feb. 16.—(AP)—A hundred Texans, most of whom knew Speaker Garner of the house of representatives as just "John," gathered in his old home town tonight to form a Garner-for-President club. They braved the blackland mud and heavy fog to come to the chamber of commerce hall. Congregating about a smoky wood-burner stove, they effected an organization to "remain active and in force until John Garner is elected President."

6 OF 9 SUPREME COURT JUSTICES ARE FROM EAST

Rest of Country Has 3 Other Members.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Appointments to the Supreme court within the last few years has robbed that body of most of its intersectional character. With the confirmation by the senate of Judge Benjamin Nathan Cardozo of New York City the eastern seaboard will have six members on the court compared to three for all the rest of the country.

While in the ordinary it is generally conceded each section of the country is entitled to representation on the nation's highest tribunal, actually geographical claims largely have been disregarded in recent years.

Of three appointments to the court made by President Hoover, all have gone to eastern men and all have been won by New Yorkers.

Two New York Native Sons.

Outside of New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania but three other states can point with pride to a native son sitting on the Supreme court bench. Three members of the court were appointed to the high tribunal from New York and Judge Cardozo's confirmation will bring that number up to four. Of the four, two, Justice Charles Evans Hughes and Judge Cardozo were born New Yorkers; the other two moved that after taking up the practice of law. Associate Justice Harlan F. Stone was born in Chesterfield, N. H., being admitted to the New York bar in 1898. Associate Justice James Clark Reynolds was born in Elkton, Ky., moving to New York in 1907.

One Born in England.

Of the five other associate justices, one each came from Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Utah, Wyoming and Minnesota. Associate Justice Willis Van Devanter was appointed from Cheyenne, Wyo. Associate Justice Louis Denbitz Brandeis was born in Louisville, Ky., but has lived in Boston since 1879. Of the other three, Associate Justice George Sutherland comes from Salt Lake City, although he was born in England; Associate Justice Pierce Butler from St. Paul, Minn., and Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts from Philadelphia.

At the time Judge Cardozo's name first was mentioned for the appointment his chances were considered rather poor. The consensus was that the President would turn to the west or the far west. Late last week geographical considerations were brushed aside and the appointment handed to Judge Cardozo.

HELD FOR SHOWING REVOLVER ON BUS.

St. Joseph, Mich., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Eugene Lambright, 43, of Chicago, said by police to have terrorized passengers on a Chicago-Battle Creek motor bus with a pistol, today was bound over to the Berrien county grand jury by Justice J. W. Rody. Lambright was charged with carrying an illegal weapon.

BAIN'S DOCTOR, REALTOR NAMED IN TRUE BILLS

Only 6 to Be Included in Indictments, Report.

Dr. Walter Buhlig, John Bain's physician, and Frank Mulholland, south side real estate man, were reported yesterday at the criminal courts building to have been named in the batch of true bills voted by the grand jury in the Bain bank investigation.

The grand jury was said to have reconsidered its original action of Monday in naming fifteen persons as guilty of conspiracy in connection with the crash of the twelve Bain banks last June. The indictments to be returned today, according to reports, will list only six persons.

Act on Raber's Advice.

Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber, although refusing to discuss any phase of the situation, was said to have pursuaded the jurors that they should not return true bills against persons where the evidence was not conclusive. Those scheduled to be named in the indictments today are as follows:

John Bain, president of the twelve banks; John H. Bain and Robert A. Bain, his two sons who were officials of several of the banks; W. Merle Fisher, his son-in-law, who was also an official; Dr. Buhlig, director of several of the banks; and Mulholland, director of the Chicago Lawn State bank.

Dr. Buhlig, according to the records, owed the banks $269,680 when they closed. Mulholland had borrowed $358,641. These were the largest loans obtained by individuals with the exception of John Bain, who borrowed $884,163 from the banks as an individual and $1,402,023 through his companies. The two sons, John H. and Robert A. Bain, and the son-in-law, Fisher, obtained $185,000 in loans.

Four indictments are to be returned it was said. The first indictment, charging conspiracy, 125 pages long, will review the entire Bain case, reciting details of mismanagement, manipulation of funds, withdrawals from trust funds, misuse of funds, and other fraudulent items.

Three Banks Involved.

The other three indictments will charge the Bains and Fisher, as officials, accepted deposits while knowing the banks to be insolvent. Only three banks of the Bain chain will be involved in the trial, it was said. One was undisclosed last night. The others are the Englewood Trust and Savings bank, the original bank from which the chain grew, and the Stony Island State bank.

Two felony court cases, charging the Bains and Fisher with embezzlement, obtaining money under false pretenses and operation of a confidence game upon bank customers, will be dropped when the indictments are returned, it was said. The cases will probably not be brought to trial until May, Mr. Raber said. He is going to take a vacation next week, he said, and upon his return will press for an immediate assignment of the cases by Chief Justice Harry Fisher.

Delay Trial of Nelson.

The trial of State Auditor Oscar Nelson in connection with the closing of the Waukegan State bank will be continued again today because of Mr. Nelson's illness. It was learned yesterday that Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff, the presiding judge, is also confined to his bed and the case was put over until tomorrow with a possibility that it may then be continued for several days.

The Hubbard Woods Trust and Savings bank of Winnetka was closed by the state auditor yesterday at the request of the board of directors. Safety deposits in the bank had dwindled from $470,000 in June, 1930, to $210,000 at the time of closing.

CUTTING TAXES IS FIRST NEED BUDD DECLARES

The greatest problem before the nation is the control of its expenses to the end that taxes may be reduced "before the very government is overpowered," Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington railroad, declared yesterday. He addressed a luncheon of the Inland Press association, which met in annual convention in the Morrison hotel. Final sessions will be held today.

RALPH BUDD.

Railroad taxes in the aggregate amount to nearly a million dollars a day, Mr. Budd said. He suggested as one step toward economy in operating expenses, the consolidation of the present 1,000 operating companies into 25 large railroad systems.

The basic economic laws have not been upset by the depression, but upheld, Mr. Budd said.

"No greater mistake can be made than assuming that the changes of the last two years are due to changes in fundamental laws, or that these laws have been proved erroneous," he said. "Supply and demand must control prices. If too much debt accumulates it is bound to prove embarrassing when it falls due."

Col. McCormick to Speak at Hamilton Club Session

LAVAL SPEAKS UP, SO SENATE KICKS OUT HIS CABINET

French Premier Loses on Vote of Confidence.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 16.—A youngster of 48 summers named Pierre Laval this afternoon raised his voice a bit too loud to please the conscript fathers in the French senate and thereby inaugurated the second cabinet crisis of the year. And because Premier Laval spoke up, President Paul Doumer tonight accepted the collective resignation of the government.

Laval's impassioned plea for a three day stay of execution to permit the French delegates at the international disarmament at Geneva to reply with necessary authority to the German "offensive" expected tomorrow only hastened the government's fate. The senators did not think that the premier's request was in good taste and the ax fell with an adverse majority of 23 votes.

Simply an Ancient Grudge.

The vote was on the government's motion to adjourn for three days to answer interpellations on its general policies as demanded by Senator Albert Peyronnet. Leaving aside all technicalities, the issue simply was that the senators had an ancient grudge against Laval and decided that he was not going to choose his own time to answer for his sins on the pretext of national expediency. Laval rashly made his request for delay a question of confidence after it had been refused as a simple request.

The situation roughly is similar to the occasion when the chamber of deputies upset the Andre Tardieu government during the London naval conference on the question of taxing married shopkeepers.

Laval's supporters in the chamber held an indignation meeting tonight and condemned the senate for overthrowing the government "on a question of date." They announced that they would oppose any cabinet not based on the same lines as the last.

Hunts for Premier.

President Doumer tonight began consultations with a view of finding a premier acceptable to the senate. If such a man exists most people believe it is Joseph Paul-Boncour, who would thus become foreign minister and continue as chairman of the league of nations council at Geneva.

The cabinet crisis has developed into something like a feud between the senate and the chamber. The senators, it is generally known, are angry because the bill granting women the right to vote in chamber elections passed that house. They see in its passage the hidden hand of Laval.

The government's resignation has left the French delegation to the disarmament conference stranded and its members are coming home tomorrow, dispatches from Geneva said tonight: The delegation is headed by Andre Tardieu, minister of war in the now defunct Laval cabinet.

The actual fall of the cabinet was brief and dramatic.

"I have a right to ask for a postponement to answer an interpellation," he cried. "You have the right to choose between your passions and the interests of France. I appeal to your conscience."

The senators spoke by ballot and Laval walked out with his ministers.

Aviation Notes

Capt. Frank M. Hawks, holder of many speed records between cities in the United States and abroad, has accepted an invitation to be the guest at a dinner given jointly by the Air Traffic club, the Early Birds club, and the Chicago chapter of the National Aeronautical association in the Hotel Sherman next Tuesday.

Licenses have been granted 19 airports by the Illinois Aeronautics commission, it was announced yesterday. The commission plans to take action against unlicensed airports. Fields near Chicago that are licensed include Pal-Waukee, Air Activities, Sky Harbor, and the Chicago airport.

Forty-nine years were saved passenger flying on United Air Lines last year, the company has computed. The 43,000 passengers flew an average of 500 miles at a speed of 115 miles an hour. The time they spent in travel was one-third of that which would have been required in the fastest surface travel.

Russell Gardner of the aeronautics branch, department of commerce, conferred with air line executives and pilots yesterday on the proposed new rating to be established by the department for air line pilots. The preliminary draft of the rating requirements include tests on blind flying and the use of radio, and require a minimum of 1,200 hours' flying time.

BAR PROMISES QUIZ ON FREEING OF TWO ROBBERS

CRIMINAL COURT.

Sigmund Fiyer, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory; James Johnson, robbery, 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Eddie Cook, larceny, 1 year in the Bridewell; Harry Larson, larceny, 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory; Albert Hintz, larceny, 1 year in the Bridewell; Wilfred J. Schaefer, larceny, 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory; John Turner, larceny, 1 year in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Rudolph Desort.

Clarence P. Denning, secretary of the Chicago Bar association, said yesterday the board of governors of the bar association will make an inquiry at their meeting tomorrow into the freeing of Carl Parker and Stanley Wilson, robbers, after they had been sentenced to the penitentiary. They will inquire into the propriety and legality of the proceedings through which Judge Charles A. Williams placed the prisoners on probation as a favor to Judge Edward D. Shurtleff of Marengo, Mr. Denning said.

State's Attorney Swanson said yesterday he vaguely recalled the incident of bringing the convicted robbers back from the penitentiary and releasing them. He said he would ask one of his assistants to determine the legality of the court's action in vacating the original sentence after the court term had ended. Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating head of the Chicago crime commission, said the commission would "take effective action."

Assistant District Attorney Edward A. Fisher was instructed yesterday by District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson to make an investigation with the view of indicting Parker and Wilson for the robbery of a drug store in which a subpostal station was located.

'FUNDING' BILLS MAY BE SHELVED UNTIL NEXT APRIL

Woods' Pot Shots Bring Him Reprimand.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—All indications in the state senate tonight pointed to postponement of consideration of the Chicago tax "funding" bills until April 19—after the primaries. They have passed the house but fell foul of delay in the upper chamber because they do not call for a start in the payment of 1930 taxes until October.

After spending four hours listening to an explanation of the bills, given by Nathan William MacChesney, counsel for the Chicago Real Estate board, the senate listened to a suggestion from its majority leader, Richard J. Barr of Joliet.

Barr Urges Delay.

"These bills are not well digested," said Senator Barr. "My notion is that considering their magnitude, they should not be killed immediately, but I do believe we should postpone consideration of them until April 19. If we vote now we will be utterly in the dark as to what we are doing. I believe after a recess we will get a saner expression from both houses on what should be done."

The feeling of many members was expressed by Harold Kessinger of Aurora.

"We could recess for two months and do as much good as would be accomplished by the immediate passage of this legislation," he said. "It won't raise any money because the bonds called for in the 'lifting' process cannot be sold."

Roy Woods of Chicago held that the bills should not be abandoned but should be advanced to third reading tonight and voted "up or down" tomorrow. He took a few potshots at the delay in choosing officials under the Kelly plan for the revision of Chicago's taxing machinery—a step which brought a sharp reprimand from Thomas J. Courtney of Chicago, the minority leader.

The predictions were made that tomorrow the senate will adopt Barr's suggestion for postponement and that a joint resolution will be passed in both houses declaring a recess until April 19.

May Paint Other Side.

Before this is done, however, it is likely that a picture of what a delay in collecting taxes until October would mean to Chicago as seen by opponents of the "funding" plan, will be drawn for the benefit of the senators.

In his lengthy explanation of the plan, which was marked by frequent interruptions and by many questions from the floor, Mr. MacChesney described it as the only one which will give Chicago taxpayers any relief.

GOVERNOR CONFERS WITH CHICAGOANS ON NAMING OF ASSESSOR

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Gov. Emmerson, D. F. Kelly, the Chicago merchant; President Emmett Whealan of the Cook county board, and Corporation Counsel Sexton of Chicago were in conference all day today on the naming of a new assessor for Cook county provided for by the Kelly bill wiping out the existing taxing machinery.

It is understood tonight that the name of J. L. Jacobs, efficiency expert for Chicago and Cook county, occupied the time of the conferees more than any other. Mr. Jacobs has signified that he does not want the post, but his proponents believe he could be induced to reconsider.

FRIENDS OF IGOE TURN BARRAGE ON CERMAK'S TICKET

Downstaters Assail Democratic Slate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—In a caucus distinguished by loud voices and bitter personal disputes, downstate Democrats in the house of representatives today passed a resolution condemning the Democratic state slate as the product of "bossism." The slate gives Chicago every advantage as to patronage, a bulk of the assemblymen felt.

TRUMAN A. SNELL.

While his name was not mentioned in the caucus, it was apparent that friends of Representative Michael L. Igoe, candidate for governor, were behind the call for the meeting. Frank W. McClure of Abingdon was chairman and the resolution was read and buffeted through by Howard L. Doyle of Decatur. Both are stanch Igoe supporters.

Mayor Cermak was the target of the abuse. He was referred to as a "dictator," and Truman A. Snell of Carlinville, candidate for attorney general, said that "the attempt by the 'machine' to write a ticket for us is an insult."

About 40 downstaters were in the caucus when it began, but the number had dwindled to thirty when the resolution came to a vote. Only two members fought it vehemently—Arthur Roe of Vandalia and A. B. Lager of Carlyle. Roe and McClure came close to a fist fight at the close of the meeting and harsh names were used.

As finally adopted, the resolution was much tamer than it was originally. However, one of its paragraphs read:

"Be it resolved by the undersigned Democratic members of the Illinois house of representatives that the action taken [that of slate making] is a reflection on the Democratic central committee in that said action was not the free and voluntary expression of individual members of the state committee, but the operation of a political machine speaking through proxies and not persons; that said action is un-American, un-Democratic, and an insult to the intelligence of every voter, in addition to being a direct attack upon the principles of Jeffersonian and Jacksonian Democracy."

Mills Urges Gasoline and Higher Income Taxes.

tricity and manufactured and natural gas, $94,000,000.

5. Additional one cent tax on capital stock sales and transfers, making the total tax four cents, $11,000,000.

Surtax to Start at $6,000.

The increased surtaxes on individual incomes would be obtained by starting the surtax at $6,000 net income instead of $10,000 and boosting the rate all along the line to 42 instead of 40 per cent on incomes of $500,000 and over. Mr. Mills' supplementary compared with his December proposals on surtaxes are in detail:

	Dec. proposal [1924 surtax rates]	%.	S'plementary proposal, %.
$ 6,000-$ 10,000	.....	0	1
10,000- 12,000	.....	1	2
12,000- 14,000	.....	1	3
14,000- 100,000	grad.	2 to 36	4 to 38
100,000- 200,000	.....	37	39
200,000- 300,000	.....	38	40
300,000- 500,000	.....	39	41
500,000 and over	.....	40	42

Mr. Mills expressed preference for a limited group of excise taxes to the general manufacturers tax favored by the Democrats from the standpoint of administration and economic considerations, but he thought such a tax would be feasible if held down to 2 per cent, with no exemptions and adequate administrative authority granted. A single, unpyramided manufacturers tax, he estimated, would yield 600 millions at 2 per cent.

Might Drop Gas Tax.

If the manufacturers tax were adopted he suggested retention of the further increase of corporation taxes and individual surtaxes he proposed today, but dropping the gasoline, gas and electricity taxes. That would make it possible to meet the deficit in this way:

1. Corporation income tax [increase of 1 per cent in rate and elimination of exemption]	$ 69,000,000
2. Individual income tax	184,000,000
3. Estate tax [basis of 1921 tax]	5,000,000
4. Sales or transfers of capital stock [increase present rate of 2 cents to 4 cents]	22,000,000
5. Admissions [1 cent per 10 cents; 10 cents exemption]	110,000,000
6. Increased postal revenues	150,000,000
General manufactures' sales tax [2 per cent], tentative estimate	600,000,000
8. Reduction in expenditures	100,000,000
Total	$1,240,000,000

Representative Charles R. Crisp [Dem., Ga.] acting chairman of the committee, said that because Mr. Mills still proposed to make corporation and individual income tax increases retroactive his estimates of the revenue to be derived from his proposals would fall 107 millions short of meeting the deficit with the retroactive provision eliminated as decided by the committee.

LAME DUCK MEASURE IS PASSED IN HOUSE BY 335 TO 56 VOTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—The Norris resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to abolish the short session of congress passed the house today by a vote of 335 to 56. As the resolution had already passed the senate, it was sent into conference, where the differences in the house and senate measures are to be ironed out.

The action of the house in ratifying the resolution ended a ten year controversy between the two branches of congress over the fixing of a limit on the second annual session of congress as provided for in the proposed amendment. Seven times the senate has approved the measure but the house had never passed it until last session and then only after effecting so many changes that the differences could not be ironed out in conference.

The resolution in order to become a constitutional amendment must be ratified by the states within seven years.

The "lame duck" resolution does away with the short session of congress and the long wait that now elapses between the time a president is elected and the date when he assumes office. A president, if the proposed amandement is ratified, would take office in two instead of four months after the November elections.

The house bill provides that terms of representatives begin on Jan. 4 while the president and vice president would take office on Jan. 24. As the measure was adopted by the senate congress would convene on Jan. 2 and the president and vice president would take office on Jan. 15.

18 MORE CALLED FOR VIOLATIONS OF SMOKE LAW

Eighteen persons and business concerns were summoned yesterday by Frank A. Chambers, chief city smoke inspector, to appear at his office today to explain dense smoke coming from their premises. Those summoned are:

J. Machulis, 8856 Lowe avenue.
O. A. Rath, 2229 North Spaulding avenue.
Charles T. Ritchie, receiver, 5210 Woodlawn avenue.
Chicago Mail Order company, 511 South Paulina street.
Service Laundry, 3320 West Lake street.
Gulbranson Piano company, 816 North Kedzie avenue.
American Pipe Tool company, 4533 West Harrison street.
Pioneer Cooperage company, 446 North Hoyne avenue.
Individual Tow and Cab Service company, 3258 Graves court.
Overland Candy company, 1732 Austin avenue.
A. W. Swayne, 3200 Sheridan road.
Waggoner Service station, 4900 West North avenue.
Baird & Warner, 1334 Lunt avenue.
Apex Smelting company, 2556 Fillmore street.
American Furniture and Novelty company, 2617 Flournoy street.
Loyola university, 706 South Lincoln street.
Chicago Title and Trust company, 4711 West Madison street.

At the hearing Mr. Chambers will give instructions in proper firing methods and will warn that if a violation of the city smoke abatement ordinance is noted within 30 days subsequent to the hearing suit will be started in the Municipal court against the violator.

JAILED FOR FALSE FIRE ALARMS.

Walter Tokarz, 18 years old, 4859 South Hermitage avenue, and Roman Schroder, 17 years old, 4940 South Hermitage avenue, whom Battalion Chief Daniel Cullman caught in the act of turning in a false fire alarm Monday, were sent to the Bridewell yesterday by Municipal Judge J. William Brooks to work out fines of $50 each.

He bitterly attacked the three senators who, during the more than two weeks of debate, had most vigorously opposed his bill.

Recalling the obedience with which the senate had passed the Reconstruction Finance corporation bill and other measures in the President's legislative program, he taunted the senators with their willingness "to act on whispered orders."

During its last day's progress the bill was bombarded with amendments. Most important of these was one by Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], which would have done away with he declared, "for the President on the authorized instead a $375,000,000 appropriation to be allocated to the states by the President and on the application of various governors. This proposal set off an explosion in the person of Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader.

It was asking too much of the Democrats, said Senator Robinson, to request them to give the President control over the disposition of so great a sum.

"It will be humanly impossible," he declared, "or the President on the eve of a national campaign to secure the expenditure of this huge sum with absolute impartiality."

Further Efforts Predicted.

Though the most radical relief bill has been disposed of, it is a sure thing that congress has not seen the last of somewhat similar efforts to pass legislation providing for federal unemployment relief.

As much was intimated by Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.] when he urged the conflicting factions to meet in conference tomorrow and try to get together on a compromise measure.

Senator Black, co-author of the previously defeated Democratic substitute bill, which would have loaned $375,000,000 to the state, and given a like amount for federal road work, reintroduced the bill again late today as the basis for future negotiations.

During a brief but strenuous debate following the vote on the relief measure, and in which Senator Norris, Radical-Republican of Nebraska, sought to make his anti-injunction resolution the unfinished business, Senator Glass urged that right of way be given the banking bill.

The senate finally agreed to take up the Glass-Steagall bill tomorrow and to take up the anti-injunction measure on Feb. 23.

HELD AS SUSPECT IN TWO MURDERS.

Fingerprints and a photograph of James Miller, alias Duvall, 29 years old, 3204 West 51st place, paroled ex-convict, who was arrested Monday, were sent yesterday to Kirksville, Mo., and Omaha, where a man using the same alias is wanted for murder.

JUDGE PROBES ACTIVITIES OF SURETY COMPANY

Judge John Prystalski of the Criminal court yesterday began an investigation into the methods of the Public Indemnity company, a concern furnishing bonds for criminals, and the practice of certain defendants who have funds, but who have obtained the services of Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach free of charge.

JUDGE JOHN PRYSTALSKI.

The inquiry was precipitated by the appearance of Wilma Harjes, a maid, and four co-defendants charged with conspiracy in connection with the theft of gems worth $104,000 from the home of Mrs. Lawrence F. Stern at 931 Sheridan road, Glencoe, on Sept. 1, 1931.

Judge Prystalski was informed that Attorney Bachrach was not only representing Miss Harjes, but also Max Levy, a diamond broker, who had been freed on bonds of $18,000 posted by the Public Indemnity company. "If Levy had enough money to pay the indemnity company for his bond, why doesn't he have enough to hire a lawyer?" Judge Prystalski asked. Attorney William Markheim, who negotiated the bond for the concern, was then called in and questioned by the judge.

Markheim told the court that a man named Frank Ryan, whom he did not know, had negotiated the bond for Levy.

"What collateral did Levy give?" asked Judge Prystalski.

"We were given an $18,000 judgment note from Levy," Markheim answered.

SON IS ILL; MOTHER SOUGHT

What it means to own an EIGHT by PIERCE-ARROW

priced as low as $2495 at Buffalo

Where hand-craftsmanship still endures

Pierce-Arrow cars are constructed in their entirety in the great Pierce-Arrow plants at Buffalo, New York . . . by the finest hand-craftsmen in the industry. Precision operations dealing with one-tenth of one-thousandth of an inch are among the scores of exacting requirements with which Pierce-Arrow fineness is expressed.

PIERCE-ARROW ownership has been brought within easier reach of many people by the new Eight . . . which is quite the finest car of this type that has ever been built—even by Pierce-Arrow.

The fact that Pierce-Arrow is enabled to offer an Eight at today's prices is due to the definitely increased purchasing power of today's dollar . . . and to the fact that Pierce-Arrow has chosen to pass along this economic advantage to its patrons.

In the new Eights, Pierce-Arrow has preserved and even added to its famed elements of fineness. Each model typifies Pierce-Arrow hand-craftsmanship in its ablest expression—which means days of time and care and skill where hours serve lesser cars.

The low prices are coupled with the highest values in the history of fine car manufacture.

TAX PAYMENTS URGED TO CLEAR FINANCIAL FOG

List More Unpaid Levies on Near North Side.

The lack of tax payments is one of the reasons for the financial difficulties of the city, parks, schools, county, sanitary district, and other local governments. Thousands of property owners have failed to pay their 1929 taxes, believing their assessments are too high.

Payment of a substantial part of the overdue taxes would help to lift the local governments out of their financial bog. Those who believe their taxes are too high could pay what they deem is fair and contest the remainder in the courts.

A bill is pending before the general assembly to give a taxpayer credit for any excess payment now made on subsequent tax bills, so the risk of paying now is thought to be negligible.

Unpaid Tax Items Listed.

Some of the property owners who have not paid their taxes own property immediately north of the river. Under items No. 752, 800, 801, 804, and 805 of volume No. 479 are five properties valued for taxing purposes at $89,072. These are credited on the tax records to J. F. Sturdy, 115 East Chicago avenue. The taxes on these properties total $5,602.66. An injunction has been obtained restraining the county collector from advertising these properties for sale because of the nonpayment of taxes.

Under items No. 190 to 191 of volume 479 is a property valued at $290,076, which is assigned on the tax records to the Tewes Building corporation. The $18,245.79 taxes on this property has been objected to in court, and no part has been paid, according to the records.

The Tower Garage company, care of Ross & Co., appears as the owner, agent or name of the last person to pay taxes on property valued at $163,826. This is described under item 811 and the unpaid taxes total $10,304.66. Objection has been filed against this sum in the county court.

$14,684 Unpaid Tax Listed.

In the same tax volume under items 435, 436, 437, 438, and 439 is a property credited on the tax books to William N. Pelouze. The total valuation for taxing purposes is $232,879. The taxes on the property total $14,648.11. An injunction prevents its sale for taxes, and the records show that no part of the taxes has been paid.

M. F. Schiovmy, 10 South La Salle street, is the name and address set opposite property described under item No. 515. This property is valued at $167,016. The taxes are $10,505.31. The owner is protected by an injunction.

Under items Nos. 231 and 232, credited to William Sibley and G. Howard, trustees of estate of Edward G. Shepherd, is still another property valued at $164,956. Objection has been filed in court to the $10,375.74 of taxes on this property, and no part of it is shown by the records to have been paid.

Another property valued at $113,266, described under item No. 743 is credited in the tax books to the State Bank of Chicago, trustee, care of Hedberg & Bistor. The $7,124.44 taxes on this property have not been paid.

Money Needed for Interest.

If all of these taxes were paid, they would supply probably enough money to pay interest on the tax anticipation warrants outstanding for two days. If they are paid it will be in the nature of a voluntary contribution, because County Judge Jarecki has held the 1928 and the 1929 taxes illegal and void. But tax lawyers assert that eventually the holders of real estate will be compelled to pay some taxes.

MISS MADELINE SLADE.

COUNTY MAY PIPE DOWN ON FORESTS TILL HAPPIER DAYS

County Commissioner Walter J. La Buy yesterday introduced a resolution before the board of forest preserve commissioners urging that no further land be purchased for the district until financial obligations have been met. Since Dec. 15 the district has defaulted on bonds and interest to $1,275,000. The resolution was referred without discussion to the district finance committee.

Before the county board Commissioner Charles Weber presented a resolution for withholding the $24,000 annual rental paid to the University of Chicago for the Cook County School of Nursing at 509 Honore street. He declared the rental to be exorbitant because the county pays for maintenance of the building and because the university does not pay taxes on the property. He said he would seek collection of back taxes and asked that university officials appear before the board to show why the rental should not be cut.

The board awarded a contract for 750,000 barrels of cement to the Marquette Cement Manufacturing company, which was low bidder at from $1.29 to $1.47 a barrel depending on the destination of the cement. The contract will exceed $1,000,000. The board also let nine other contracts on materials for highway work in 1932.

LONDON TO WRECK WATERLOO BRIDGE FOR $6,500,000 SPAN

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 16. — Waterloo bridge, described as the most famous British monument of the 19th century, is to be demolished, according to a decision of the London county council today.

The present 115 year old structure will be replaced by a new one costing $6,500,000 and carrying six lines of traffic. It is estimated it will take five years to build. Sixty per cent of the cost will be borne by the government.

Today's decision ended a controversy which had raged over the bridge for nine years.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BOMBAY, Feb. 16.—Miss Madeline Slade, Mahatma Gandhi's English disciple, who was ordered today to leave Bombay before tomorrow night and not to return without permission, has defied the British government.

"Come any time Thursday morning. I shall be here," Miss Slade was reported to have told the police. She added that she did not intend to leave Bombay, but would continue her usual activities in behalf of the all-India national congress.

If arrested, Miss Slade will be the first European apprehended in connection with the civil disobedience campaign. Since Gandhi was jailed she has been in Bombay carrying on propaganda for handspun goods and keeping in close with those nationalist leaders who have not been arrested.

Youth, Held as Burglar, Threatens Prosecutor

A threat by one of their number to "get" Assistant State's Attorney Edward Markham caused Justice of the Peace John L. Kreitzer of Oak Park to raise the bonds of four youthful alleged burglars whom he had just held to the grand jury yesterday. The bonds were boosted from $5,000 to $20,000 each. The prisoners were Walter Bulawa, 19 years old, 1921 South Trumbull avenue, who uttered the threat and tried to hit the prosecutor with a paperweight; Frank Niperony, 17 years old, 2345 South Whipple street; Joseph Machowski, 18 years old, 2221 South Trumbull avenue, and John Hamernik, 19 years old, 2823 West 20th street.

Gunmen Seize Woman in Loop Building; Get $3,000

Miss Fannie Rose, 1120 North Harding avenue, an employé of S. L. Greenstein, dress manufacturer, was robbed of $3,000 of the firm's receipts yesterday by two armed men who seized her in the corridor of the building at 320 South Franklin street, in which the concern's workshop is located.

IRISH ELECTION MOST PEACEFUL IN ALL HISTORY

Record Vote Cast; Count Ballots Today.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Feb. 16.—Ireland went to the polls today soberly and quietly to choose a new government in what is admitted to be the most important election since the establishment of the Irish Free State.

The issue was the maintenance of President William T. Cosgrave's government, which, its supporters contend, has brought the country through dangerous years of infancy and established prosperity and solvency, or its replacement by a government led by the stormy Eamon de Valera and his Fianna Fail.

Record Vote Cast.

A record vote is believed to have been cast. Party managers declare that 90 per cent of the registered voters of the Free State exercised their franchise. The heavy vote is regarded by politicians as a favorable omen for the government party. They state that the De Valera following is largely made up of enthusiastic youths who can be relied upon for their vote anyhow, while the government is depending on the older and more solid citizens. Many of the latter are former Unionists and Redmondites who abstained from voting in former Free State elections, but whose support may turn the scale for Cosgrave this time.

In Dublin there was no outward excitement and few indications of the progress of the election. There were the usual motorcars dashing about, decorated with the national colors, taking voters to the polls, but visits to various polling places revealed nothing more exciting than groups of half a dozen youths hanging around the doors.

The most outstanding sight was Shapurji Saklatvala, the famous Indian communist, who came from London to help two communist or "saor eire" candidates. He paraded the streets carrying a huge red banner and was followed by a crowd of cheering street urchins.

Quietest Election in History.

No disturbance has been reported so far and indications are that this election will go down as the most peaceful in Irish history despite the assassination of two government candidates on Sunday.

Polls closed at 9 o'clock tonight. Counting of the ballots will commence tomorrow morning. Under the complicated proportional representation system this is a slow process and, while city results may be known tomorrow night, it is not expected the final result will be known until Friday night. Even then it may not be possible, for the Sligo and Leitrim county elections were postponed on account of the political murders.

That district has seven seats in the dail and if the election is close the result may depend on them. The delay in the two county elections is expected to result in the adjourning of the meeting of the new dail, called for March 2, for one week, but lawyers are not sure yet whether this would be legal. If not, the organization of the house and the election of a new government might fall into the hands of the minority.

6 Die as Snowslide Plunges from Turkish Mountain

ISTANBUL, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Six persons were killed yesterday in a snow slide off Mount Zigana, near Trebizond, reports reaching here today said, and rescuers were digging in the huge snow pile for other possible victims. The slide swept away a hotel and a private home. A blizzard raging along the Black sea sank the Turkish cargo boat Loutfie off Eregli, but all the members of the crew were saved.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

KEEP SENATOR GLENN AT THE FIGHTING FRONT.

The demand for retrenchment in government expenditure and relief from the tax burden, a burden which is retarding the recovery of business, is heard throughout the country. It is becoming an organized demand, which it must be if it is to produce essential results. Congress thus far is deaf to it. It is busy devising new ways of getting money from business and the people and new ways of spending.

The revolt against this suicidal folly is everywhere but in congress. It must find champions there, and the people of Illinois are glad to know that Senator Glenn is with them in the fight. He has spoken again for retrenchment, telling the members of the Association of Commerce and Illinois Manufacturers' association the other night that the growth of bureaucracy and federal expenditures "has raised the question whether our government can continue as a government." This is the most important issue before the country today, ignored in congress, but driven home to every citizen. No dole of billions, preached by politician quacks, will solve it, but only make bankruptcy overwhelming.

While congress prepares destructive nostrums, misnamed relief, it turns its back upon retrenchment and upon one of the most practicable means of increasing revenue, the modification of the Volstead act. Senator Glenn is for both methods of relief, a relief that will relieve. Readers of Arthur Sears Henning's article of Sunday on modification learned something of the weight of disinterested expert opinion supporting legalized beer. For example, Prof. Edwin R. A. Seligman, one of the leading authorities on taxation in the United States, says that the restoration of the government tax on liquor would yield a return of a billion and a half, permitting the abolition of the personal income tax and a substantial reduction of state and local taxes. Estimates of the tax revenue from legalized beer alone range from five hundred millions up to a billion.

Congress must face the issue of government bankruptcy and it must heed the demands of business enterprise and the people for relief. It must shake off the domination of dry fanaticism and find ways of balancing government accounts which do not insure ruin. The legalization of beer is one of the chief resources, if not the chief, which congress has left untouched. Fiscal sanity must find resolute and able championship at Washington. Senator Moses' forceful speech Monday night shows that it is appearing. Senator Glenn, one of the first to realize the momentousness of this issue, should be kept in the senate to carry on his battle for real relief. He should be renominated by the Republican party of Illinois and reelected by its people.

THE PHILIPPINES.

Apart from the recent demands of special interests like the sugar beet growers, cordage makers, etc., to set the islands adrift immediately, there has been no sign that the American nation has the faintest idea of what its real intentions are as to Philippine independence. It has never receded from the vague doctrine that some day the islands shall be free. Permanent occupation has not been put forward as a policy by either party, but changes in administration do not affect actualities. Although the Filipinos talk of liberty as their inalienable right and unalterable requisite it is not even known how much of this is rhetoric and how much considerate ambition. So we all drift.

One of the newest Philippine bills is that of Senator Vandenberg proposing a twenty years' period of readjustment in which the status of the Filipino will be changed gradually. He will learn how immigration restriction and tariff changes will affect him. He will have time to shift his business arrangements to a new base and learn to live on some other economic arrangements than such as include special American advantages. American investments in the islands will have time to adjust themselves to new conditions and prospects.

If the decision had been made to recede from the far east outposts which were hesitatingly occupied after 1898 then the method proposed in the Vandenberg bill is probably sound. It would not be fair to any of the interests involved or true to the relations of ward and guardian to cut loose as by cutting a hawser with an ax. Many Americans do not like the idea of a recessional. Americans are close enough to their own origins to sympathize even with ill considered aspirations for self-government, but the Philippines have shown before the unpleasant consequences of responsibility with uncertain control.

Secretary of War Hurley declares that the bills for early independence, if enacted, would "cause economic chaos, social anarchy, and political revolution in the islands," and he believes that "the political chaos in the orient" is such that the question of independence cannot be profitably dealt with at this time. The discussion in the United States has been until recently all from the viewpoint of what is good for the Filipinos [with little knowledge among the disputants upon which to base a sound judgment of what is likely to be good for them]. Meanwhile, what is good for the United States has had in recent years little consideration from congress. The larger considerations of national interest are likely to get little attention from either the professional altruists who conceive of the United States government as an eleemosynary institution maintained for the benefit of every country but its own or from the various special interests which are now equally anxious to get rid of the islands on any terms.

Informed and disinterested Americans will agree with Secretary Hurley that with our present preoccupations this is no time to formulate a conclusive policy for the disposal of the Philippines.

WAGES.

The acceptance of a 20 per cent wage reduction by building labor in Chicago was an acceptance of the inevitable. Regret at the losses which will be suffered may be tempered by the thought that living costs are lower and building operations in Chicago have been almost at a standstill for many months. The depression in the building industry set in well before the stock market crash of 1929. An overwhelming majority of building mechanics have had next to no employment for a year and more, and if the chart shows that a man who formerly received $14 a day is now to receive only $10 it is not fair to conclude that the man's pay has been reduced by $4. Of the $14 he received nothing. Perhaps he will receive all of the $10. Even that is not an adequate statement of the facts, for it has been an open secret that few building mechanics who have been employed have received the full union scale. Particularly on small projects union men have been working for less than they were supposed to be getting. Probably the reductions which have been agreed upon merely regularized the bootleg scale.

At any rate, a reduction of labor costs does offer some hope of a resumption of operations. Other industries, if they have not already taken similar steps, will have to do so. This is true because men will remain idle if they will not work at wages which industries can afford to pay, and for the further reason that individual enterprises and whole industries must perish if they cannot market their goods.

Competition in the building industry is chiefly between new construction and existing buildings. If, roughly speaking, the estimated cost of a new building is higher than the price of an existing one which can be made to serve, the new building will not be erected. Competition in other industries is more intense. Buildings compete only with buildings, but the manufacturer of cotton goods competes not only with his own kind but also with the manufacturer of linen, rayon, and silk. Coal as fuel competes with water power, oil, and gas. The steam railroad competes with the truck, the bus, the ship, the privately owned passenger car, and the interurban line. Copper is in competition with iron in the manufacture of pipe and with aluminum in the manufacture of electric transmission cable. All foods are in competition. There is scarcely a product of the field, the mine, or the factory for which modern technology has not a substitute. Any narrowing or enlarging of the price differentials between these rival products must lead to a loss of markets for one and a gain for another.

A manufacturer must be prepared to sell his product in competition with rival manufacturers in his own industry and with manufacturers in rival industries. And, of course, cities are also in competition. If the cost of doing business in Chicago is less than it is in St. Louis, manufacturers and distributors, sooner or later, will take advantage of the fact. A city whose labor costs, taxes, switching charge, or any other fixed cost is abnormally high must expect to have its markets narrowed and therefore must expect to decline. The communities whose business men and labor leaders first recognize this relationship and act upon it will be best able to survive the present storm and profit by the upturn when it comes.

Editorial of the Day

"CRIMINALLY UNWISE."

[New York Herald-Tribune.]

Senator Reed's description of the La Follette-Costigan bill as "criminally unwise" fits the measure in its original form. In its amended form even this characterization of it seems inadequate. To appropriate $750,000,000 for unemployment relief from a treasury that already needs more than a billion in addition to its present income if it would balance its budget next year suggests a form of insanity.

It is not only the size of the expenditure but the manner of it that condemns the proposed orgy. One will gladly agree that the federal government is bound to come to the aid of its hard pressed citizens when local sources of relief have been exhausted, and as generously as the occasion requires. But these other sources are obviously not exhausted, and, even if they were, a general handout apportioned among the states according to population would have neither justice nor adequacy to recommend it.

There undoubtedly are too many communities which have found that the funds currently at their disposal are inadequate for their relief problems. Failing their ability to raise more locally, their first recourse in each instance should be to the state legislature. For example, at the hearings in committee on the La Follette-Costigan bill social workers and others from New York City and Chicago testified that in neither city would the voluntary contributions plus the appropriations of city and state suffice to meet the situation. Is it contended, then, that neither New York nor Illinois can afford to devote more money to succoring its own? And what business have they or other commonwealths accepting charity from Washington until they have reached the end of their taxing power or credit? There may be states which will in time arrive at this condition, but there is no provision in the bill to ascertain the fact or how great their need may be. On the contrary, it would hand their relief agencies an arbitrary sum based on a census enumeration and do the same in the case of all other states, rich and poor alike.

The bill carries an appropriation of $375,000,000 for this purpose. This appropriation has now been doubled to provide a similar sum for federal road construction, whether or not the states are in any hurry for roads and whether or not they can afford to maintain them, once built. Another amendment eliminates a proposed check on the personnel of the state units which would administer relief money, and still another erases a section authorizing the children's bureau to investigate statements of needs and plans submitted by state agencies. Altogether, the desire of the bill's supporters seems to be to scatter the treasury's dwindling resources with one wild, hysterical fling, regardless of their disposition. If their performance is not simply a humorous gesture, then it smacks of the pathological. As to that, the country will be able to judge when the final vote is taken.

FOR THOSE WHO LOVED HIM.

There's a new note in the west wind
Now that harvest time is done,
Like a distant blowing bugle
With the setting of the sun;
For the west wind's call is stronger
As it takes one by the hand,
Leads one on the great adventure
In a valley borderland.

There's an evening star at evening,
See how bright it seems to gleam:
Does it mark a new beginning
Or the ending of a dream?
Down the drowsy road to somewhere
One may hear the silver chime,
Guiding one who journeys bravely
In an early harvest time.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS yesterday sent orders to both the Chinese and Japs to stop the war; a splendid new battle, much bigger than the others, began immediately. The league ought to quit stopping the war, it just makes things worse.

NOW, LITTLE CHILDREN of the primary class in journalism, consider this sentence from The Trib yesterday morning: "Dr. Fishbein pointed out that Dr. Cabot's suggestion has been proven unsound in the present depression." Great minds differ on this subject, but we incline to the belief that there is a much better chance of a theory being tested as to its merits if it should be proved. Somehow, when a thing is proven, we at once jump to the conclusion that it is unsound. Having proved our point, children (to our own satisfaction at least), you cangetthell out of this classroom.

THA DUKE SAYS THA MAMA FALLS FOR EVERYTHING.

Well, she got took again. This time it's 27 bucks worth of books. Seems she's got a deal with Rockefeller that if he builds tha universitys she will furnish tha students. A gink crashes our gate lass week an pulls tha old army game of he's working his way thru collidge an if he can get one more order he's all set an by next June he'll get his lawyers license, also if she ever needs his legal services he will furnish them free fer nuthin gratis. If she scatters any more of my dough she'll need tha lawyer to help her get alimony. The books is entitled "How to Raise Childrun," I'm buyin a set called "How to Raise Hell." I dont get mad often (espeshully on Tuesdays) but with her education a set of scrub brushes wood be something she'd at least understand. My ole lady raised us kids okay an tha only book I ever saw aroun tha house was a almanac she got fer nothin at tha drug store. When we hadda sore throat she use to ty a wet sock around our neck an next morning we wuz cured. Tha B. an C's. book calls fer serum, diet an a throat spechalist. Page 6 tells ya tha new way of treating prolonged crying spells, it claims you can cure a child in less than 3 days with the aid of patience. My ole man cood do it in 3 minutes with the aid of a barrel stave. Book No. 2 dwells on a cure for toothache, tha article says you can depend on what it says, the ole man depended on a string an a door knob. What gets my goat is tha interest the Mama is takin in vitamins A and B, when I know damn well tha kids wood rather eat a piece of bread an butter with sugar on it. Liver seems to be a great necessity. Tha butcher only wants 78c a lb fer it. What I wanna know is how did liver all of a sudden graduate into tha caviar class. When we wuz kids tha butcher gave us enough ta keep our 3 cats going fer a week an didn charge a cent providing you bought 3 lbs of chuck. Stummick ake is now called by a fancy Latin name an shood be cured at a cost not exceeding 2 bucks, a nickels worth of Injun wawwaw at the drug store used to last our house fer a year. Chest pains nowadays are dangerous simptons an call fer extended treatments. I got rubbed with goose grease. Sometimes I think Ma made a mistake on me by gettin a hold of tha wrong bottle, from tha looks of things she must of got hold of hair restorer. Ennyway I aint so mad at tha B an C cause I think she really had tha kids interest at heart. What really gets my goat is how these backdoor artists can honswaggle her into buyin the damdest trash. I'll swear she's bought 10 diffrunt can openers, each one operates diffrunt so that no one finger can be cut twice in tha same week. Dick, if ya hear of anybody wanting to hire a purchasing agent, let tha B. an C. know. DUKE BAKRAK.

E. B. S.

IT'S GROWING DREADFULLY MONOTONOUS reading the statements made by all of our best people who are on the way to Reno or Paris to get a divorce. Each of the principals in what we used to view as a domestic tragedy declares over and over again how very, very highly they regard the other, that they are really the very best of friends, and that if future woe should come they would turn first for help to the dear, darling, much esteemed lamb they are about to get a divorce from. What a relief to read some day in a society or movie divorce that one of the parties to the suit chased the other out of the house with the bread knife or that they broke up housekeeping with an ax and two guns.

FIGURES were published yesterday showing that three thousand soldiers, Japanese and Chinese, have been killed thus far in the war. More figures revealed that thirty-three thousand people were killed by the auto and one million injured in the United States in 1931. And yet Gen. Sherman said war was hell. What price peace? R. H. DIETING CONSUMPTIVES.

IN the course of a report on the Gerson and Hermansdorfer-Sauerbruch diets for tuberculosis, as they have been used at Saranac, N. Y., Dr. Edgar Mayer gives his views and those of others on various questions of dietetics. This discussion is in order, since these German diets differ so radically from the ordinary sanitarium diets. He and those he quotes find a good deal of basis for diets that are low in common salts.

Man is the only animal that uses what he calls denatured salt as an addition to his food for the purpose of seasoning it. This custom ordinarily does no harm because the human machinery has a considerable capacity for detoxifying salt. There is considerable experience that shows that excess of salt in the diet is partly responsible for some cases of urticaria, nettle rash, and eczema. In more than one itching eruption the objectionable symptom will disappear if a diet poor in salt is given.

Common salt is a combination of sodium and chlorine. The evidence seems to show that the element at fault is sodium. The cases do better if the chloride of calcium, potassium, magnesium, or strontium is used in place of the sodium salt.

He does not discuss the claim made by some that excess of salt in the diet makes for cancer.

Sugar and other carbohydrates are necessary ingredients of the diet. The Eskimo gets about one ounce a day of this food ingredient and this can be taken as about the smallest amount that the human animal can get along with. However, the tolerance for carbohydrates is great. A man can go a long way over an ounce a day before he begins to threaten his well-being.

There is the same broad range of safety in the use of proteins such as cheese, lean meats, and eggs. About two ounces a day is the minimum below which the diet should not be allowed to go. Around four ounces a day is the maximum for all except convalescents and rapidly growing children. These rapidly growing children require more lean meat and eggs for each pound of body weight than do men engaged in hard labor.

It may be best for men with some forms of Bright's disease to cut their proteids below two ounces daily. However, if the diet does not supply enough the body is liable to burn the tissues of important organs in order to get the required amount of protein. We can greatly increase the intake of fats above the basic level without making much change in the body.

Dr. Mayer thinks we are paying too much attention to vitamins. The average person, eating the average amounts of the average foods, gets about as many vitamins as he needs and in about the right proportions one to another.

TEACHING BABIES QUICKLY.

A. T. writes: Some time ago in your column you said babies should be trained at six months old so as to make the diaper unnecessary, or words to that effect. In a recent letter from my daughter, who has been a missionary for twenty years amongst the Basutos and Zulus in South Africa, she said, in speaking of the heathen women, they surely could give the American mothers a lesson in the training of babies, because from the time of their babies' birth the baby was held out, and just as soon as the navel has healed the baby is tied on the mother's back, for not more than twenty to thirty minutes at first, gradually lengthening the time daily. Now, as the baby has no napkins on, the mother notices the first sign of restlessness, and so avoids trouble by releasing and holding it out, and by the time babies are three months old they are trained perfectly, and some babies learn even more quickly than that.

HEART IN NO DANGER.

W. C. writes: I am troubled with pleurisy, which causes a sharp pain in the heart. How can I cure it?

REPLY.

The pains in the chest wall that most people call pleurisy pains are due to rheumatism of the muscles or neuritis. The heart is in no danger. Most people can cure such pains with porous plasters or liniments.

NO DANGER.

P. C. writes: I have been told that it is harmful for an older person to sleep with a young child. I am a woman of 31 and sleep with my little daughter, who is only 9 years old. Is there any harm to this? I am perfectly healthy.

REPLY.

None.

THEY ARE SNOW FENCES.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—[Friend of the People.]—We would very much appreciate any information you can give us regarding the fences that can be seen at intervals all along the drive. The pickets are painted red and the fences are numerous around Oak street. Our first thought was that they were to keep the snow off the drive. However, the fences do not seem very strong—at least not strong enough to withstand a heavy snow storm. A. S.

The writer is correct in her assumption that these are snow fences. They are of standard make and design and have proven to be of sufficient strength to withstand the snowstorms we get in this region.

SHOULD NOT SIGN.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can a man get into trouble for signing a petition for a judge because he only has his first citizen papers? 2. If he can, what should he do? I have been trying to get my final papers, but I seem to have a lot of trouble. The reason I signed the petition was because I was ashamed to say I wasn't a citizen yet. 3. Where can I get more information about my passport so that I can get my papers soon? B. J.

1. You should not sign a petition representing that you are a voter, if you are not a voter, if that is what you mean to ask.
2. Wait until steps are taken against him.
3. The officials with whom you have dealt at the naturalization office are in a better position to advise you than we are.

ASK PROHIBITION OFFICERS.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I intend to move this coming spring. I have made several barrels of wine for the use of myself and family. 1. Can I move this wine to my new residence? 2. Is there a punishment if I move it? 3. If this wine is moved and no dry agent caught me moving it at the time, but finds out later that the wine has been moved from one place to another, can I be punished? 4. What is the punishment? J. M. B.

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1894

SHANGHAI, July 29.—News has been received here that the same day the naval engagement took place the Japanese troops ashore attacked the Chinese at Asan, Corea. No details of the attack have been received. The Chinese official account of the engagement between Chinese and Japanese warships says the Chinese ironclad Chen-Yuen, which is one of the largest vessels of its class belonging to the northern fleet, retreated to Kotze and escaped capture by the Japanese. The latter, the report adds, captured a dispatch boat and sank a transport. Six other transports escaped. The fighting, though of short duration, was severe. One of the Japanese warships discharged a torpedo at the transport Kow Shung. A terrific explosion followed on the Kow Shung and it began at once to sink. Many of those on board were shot dead on its deck. Every foreigner on board ship, which had been chartered by the Chinese from an English company, was either killed in the fighting or went down with the vessel. Of nearly 2,000 Chinese troops on board only forty were saved.

YOKOHAMA, July 29.—An imperial edict has been issued calling out the army and navy reserves and ordering them to report forthwith at their respective headquarters. Chinese residents of Japan are greatly alarmed at the threatening outlook and are fleeing from the country in large numbers. Reliable information has been received at Tokio that the main body of the Chinese army crossed the northwestern frontier of Corea on July 25.

BERLIN, July 29.—Advices from Seoul by way of Shanghai show that upon refusal of Corea to accede to Japan's demands that the Chinese troops be sent out of the country the Japanese advanced on Seoul. After a short encounter in which the Coreans were defeated the Japanese occupied the royal palace. The king of Corea thereupon asked the foreign representatives to intervene.

28 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 17, 1904.

LONDON.—Detached fragments of news from the seat of war in the far east indicate to military experts here that Japan has landed an army in force at the head of Liaotung gulf, somewhere near New Chwang, and that Russia has blundered in massing her forces along the Yalu. With one Japanese army north of New Chwang and another of 100,000 along the Yalu river, the Russians will be caught between two strong forces and likely be attacked on both flanks. The Times correspondent at Port Arthur under date of Feb. 13 telegraphed that the Japanese were driven from the neighborhood of Kinchau, near New Chwang, after a skirmish.

ST. PETERSBURG.—Viceroy Alexieff may be shorn of all military and naval authority because of the many blunders committed in the first ten days of the war. At present he is commander in chief of all land and naval forces in the far east. So general is the public disapproval of his conduct of the war that a movement is on foot in favor of the immediate appointment of Gen. Kouropatkin, the war minister, to command the land forces, and to give Admiral Skrydloff command on the sea.

TOKIO.—A report has just reached here that the Japanese torpedo fleet again attacked the Russian fleet at Port Arthur on Feb. 14.

ST. PETERSBURG.—Russia's answer to rising British sympathy for Japan is the dispatch of Lieut. Gen. Ivanhoff to Tashkend, near the Afghan frontier, to prepare plans for the invasion of India to be used in the event of British interference in the war in the far east.

PEKING.—Nineteen thousand Chinese troops are marching to Manchuria to prevent fighting between the Russians and Japanese on Chinese territory. China has notified the powers of its move.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 17, 1916.

CHICAGO.—Jean Crones is alive. He was in New York on Feb. 16, according to an apparently authentic letter signed with his name and received in the office of the New York Sun. Boston dispatches say that he was seen in that city last night by a man who used to work with him in Chicago. The letter to the Sun indicates he gloats in the notoriety he has received as a result of his plot to poison 200 guests at Archbishop Mundelein's banquet. He says that he disguised himself for his escape by bleaching his hair white with chloride of lime and sulphuric acid and has since tinted it red. He boasts he is a radical and proud to be an anarchist and threatens that he will make another wholesale poison attempt.

PETROGRAD.—Erzerum, the great Turkish stronghold and key to Armenia, has fallen before the Russian Caucasus army under the command of Grand Duke Nicholas. Confirmation of the capture of the city is given in a message from the grand duke to the emperor which says: "God has granted the brave troops of the Army of the Caucasus such great help that Erzerum has been taken after five days of unprecedented assault." Unofficial dispatches say that the Turkish defenders, numbering perhaps as high as 160,000 men, are in flight toward the west through the difficult mountain regions with a large Russian army pursuing them. Another dispatch says that the German field marshal Baron von der Goltz was in command at Erzerum with 80,000 men and that their escape had been cut off.

THE BRITISH TARIFF.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 12.—Last week I noticed on the front page of THE TRIBUNE the signed article about the English tariff in which the idea was emphasized that Great Britain had abandoned her traditional free trade attitude.

True, to a certain extent, but very few people seem to know and I wonder if the writer of the featured article knew that Great Britain, in the last comparable year for which figures are available [1929], collected as much in dollars and cents in excise as did the United States, or 2½ times as much per capita as did the United States.

How the fiction can so long continue—that Great Britain is wholly "free trade"—I do not understand. Your paper and the Detroit papers and others have emphasized the 10 per cent duty being applied but usually have not explained that this is a 10 per cent blanket duty on everything with exceptions not already taxed. As stated above, the present excise taxes amount to as much as the taxes collected by the United States. The principal subjects of the taxes were, in the order of their importance:

1. Breakfast table duty items [sugar, coffee, etc.].
2. Spirits [including beer].
3. Silk.
4. Tobacco.
5. Hydro carbon oils [including gasoline].
6. Motor cars.
7. Synthetic organic chemicals.

I am not in any sense taking issue with those who feel that our own tariff is unduly high, but I think it is well, in discussing the subject of tariff, to make proper comparisons.

All of the countries in the world, in my opinion, would do well to reduce tariff barriers and increase their trade with one another to mutual advantage, but I do not think anything is gained by articles which leave the impression that the United States is the arch offender as so much of European and other publicity would lead people to believe.

The whole discussion, I believe, emphasizes the desirability of treating tariffs on a scientific basis, the best attempt, so far, being our tariff commission.

H. H. RICE.

THE WAY TO HELP.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 13.—In your editorial today opposing the unemployment relief plans of the progressives, you say: "The way to help the unemployed is to help American business to employ them." What do you mean "help American business"? Do you want to raise the tariff?

Years ago the congress repealed the excess profits tax. The income tax has been reduced several times since the war, on the Coolidge plea that more profits for the rich would cause them to invest more, and thus furnish work for workingmen. The practice of your doctrine resulted in the fiasco of 1929.

Well, the progressives are right: they would reverse your formula, and say the way to "help American business" is to furnish work for the unemployed and open up a market for the products of shop and factory.

G. CARLSON.

ANOTHER GAS BILL.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Since 1930 my gas bills have grown so large that I am paying for gas more than I used to pay for rent in the old days in the '90s. I have a Pittsburgh heater, a pilot in my gas heater burner and a pilot in the gas stove. My family is small, and we are not particularly extravagent with hot water.

I wrote to the gas company in January, complaining that my bill was so large that I felt it necessary to make a protest. My December bill was $13.43. They sent a man out to investigate. He pronounced that everything was all right. Our gas bill in January was $16.21. I presume that the gas inspector meant "all right" for the company. Our November gas bill was $11.66, October $9.52, September $3.18. C. B. ALDRICH.

ANOTHER.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—A month ago I had the gas company adjust my range on account of the increased bills of the two previous months. I no doubt made a mistake, as my bill, received a few days ago, is more than twice what it was a few months back and a 10 per cent increase of the month previous.

What's the answer? W. A. S.

FEES.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—If, as reported, Mr. John A. Carroll, receiver for the closed South Side Savings Bank and Trust company; Mr. Samuel Ettelson, attorney, and two associated legal firms, are being paid the sum of $48,000 out of the $195,000 received in settlement of the Foreman stockholders' liability, then the depositors of the closed bank may very justly rise to ask a pointed question. How comes it that the receiver allows such a sum [nearly 25 per cent] for fees to himself and his associates, out of one settlement, while the unfortunate depositors whose interests he is supposed to guard have in six months received but 25 per cent of their money with a promise of a meager 10 per cent more in the near future?

ANXIOUS DEPOSITOR.

BUSINESS METHODS.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—On Dec. 10 I sent a check to Joseph R. McDonough, county collector, to cover my personal property tax for 1929. The check was deposited in the Central Republic bank on Dec. 18 as per canceled check which I have.

To date I have not received a receipt for these taxes, although I sent the double bill to the county collector with a check and inclosed a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Inquiring at the county collector's office I was recently told that it took from two to six weeks before receipts were sent to taxpayers.

Can any one tell me why it should take this long to mark the duplicate bill paid and mail it in a return self-addressed, stamped envelope? L. C. H.

STREET NAMES.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—I see in the paper that a street along the lake front has been discovered without a name. Call it Damen avenue and put Robey street where it belongs. Move Wacker over to the outer drive and give us South Water street back. Restore the proper titles to all the other streets, such as 12th, 39th and 67th streets; also the avenues [40th, etc.]. Allow no more changes to street names. There are enough new streets coming up to satisfy the most avid glory hunter. HARRY E. ENTLER.

NEW CHAIRMEN IN HOUSE BELIEVERS IN MODERN ARMY

Collins, McSwain Want More Machines.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Reorganization of the American army along more modern lines may be the outcome of the rise to house committee chairmanships this session of two exponents of the combat tank, the airplane, and poison gas as vital elements in national defense.

The two men are Representative John J. McSwain [Dem., S. C.], chairman of the house military affairs committee, and Representative Ross A. Collins [Dem., Miss.], chairman of the house subcommittee handling army appropriations.

Want More Machines.

Inquiry from the two new chairmen disclosed today that both favor cutting down the number of horses in the army, reduction of the cavalry arm and the use of modern war machines in place of man power whenever possible. Both are opposed to treaties forbidding the use of poison gas and both emphasize the importance of a large air force.

Chairman Collins goes much further than even the most enthusiastic of the present crop of machine enthusiasts in the American army. His plan calls for gradual substitution for man power of machines, and air and gas as weapons. The new army appropriation bill favors reduction of officer personnel by 2,000, a move opposed by the highest officials of the war department as unwise. It is understood he also favors a cut in expenditures for the R. O. T. C., the C. M. T. C., and the reserves. He would make military training elective rather than compulsory in the schools.

Chairman Collins would remodel the American army along the lines advocated by Capt. Liddel Hart, British exponent of machine warfare. Mr. Collins said he believed that an army organized along the lines favored by Capt. Hart would be far superior and less costly than the present American army.

McSwain Raps Cavalry.

Chairman McSwain said today that he considered cavalry almost obsolete and aviation of the highest importance. He asserted the machine has almost supplanted the horse.

"I would place the highest emphasis upon aviation," he said. "This powerful modern instrumentality for both transportation and combat must receive the greatest possible aid, consistent with reasonable economy, in our scheme of preparedness. I recognize that the cavalry is almost obsolete. In fact, the use of horses in field artillery is now very limited.

"While I sympathize with every effort for coöperation among the nations to reduce the probabilities for war, and minimizing the horrors of war, yet I feel that we must at all times maintain an adequate defensive establishment.

"Furthermore, I feel that treaties seeking to eliminate certain modes of warfare such as submarines and poisonous gas and trying to set up a sort of genteel warfare are futile. When war breaks no nation will set any limit to the agencies of destruction that it may employ upon the enemy."

VINSON TO PUSH NAVY BILL

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—An appeal for congressional son and Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.], former chairman of the committee.

Both Chairman Vinson and Representative Britten expressed confidence that the Vinson bill authorizing the support of legislation authorizing all ships needed for bringing the American fleet up to the strength allowed by the London naval treaty will be made from the floor of the house this week by Chairman Carl A. Vinson [Dem., Ga.] of the house naval committee. This move was decided on following a conference between Mr. Vinconstruction of 120 war vessels at an eventual cost over a ten or twelve year period of 616 millions would be reported out favorably by the house committee.

Agrees to Back Measure.

Mr. Britten, who voted with Chairman Vinson in his move to hold up the Vinson bill several weeks ago, now agrees with the Democratic leader that the bill should be placed before the congress for action.

Chairman Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.] of the senate naval committee plans to make a new attempt to pry his warship construction bill out of committee within the next week or two. Up to the present time the membership of both committees have declined to report the authorization bills out in the face of White House disapproval.

Would Get Stimson's O. K.

Some members of the house committee now take the position that the state department should be asked for its approval before the Vinson bill is recommended to the house for action.

"I do not agree with this viewpoint," Mr. Britten said today. "I cannot see why we should ask the state department for approval before we vote out a bill to back up the foreign policies of our government."

MOORING MAST HERE U. S. WORLD FAIR PROPOSAL

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Location of a permanent mooring mast at Chicago capable of handling the largest airships became a strong possibility today when the budget director approved a bill providing for the expenditure of one million dollars for an extensive government exhibit at the World's Fair. The plan is to expend $550,000 for a suitable building in which to house government exhibits, a part of the balance going for the construction of a modern portable mooring mast. It would be located at the Municipal airport.

In announcing budget approval of the bill Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] of the Illinois delegation in congress said it was highly possible the Graf Zeppelin would make round trips between Germany and Chicago during the World's Fair period.

He said that officials of the German company had assured him they would fly the huge ship to Chicago in event the mooring mast is located there. The plan, Mr. Britten said, would be for the airship to make round trips to and from the fair, spending a week each time at Chicago making exhibition flights.

Arrangements also are being made for sending the naval airships Akron and the Los Angeles to the exposition.

PENNA. RAILROAD SPENDS MILLIONS AT PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Pittsburgh industries have benefited by more than $19,000,000 in the seaboard territory improvement program of the Pennsylvania railroad, Elisha Lee, vice president of the road, said here today at a chamber of commerce luncheon. Equipment, materials, and supplies have been purchased or contracted for from district industries, he asserted. His road paid out more than $25,500,000 in wages and salaries to 16,500 employés in this district last year, he said.

"The Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania railroad between Pittsburgh and Altoona, and the New York division, between Philadelphia and New York, each are moving more than 100,000 tons of freight a day," he said. "If this freight were all transferred to five ton trucks loaded to a maximum capacity, more than 20,000 such trucks would be required to do the work of either division."

WETS OF G. O. P. CALL CHICAGO RALLY MARCH 4

Butler and Beck to Be Chief Speakers.

President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university and Congressman James M. Beck of Pennsylvania, two of the outstanding liberals in the Republican party, will be the principal speakers at a meeting called here for March 4 to crystallize Republican sentiment against prohibition.

DR. BUTLER. [Moffett Photo.]

Announcement of the meeting was made last night by N. B. Burton, Chicago secretary of the Republican Citizens' Committee Against Prohibition. Mr. Burton said that Raymond Pitcairn of Philadelphia, executive director of the committee, had sent invitations to prominent Republicans all over the United States who have expressed dissatisfaction with the Republican party's official stand on prohibition.

Predict Impressive Meeting.

Responses to the invitations indicate, according to Mr. Burton, that the Chicago meeting will prove one of the most impressive demonstrations of liberal strength that have yet been made in the Republican party.

As the result of a recently announced policy, the local committee has persuaded wealthy Chicago Republicans to withhold more than $300,000 of their customary campaign contributions pending official announcement of the Republican party's stand on prohibition this year, Mr. Burton said. Other Republicans in the central states have expressed a determination to do likewise, he added.

"At the meeting here March 4," Mr. Burton said, "we hope to carry forward our idea in the middle west, an idea which has already met with an unusually favorable reaction elsewhere."

Two Leading Dry Law Foes.

The two principal speakers scheduled for the meeting are prominent in their opposition to prohibition. Dr. Butler, a co-winner of last year's Nobel prize, has offered an anti-prohibition platform at every national Republican convention since the Volstead law was enacted.

Mr. Beck, former solicitor general of the United States, one of the foremost constitutional lawyers in the country, has been active in the liberal cause since his election to congress from Pennsylvania.

TRANSIT EMPLOYES AWARDED MEDALS FOR SAVING LIVES

Four employés of the Chicago Rapid Transit company and one from the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad were awarded Britton I. Budd life saving medals last night at a meeting of company officials and employés in the Edison building. The award has been won by 18 employés since it was established in 1926.

Those who received medals last night are: Edgar M. Seldon, 35 years old, 1107 North Keeler avenue, a lineman; Joseph Morres, 58 years old, 1306 South Highland avenue, Berwyn, a gateman; Oscar E. Ellison, 61 years old, 912 North Mozart street, a crossing flagman, and Richard Bauma, 34 years old, 514 24th street, Bellwood, a laborer, all employed by the Rapid Transit company; and Earl L. McKay, 31 years old, of Deerfield, a motor coach operator for the North Shore line.

MOSCOW MOVES ARMY CORPS TO KASHMIR BORDER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 16.—It was learned today from reliable sources that Russia has moved an army corps from Samarkand to the Kashmir border simultaneously with the mobilization of the Afghan army, which is at present about to become the subject of a curt protest by Persia.

The movement of British troops from Egypt, Malta, Cyprus, and Gibraltar into the state of Kashmir is continuing, and the fourth request for the maharajah, Sir Hari Singh, to resign has been made. The ruler has refused to resign except on his own conditions. It is reported that he is a virtual prisoner and is unable to communicate with the Hindus who are supporting him.

Two staff officers of the British army are en route to Istanbul at the invitation of President Mustapha Kemal Pasha. The situation in Kashmir was discussed by the British cabinet today.

5 DRYS AID WETS TO GET TEST VOTE ON RUM IN HOUSE

Committee Keeps State Rule Measure Alive.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Five dry congressmen voting with the wets in the house judiciary committee, today saved the long promised congressional vote on prohibition from going by the board.

F. H. LA GUARDIA. [Acme Photo.]

They prevented a move to have the committee report adversely on the Beck-Linthicum resolution which would amend the 18th amendment by giving congress the power to regulate or prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, but reserving to the states the right to prescribe the methods of enforcement within their own borders.

Had the dry strategy succeeded it would have meant sending the measure to the calendar with a recommendation against it, there to lie subject to objection at every effort to obtain a vote.

May Be Brought to Floor.

As it is, though the dry members of the committee by a vote of 14 to 9 defeated an attempt to report the resolution out favorably, it may be brought to the floor under the new and more liberal discharge rule which provides for the discharge of a committee on the petition of 145 members.

Representatives Beck [Rep., Pa.], Linthicum [Dem., Md.], leaders of the house wets, announced that the circulation of a petition would be begun Feb. 25 and that they were confident it would have the necessary number of signatures within the 30 day limit fixed by the rules.

The five dry representatives who helped to prevent the side tracking of the long awaited record vote are: Dominick, McKeown, Browning, Michener, and Hall.

Their switch came after the committee, in closed session, had turned down the wet demand for a favorable report. One of the dry members moved that the resolution be reported unfavorably. Sensing the danger, Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.], active wet, capped the motion with a motion to table. It was on this vote that the five swung over, helping the wets to defeat the dry motion by the same majority with which the ballot on a favorable report had been lost.

The vote on the La Guardia motion to table was as follows:

FOR—Dominick [Dem., S. C.], Montague [Dem., Va.], Tucker [Dem., Va.], McKeown [Dem., Okla.], Browning [Dem., Tenn.], Celler [Dem., N. Y.], Oliver [Dem., N. Y.], Condon [Dem., R. I.], Dieterich [Dem., Ill.], Dyer [Rep., Mo.], Michener [Rep., Mich.], La Gaurdia [Rep., N. Y.], Bachmann [Rep., W. Va.], and Hall [Rep., Ill.].

AGAINST—Gregory [Dem., Ky.], Tarver [Dem., Ga.], Weaver [Dem., N. C.], Christopherson [Rep., S. D.], Yates, [Rep., Ill.], Kurtz [Rep., Pa.], Moore [Rep., O.], Sparks [Rep., Kas.], and Sumners [Dem., Tex.], committee chairman.

Urge to Block Amendment.

While the house committee was voting on the resolution, Seldon Bacon, New York lawyer, was appearing before the Herbert subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee to advocate a constitutional amendment which would make impossible the adoption of any further restrictive amendments like the 18th amendment without a referendum vote by the people.

His testimony was offered during a hearing on three resolutions sponsored by Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] differing in detail, but designed to accomplish the same purpose.

POLLS OFFICIAL GETS A YEAR IN JAIL FOR FRAUD

Edward Huff, the first of approximately 100 election officials to stand trial on charges of making false returns in the Kunz - Granata congressional election contest, pleaded guilty yesterday and was sentenced to serve a year in the county jail by County Judge Jarecki.

GROVER NIEMEYER

Huff was Republican judge in the 40th precinct of the 27th ward in the election of Nov. 4, 1930, in which Peter C. Granata defeated Congressman Stanley Kunz for the congressional seat of the 8th Illinois district. Kunz now has a contest of the election pending before a congressional committee.

Niemeyer Presents Evidence.

Assistant State's Attorney Grover C. Niemeyer told Judge Jarecki that a recount of ballots cast in Huff's precinct showed 200 votes for the straight Democratic ticket which he said should have been credited to Kunz, and 45 votes for Granata. The tally sheet turned in for the precinct gave Granata 270 votes and Kunz 27, Niemeyer said.

Charges of making false returns were also filed against two other polls officials in the precinct, Joseph Reilly and Joseph Griffen. Reilly is a fugitive, Prosecutor Niemeyer said, and Griffen has died since the election.

39 Arrested; Seek 60 More.

Thirty-nine other officials, principally in the 20th and 27th wards, have been arrested and released on $2,500 bonds pending hearings before Judge Jarecki. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of about 60 more.

Girl Hit by Stray Shot as Police Battle Thieves

Georgia Kortelas, 11 years old, 1267 Oregon street, was struck in the side last evening by a stray bullet from a gun fight between a detective squad and five m n whom the police discovered in the act of stripping an automobile of accessories. The police squad was headed by Detective James Quinn. The thieves abandoned a car which they were stripping at Oregon avenue and Loomis street, two fleeing on foot and the other three in an automobile. The pursuing police exchanged shots with the car's occupants. The Kortelas girl was playing at Oregon avenue and Sibley street when she was wounded. She was taken to the Mother Cabrini hospital.

New Argentine President Blocked in Forming Cabinet

BUENOS ANRES, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Congress today formally ratified the election of Augustin P. Justo as president of Argentina and Julio A. Roca as vice president. The president elect meanwhile was having difficulty forming his cabinet. Sources close to him said Dr. Tomas Le Breton, ambassador to France and a colleague of Justo in the cabinet of former President Alvear, had declined the portfolio of finance minister, regarded as the most important in view of the nation's financial problems.

$400 For Four Bottles

Worth More to Kansas City Man Who Regained His Health—Corrected His Rheumatism and Stomach Troubles.

It's an old saying that "money cannot buy good health," and there's truth in it. It is not how much you spend to get well, but what you use to combat the ailment that is causing your distress. You must go to the source of your trouble, your whole system must be cleansed and toned up. Rich, red blood must build you up! There is no price for good health!

But no matter how long you have suffered from torpid liver, gas and bloating after eating, even rheumatism and neuritis, you should not give up hope of feeling well again. Wenvo, the New Master Medicine, has restored thousands to glorious health, given them back their natural vitality, ended their aches and pains. Wenvo rebuilds the entire system, purifies the blood. It has proved itself to be the New Master Medicine.

These words may bring a new grip on life to you. Profit from the experience of Mr. Paul Ethridge, 4404 Harrison St., Kansas City, Mo.: "This fall I needed a real good system and blood cleanser, and in Wenvo I found just that. A course of Wenvo also proved very valuable in my rheumatism, besides correcting my stomach trouble and building up my strength and vitality. The very fine results I obtained from Wenvo caused me to insist on many of my friends trying it and without exception they, too, were enthusiastic about the quick way it toned up their stomach, eliminating gas and bloating.

"I'll go on record saying that Wenvo is just the system builder and tonic the people have so long looked for. I took only four bottles of this medicine, but wouldn't take $400 for the results I received."

How much will you pay for good health? If your health is restored, if you have "pep" for your work and your pleasures, Wenvo will be worth a thousand times its small cost to you. But if for any reason you are not satisfied—and remember, you are the only judge—merely return the empty bottle and your money will be refunded without question. Can you afford NOT to try guaranteed Wenvo? Get it today from any why Chesterfields are Better!

Just think what this means for Chesterfield smokers. It means that the larger part of 90 million dollars is invested in Domestic and Turkish tobaccos that are being properly aged in Nature's way, and cured so as to make them sweeter and milder.

CHESTERFIELD tobacco is packed in wooden casks, each containing about 1,000 pounds and stored for two years in modern, up-to-date warehouses.

These warehouses, if placed end-to-end, would be about four miles in length. From floor to ceiling they are filled with these casks of fine tobacco, ageing in Nature's slow but sure way.

It takes a lot of money to make a good cigarette—money to buy good tobaccos and money to age them properly.

CHESTERFIELDS are milder, and taste better . . . there's a 90 million dollar reason why! Just try them!

Smart Shops with Fashionable Things Dot Chicago on All Sides

Community Centers on North, South, and West Sell Stylish Clothes to Up to Date Patrons.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

THE SHOPS of Michigan avenue and State street are known throughout the world . . . famous world travelers steal away from reception committees to shop in them for things to take back home . . . glamorous movie stars spend every minute between trains, shopping for clothes, and art treasures for use in future pictures . . . even blasé European queens have reverted to type, and contentedly joggled elbows with Chicago house wives . . . "just shopping" up and down the aisles in search of something new and different.

But all the romance isn't packed into the loop . . . without a doubt the most interesting and friendly part of Chicago's every day life, is the neighborly activity of the community shops. To the visitor in Chicago the shops within walking distance of their loop hotels are all they use . . . but thousands of Chicago women rarely shop in the loop district more often than twice a month . . . and yet they are as smartly dressed, as fashion conscious as their sisters on the drive.

Chicago races north and south and west, and as it grows in population various community centers flourish and increase. Some smart suburbanites never think of patronizing other shops but those in close proximity. After all it's the friendly interchange of daily courtesies that make a successful shopkeeper and shop . . . all of us are more flattered than we care to admit when we enter a store and are immediately recognized and called by name.

Community Shops Make Huge Growth.

This is the secret of the phenomenal success of Chicago's community shops . . . this is the reason why loop department stores have established miniature counterparts of themselves, in all outlying districts . . . replicas of the parent store with all the services and the same charge account privileges and the same exclusive merchandise in the cases.

Uptown Chicago, that district around Wilson avenue, is filled with shops . . . the streets are as brightly illuminated as those in the loop, the shop windows are as dramatically dressed as any on State street. . . . You can buy everything from the newest "pancake beret" to paper-thin rubber galoshes for a rainy night . . . well they know how easy it is to wander in on the way to the movies, to buy a new refrigerator dish and to hurry out an hour later with a half a dozen purchases, a new cap and skates for Junior, a reading lamp for the living room or a, printed silk frock for the bridge luncheon the next day.

Still farther north is Howard avenue and beyond that Evanston, both serviced by the same kind of small smart shops and fashion-wise buyers. You can leave any of the neighborhood movies where you have admired the dresses of the screen artists, and see in the windows of the shops as you walk home, copies of the very models you were interested in, and best of all they will be priced to meet the demands of the most modest budget.

There is just as much confusion, and bustling buying in the west side communities as there is in the loop . . . just as many women out doing the special bargains for the day . . . just as many advertisements to read about in the daily papers. They take a street car, bus or walk a short distance and find a wide selection of everything they want, furniture, clothes, radios, pianos, and groceries . . . all carefully presented and priced to suit the individual needs of that great manufacturing community of Chicago.

South and West Side Shops Flourish.

West side merchants cannot be out done for service accorded their patrons.

South side shops are legion . . . some of them are as old and older than those in the loop, for way back when Chicago was young the bulk of the buying public lived south of the river. The modest beginnings of quite a few of our most exclusive dressmaking shops were established in southtown Chicago. Many south side Chicago women shop for their household needs as well as their wardrobes in their community shops with all the assurance of fashion and style as is given the same shrewd shoppers, elsewhere.

Chicago is acclaimed for its spirit of progressiveness . . . its exhilarating sense of freedom and youth. No small part of this glory should be credited to those pioneer merchants who, looking far into Chicago's colorful future, successfully established these community centers around community stores, that are today an example of American ingenuity in preserving friendly neighborhood reciprocity.

Worth Designs a Simple Frock of Printed Lame

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Things have been happening to lamé. It used to be a material at glittered with a gold, silver or copper sheen. Today lamé is smarter when it has no glitter.

French fabric makers have found a way to make lamé without making it too gorgeous for formal daytime wear, and they print it all over with tiny multicolored flowers. Worth uses this material to make a simple frock for his midseason collection, put a black coat over it, and the ensemble became the most successful model in his show. Even Mme. Jean Charles Worth, the wife of the designer, insisted on wearing it, which is the ultimate approval, dressmakers' wives being pretty difficult about husband's sartorial ideas.

The ensemble is sketched today and is one of the smart Paris styles for formal afternoon and informal evening wear. With admirable taste Worth has made the lamé frock look extremely simple, even tailored. It is quite gorgeous enough and looks beautiful with the black broadcloth coat shown in the background, a coat that is fitted and gored.

It has black buttons halfway up the sleeves and they fasten the coat down the front. Silver fox makes the collar and the hem of this coat.

Seek Volunteers for New Class in Social Service

The next training course for volunteers to aid relief agencies will be given by the Chicago Council of Social Agencies beginning Tuesday, March 1. A call for immediate registrations has been issued by Mrs. Edward O. Brown, director of the volunteer service. At least 150 women are needed.

"An woman who has had a high school education, who is not seeking paid employment and who is able to give at least one full day or two half days a week to volunteer service is eligible," Mrs. Brown said yesterday. "The volunteers can be trained to assist workers in family welfare organizations, do clerical work, make neighborhood visits, weigh babies, aid doctors in clinics and be big sisters to unlucky girls."

Since Sept. 1 the council has placed 250 volunteers, whose combined service totaled 1,000 days a month or the equivalent, Mrs. Brown said, of $4,000 a month. Enrollment for the March class has begun. Registration can be made in room 1304, 203 North Wabash avenue.

Tom Mix and Bride Stay in Mexico for Honeymoon

AGUA CALIENTE, Lower California, Mexico, Feb. 16.—(A.P.)—This resort in old Mexico was the honeymoon locale today for Tom Mix, screen and circus cowboy, and his bride, the former Mabel Hubbell Ward, circus aerialist. The couple, married yesterday in Mexicali, Mexico, arrived here late last night. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Monte Blue and the cowboy's daughter, Tomasina. Mix said on his arrival his party had been delayed by mountain storms between El Centro and San Diego, Cal., "but everything is fine—we are all happy," Mix said. The 52 year old cowboy was married to Miss Ward, 28, by Gen. Juan N. Vaquez, judge of the civil court at Mexicali.

Stretch Arms to Banish Fat on Rib Section

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

There's a spot on the anatomy where wads of fatty tissue seem to get a lease on life like that on no other part of the body. I mean the section directly under the arms, side rib area. There you'll find puffs and wads of fat, often when no other part of the body is affected. I don't know why—but there it is.

Corsetting often projects this lump instead of concealing it. From which you should take a tip on demanding a not-too crowded in bust line, whether you use brassiere or one piece foundation garment. A half size larger garment may prevent that bulging.

But the fat must be there, or it wouldn't bulge. So, the permanent remedy is to dissipate it completely with exercise aimed directly at it. Very plump women usually show this bulge, but with them it runs right around to the back. Their arms have a crowded look and they feel crowded where these fat puffs abound.

The average woman gets little chance in her day's duties to stretch the arms high overhead. And this is one of the tricks of keeping that side line cleared of adipose. Kitchen cabinets are arranged so that constantly used articles are within easy reach. And footstools are employed to make the high shelves easily accessible.

Of course, women in office, store, and factory can't very well go around with their hands raised high overhead. Their work does not include stretching movements.

So, if you want to keep that side-line neat and trimmed of fatty pouches you simply must incorporate a few minutes of stretching, night and morning. And what's good for that limited area, it may be noted in passing, is good for the entire line of the silhouette, especially as it is viewed in profile.

Climb the wall, then as an A1 exerciser for this particular fat ill. Face the wall. Get close up against it and climb the hands higher and higher. When you've reached what you think the stretching limit, try and keep the hands at the point you've reached while you bring the heels down to the floor. It's a trick, but you'll get it after a bit of practice. But any stretching work that will raise the arms high overhead and pull on those side muscles will shift the fatty tissue to parts unknown!

Trading Post at Lake Forest Is Busy Place

Society Exchange Serves Double Purpose.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

A Patou model may win popularity for some pretty debutante at a Casino party in December but, nine chances out of ten, it will cause even quicker heart beats for a little housemaid at some ball in June. Most all of the costly creations that come out of our town's best shops play a dual rôle, you see—especially if they spend a few of their days at the Trading Post in Lake Forest's market square.

Stop in on your next visit to the fashionable north shore community, for it is worth your time to see the dresses and suits, dining room tables and family portraits, baby carriages and books that have been offered for resale by Lake Forest matrons. Then too, you will be interested in the shop within a shop opened in November for the sale of all sorts of gift items [new merchandise, of course].

"Why just think of all the things the Alice Home hospital and the Contagious hospital would be missing if it wasn't for the Trading Post," commented Mrs. John Coleman. "You see, all of the proceeds above the necessary overhead go to the Lake Forest Hospital association which directs these two institutions. We have provided a steam laundry, an important and necessary X-ray tube, new china and silver, and have redecorated the entire Contagious hospital.

"And the automobile," she continued enthusiastically. "The hospital couldn't get along without it. It makes possible the hourly nursing service and provides transportation between the Alice Home and the contagious ward. This is the second one, for we decided a few months ago a new model was necessary. Another important contribution is the dry cell plant that provides electric light for the operating room under any condition. You know how the lights suddenly take a notion to go out in the country."

It was Mrs. Coleman with Mrs. Robert McGann, president of the Hospital association, who founded the Trading Post nine years back in a "closet" room rented from the Junior league tea shop. Success in the way of profits came almost immediately so that a move to larger quarters in the square was soon possible.

In this shop there is plenty of activity any day of the week, with many representatives of society coming to "do their bit." They run the gift counter, mark the second hand goods for sale, and keep a watchful eye on business. On the gift shop force are Mrs. Benjamin Bryan, Mrs. Richard Mahbatt, Mrs. George A. Seaverns, Miss Jane Morton, Mrs. Stanley Keith, Mrs. Charles W. Isaacs Jr., Mrs. Paul Moyer, Mrs. Knight Coles, Mrs. D. W. Buchanan, Mrs. J. B. Forgan, Mrs. John Baker, Mrs. Carter Harrison, Mrs. Robert Hixon, Mrs. Julian Armstrong, Mrs. Woodbury Ober, Mrs. T. A. Connors, Mrs. W. F. Burrows, Mrs. T. S. Proxmire, Mrs. L. A. Ferguson Jr., Mrs. Alexander H. Revell Jr., Mrs. Lawrence Williams, and Miss Nan Conway.

And when business isn't pressing they turn their efforts to folding bandages for the hospital and making dresser scarfs from linen provided by Mrs. Paul Moyer. Mrs. Farwell Winston is chairman of the linens committee, by the way. And these same women, who give so generously of their time, establish a close association between the gift shop and the thrift shop by telephoning about Lake Forest for a paid of riding boots or a size 14 coat when a patron requests an article not in stock.

Every Monday morning Mrs. Robert A. Gardner, Mrs. John H. McIlvaine, and Mrs. Albert D. Farwell mark all the goods that have been received at the post during the preceding week. On Tuesdays and Fridays when this stock is taken upstairs the rush of customers is like that at a bargain counter sale in a big store. Though most of the contributions come without solicitation, a clever appeal by way of a postcard is mailed every once in a while to Lake Forest households. Then, when bundles come in, another card is sent in recognition.

It is interesting to know that a Chicago merchant contributes regularly great bundles of "seconds" in hosiery for sale in the thrift shop. Then there are donations like that of 23 dresses and coats by a young Lake Forest matron who recently gathered a complete new wardrobe for travel abroad.

Still another service the post renders is in the exchange of articles made by persons seeking a market. The shop disposes on a commission basis of the jellies and jams prepared by a needy mother. A seamstress finds it a splendid market for her work, so good that she recently received an order for a whole bridal trousseau. Now word comes that the post will soon be the Lake Forest exchange for articles of the Eli Bates shop.

Eva Le Gallienne Back in U. S. to Plan Stage Work

New York, Feb. 16.—(A.P.)—After a "lovely holiday" in Europe, Eva Le Gallienne was back in her office to direct the Civic Repertory theater today, a bit loath, she said, to put an end to the first real vacation she has had since she went on the stage at 14.

"Europe is the place to play," she said. "But America is the place to work; it is so intense and vigorous."

Her face was pale but unblemished by the burns she suffered when a gasoline water heater exploded in her summer home last July. Her hands are still scarred, but she expects them to be "all right" by the time she goes back on the stage next fall.

"Anyway, they work as well as ever," she said. "I drove my own car all over Spain."

The repertory company will swing into action again next October, she announced. She will play the chess queen in "Alice in Wonderland."

In England, she engaged Nelson Welch and Richard Adinsell, a musician, to join the company next fall. Welch is a relative of hers, she said as she "discovered to her surprise."

Church Choir of Milwaukee Sings in City

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The Grand Avenue Congregational church choir of Milwaukee, organized as long ago as 1914, paid its first visit to Chicago last night, appearing at Kimball hall under the direction of Graydon R. Clark. It is an à cappella, or in the translated form, unaccompanied body, paying much attention to sacred music of many schools, but with special stress upon the Russian liturgy and the Negro spirituals.

It is an eager, earnest, and highly flexible organization, ready to maintain resonant, sonorous strains at one moment, and to project rapidly enunciated words with much clarity at another. A program note stated that it kept a long waiting list, as only voices of certain timbre could be accepted. There was more than mere timbre in its singing, however. It exhibited not only expert and continued training, but the kind of musicianship upon which such training is able to take effect.

No Bach, a high test of all choral singing, was on last night's program. The Russian works by Bortniansky, Kopolyoff, Tschesnokoff, and others were enough to show how well the choir has penetrated beneath the surface of its art. The only secular songs on the program were Eric DeLamarter's impertinent and ever engaging "The De'il's Awa'" and Kibalchich's Czecho-Slovakian dance song.

Two soloists accompanied the choir on its visit. Walter Hauck played a group of trumpet solos with much skill, even though it was a bit difficult to reconcile this order of music with the rest of the program, and Master Bobby Stiart, boy soprano, sang a group of songs by Burleigh, Gounod, and Martin.

Friends of Opera to Raise Half of Fund Needed as Guarantee

Samuel Insull Calls on Group to Back Civic Venture; Declares Low Price Policy Is Profitable.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Friends of Opera were called on yesterday to do a stupendous job which will prove again what good friends they are to the Chicago Civic Opera association. Samuel Insull, president of the opera association, asked the Friends at their annual meeting at the Casino to raise at least half of the half million dollar guarantee fund which he said the opera association must have before he will sign any contracts for grand opera to be produced here next year.

Mr. Insull said that he, alone, by letter, has raised $254,000 and he feels that it is the duty of the Friends to raise the rest—as a sort of payment for the beautiful singing they have heard this winter at their meetings without cost, he rather bluntly reminded them. Judging by the applause which Mr. Insull's brief but to the point speech elicited, the Friends are going to undertake the job with the same good will that they have shown before in their work for the opera.

Mr. Insull said he and his confreres would get the large subscriptions but that he wanted the 1,006 Friends of Opera to each secure a subscription or subscriptions amounting to $250. Each $100 guarantor will have the privilege of subscribing for two season tickets for $78 next year, instead of the regular price of $120, so it would seem that it would not be difficult to get almost every one who plans to buy two tickets for next season to gurantee at least $100 towards next year's expenses, for the difference between a hundred dollar guarantee plus the guarantors' price of two tickets and the regular price of two tickets is only $58.

Popular Priced Opera Profitable.

Mr. Insull stressed the fact that last season had proved that opera at popular prices was more profitable than high priced opera and he said that if he ever could have a large enough guarantee to make it possible for him to take risks he would re-price the entire house on a popular basis. He ended his talk by saying that he would bless the Friends of Opera for ever more if they would help him obtain the necessary funds for, as he said, he no longer could agree to foot the bills himself and that Chicagoans must signify their desire for opera by signing on the dotted line.

Mrs. Arthur Meeker, who presided, responded to Mr. Insull's plea by announcing that the organization had pledged $2,000 to the guarantee fund for next year and that Mrs. Charles Hickox, the former Catherine Barker Spaulding of Chicago, had written from New York that she would renew her guarantee of $2,000 for the next 5 years.

The officers and committee chairmen and executive committee of the organization were reëlected, for, as Mrs. Meeker said, "it would seem to be a poor plan to change horses while crossing the stream." Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick is honorary chairman; Mrs. Meeker, chairman; Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Edward F. Swift, Mrs. Edward Hines, and Mrs. Charles H. Swift, vice chairmen; Mrs. Francis J. Johnson, corresponding secretary; Herman Waldeck, treasurer; Miss Helen Gilbert, recording secretary; Miss Alice Berkman, executive secretary; Mrs. Waller Borden, chairman box committee [she reported that her committee sold $158,900 worth of boxes last season]; Mrs. Charles H. Swift, chairman music committee; Mrs. Arthur A. Small, chairman Army and Navy ticket committee, and Mrs. Holbrook Clarke, chairman music students' committee. After the business meeting was finished Margery Maxwell, Mrs. Frederick Moorehead in private life, gave two beautiful groups of songs, and then tea was served.

It looked as if all the 1,006 members were at the meeting yesterday, although of course that was not true; for I know the Casino ballroom could not accommodate nearly that many persons. But it was a large and representative gathering and it would be far easier to list those of the well-known members who are away and couldn't be there, than to attempt to name those who were at the affair.

Camerons Are Hosts at a Novel Party.

The most novel party I've heard of in some time was the one given Monday night by the Dan U. Camerons for Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Zabriskie of Aurora, N. Y., whose visit here has occasioned so much entertaining in their large circle of friends. The Camerous took their guests to dinner at the Nippon club, a club established by some of the prominent Japanese of the city as a place for entertaining the dignitaries and representatives of their native country when they visit Chicago, at 19 East Goethe street, where the Edward P. Russell family lived for so many years.

Dinner was served in true Japanese style, with the cooking done at the table, and afterwards the party went next door to the residence of the Shoji Osatos, where the Yoshida trio gave a program of music and dancing. The Osatos, by the way, are an interesting couple—he a son of Nippon and she an American, formerly Frances Fitzpatrick of Evanston. Among those at the party, which was voted a unique success by all, were Mrs. Zabriskie's mother, Mrs. George S. Everingham, whom the Zabriskies are visiting; Dr. Cameron's sister, Mrs. P. A. Berry of Mount Vernon, O.; Dr. and Mrs. Anson Cameron, the Nelson Thomassons and his sister and niece, Mrs. Ellwood Offutt and Miss Nelle Offutt; Mr. and Mrs. George C. Venard, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Slade, the Royden Keiths, Mr. and Mrs. Louis K. Boysen, Mr. and Mrs. Otis McGaw Howard, the Thatcher Hoyts, Winifred MacBride and her husband, Chamberlain Thomas.

Art collections in two fashionable households will be augmented by two purchases made this week at the exhibition at Marshall Field's of the objets d' art of the late Russian czar. Mrs. Henry Field has selected an interesting old ikon and Mrs. Edward R. Bacon has become the possessor of a vase that was once the property of Catherine the Great. Among those who have visited the exhibit are Mrs. Albert H. Wetten, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Joseph H. King, Mrs. John P. Wilson, Mrs. Eric Scudder, and Gerhardt Meyne.

The first of two lectures for the benefit of the Lower North Community council will be given this morning at 11:30 o'clock by Maj. Thomas Coulson in the Diana Court salon, 540 North Michigan avenue. Maj. Coulson's subject will be "Spying on Spies." Mrs. George Jaeger Jr. is chairman of the committee in charge of the lectures. There will be a number of luncheon parties at the Vassar House tearoom in the same building after today's lecture.

Doris Declares This Mother Is Too Watchful

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I have been going with a young man for over a year and am engaged to be married. We are both 23. We have several dates a week, but do not go out a lot because we are trying to save our money so we may marry.

"My family likes my friend. We keep good hours—not later than 12. However, my mother has taken it upon herself to play chaperone. She sits in the kitchen every time my friend comes and waits there until he goes home. Scolds me for keeping her up so late when I know she is tired.

"I know she means well and I think everything of her, but it hurts to know she distrusts me. We do not object to her presence. It's the principle of it. I don't want my friend to dislike her and look upon her as a future difficult mother-in-law.

"WORRIED."

How to dispose of mother on beau nights is a problem, no doubt, confronting numbers of young women. Or, how mother might dispose of herself.

Doesn't it seem a bit overwatchful to hold out until the young man is gone? Especially where the couple registers 23 years and their motive for remaining home is one of saving for marriage?

With younger girls, yes. Mother's watchful eye might be the perfect regulator of behavior. With girls about whose conduct mother cannot be so sure, the chaperonage is recommended. But the fact that a young couple does frequent the fireside and is seriously intent on marriage would indicate an ability to see themselves through an evening properly.

The idea of mother having to park herself in the kitchen does not appeal. That seems far less desirable than having her appear in the living room, visit for awhile, and then hie herself off to her own room for sleep, or reading. Of course, our modern cramped living quarters must regulate these situations some. Mother cannot be expected to relegate herself to the back part of the apartment every other night of the week. She can't be expected to retire early because daughter's suitor is going to appear.

She can make herself so very agreeable that her company is desirable, or she can try to remember her girlhood days and recall how she loved those quiet moments away from espionage with her best beau.

Hutchinses' to Entertain at Dinner Tonight

President and Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago will give a dinner tonight preceding a lecture by George O. Curme of Northwestern university entitled "Is Our Language English or American?" to be given in Mandel hall under the auspices of the William Vaughn Moody foundation. Mr. Curme and President and Mrs. Walter Dill Scott will be among the Hutchinses' guests.

The Countess Alexandra Tolstoy will be given a tea by the Woman's City club Friday at 4 o'clock. Among those receiving will be Mrs. Murry Nelson, Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum, Mrs. James B. Herrick, Mrs. William S. Monroe, Mrs. Robert B. Gregory, Mrs. Charles S. Williamson, Mrs. Andrew MacLeish, Miss Marie Rozet, Mrs. Tom Peete Cross and Mrs. Walter L. Cherry.

The Cyrus Hall McCormicks, who always depart from their Burton place residence when winter in Chicago becomes drab and wearisome, started off last week to wander through balmier climes. They headed south, but have no definite plans as to their itinerary for the next two months. Gordon McCormick, who was to have come from England to visit his father, has postponed his trip to this country.

From Lake Geneva we hear that Henry H. Porter had a large house party at his place there last weekend, and that the junior Albert F. Madleners and Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne also were at the lake for the ice-boating Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Porter's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter, and Dr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson.

Mrs. Cyrus Manierre on Journey to Europe.

Mrs. Cyrus Edson Manierre of Lake Forest left for New York last week to sail for a two months' sojourn in Europe.

Mrs. Maude Radford Warren is at the Fortnightly club for one of her frequent visits in Chicago. She will remain about two weeks.

Mrs. James R. Offield will leave on Friday to join her mother, Mrs. William Wrigley Jr., and her daughter, Miss Betty Offield, at Catalina island. Mr. Offield will not be able to go west until a little later in the month.

Mrs. Arthur Cutten and Mrs. Allan M. Clement left yesterday for a trip to Palm Beach, Miami and Cuba.

Mrs. Stanley McCormick spent a few days last week in her apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive on her way from Pasadena to New York.

The Charming Cheat

By Clara Sharpe Hough

SYNOPSIS.

Ricardo Dane visits New York in search of his aunt, Miss Filomena Stanley, his mother's half sister. Ricardo's mother had recently died and left him heir to the ranch and mountain land in Romeu valley, California, where he had spent most of his life. He intended to find his sole remaining near relative and bring her back to Romeu valley. He had understood this to be his mother's dying wish. His aunt, an actress, had been out of favor with the family.

Ricardo locates a Filomena Stanley, but instead of an aged aunt he finds a beautiful young aunt. She is living in a Bohemian studio with a Follies girl named Frances. Ricardo readily believes this lovely creature, who acknowledges the relationship. His arrival was fortunate for Filomena, who had been out of work for weeks and was in a sad state financially. Ricardo showers her with gifts and moves her into a better apartment. He moves into the same building on another floor. Webster Sutton, a college friend of Ricardo's, visits New York. He and Eunice Greenway, a girl from home, who is studying in New York, are entertained by Ricardo and his aunt. Eunice is a friend of Ricardo's fiancée, Rachel Beatty. She heartily disapproves of Filomena. Web believes his friend is being trimmed, and before he leaves tells him so. Ricardo learns that Web was right when Filomena is called home due to the illness of her father. After another search Ricardo finds his real aunt. She is acting in a Broadway play. Ricardo takes Filomena to the city hall, where they obtain a marriage license. His plan is to have her prepare for the wedding and leave her waiting at the church, but before he can carry it out Rachel arrives in New York with her father, who has been called there on business. Ricardo takes Rachel to call on his real aunt. She doesn't fit in with the stories Rachel has heard.

INSTALLMENT XXI.

HIDING THE TRUTH.

"I do hope you like my play, Rachel," said Aunt Filomena. I must remember to get you three seats, for I'd like your father to come, too, of course. I'm sure he'll like it."

"Dick won't come," said Rachel coldly, "he's seen it already. With a very pretty little piece with him, I think you said."

"Why, Rachel," cried Aunt Filomena. "You aren't jealous, I hope? That's a bad sign in an engaged girl. You ought to trust Dick more than that. He can certainly tell you all about who the girl was. Why, maybe she wasn't even with him. Though, of course, he was talking to her." She smiled a little wickedly at her nephew.

"Evening, nephew," she said to him.

"Of course I can tell you," said Ricardo magnanimously, "Not Eunice Greenway?"

"Certainly. And I can't see any reason—"

"Web enjoyed meeting you, Miss Stanley," said Rachel.

"He's a lovely boy," said Aunt Filomena enthusiastically. "Why don't you bring him around again, Dick?"

"He went back to California. I told you, last week, Aunt Fil."

"O, of course," said Aunt Filomena.

Suddenly Rachel stood up, and a fragile cup filled with hot tea clattered to the rug at her feet. The saucer fell apart in three ragged bits, while the cup rolled on its side letting out a little clear yellow flood of tea.

"What's the use of lying to me, Dick?" she demanded in a low tense voice. "What's the use of lying to me? I don't care half so much what you did, as I do about you lying to me. You aren't his aunt at all, are you?" She appealed to Miss Stanley.

That lady was on her knees gathering up the broken bits of the delicate saucer, with little murmured exclamations of dismay.

Rachel stood looking down at the floor, her cheeks flaming, her eyes brimming with hot tears.

"You make me out such a fool, Dick," she said, "Dick, tell me the truth now. Is she your aunt?"

He sprang across the room and put a comforting arm around her.

"Of course I'm his aunt," cried Aunt Filomena shrilly. "I don't know what can have got into the child! Who on earth could I be but his aunt?"

Ricardo gave Rachel a comforting small hug. "Dear, you're all upset. Now listen, this is the truth once and for all. She is my aunt. I'll swear that on anything you like. I don't know who on earth you think she could be, or what funny ideas you've been mulling over here. But you're tired and you're excited, and you aren't used to these cocktails of Aunt Fil's. They've got a kick like an ostrich. I shouldn't have let her fill you up on her rotten liquor." He bent and kissed the top of Rachel's small brown hat, which was all he could reach. She had dissolved into helpless tears against his shoulder.

Aunt Filomena telegraphed inquiry again.

He nodded violently. "You'll be all right, Ray, out in the fresh air. That's what she needs, isn't it, Aunt Fil? I'm going to give her a little walk, up to the park and back. She isn't used to—"

"I'm all right." Rachel drew away from him. She wiped her eyes with a smooth handkerchief from her pocket. "I'm perfectly all right. I'm terribly sorry about your saucer, Miss Stanley. And I shouldn't have said what I did. I wouldn't have, only—"

"It's all right, child," said Aunt Filomena, "perfectly all right. "I am certainly Ricardo's aunt. There's no possible doubt about that. So you get rid of whatever idea you had and try trusting him a little bit."

Outside the air was crisp and bracing. Rachel walked beside him in subdued silence for a block.

"She is your aunt, of course," she said then.

"She is my aunt," he assured her solemnly. "I should think you were about half nutty, Ray, to talk the way you did in there. I don't know what she thinks—"

"I don't care what she thinks," returned Rachel blowing her nose and putting away her handkerchief, "I still think it's rather funny, if you want to know it. I don't like to be lied to."

"Nor do I, of course." He recalled his own wrath when he found he had been duped. "But, darling girl, who's lying to you?"

"I have half a notion you are," Rachel turned to smile up at him.

He squeezed her arm.

"You've had enough fresh air for today," he said, "we'll hop a taxi and get back to the hotel before your dad gets worried." He wondered when in the world he could get away long enough to see his aunt. He would certainly have to see her now.

Rachel's father was waiting for them. He wanted to discuss with Ricardo the curb market, which was the most remarkable spectacle he had ever seen in his life.

When the conversation ended, Ricardo had barely time to get back to his own room and dress to meet them again in time for dinner and the Follies. He entered the apartment house and hurried upstairs in guilty haste.

Having already seen the Follies, Ricardo did not mind missing a part of the fun. He recalled that Aunt Filomena had very little to do in the first act of "The Truth About Miss Marsh." He told Rachel and her father that he had to call a chap on the phone and would be back before the intermission.

Seven minutes after he had left the Follies he was ushered to the door of the small brightly-lit cluttered room where his aunt was putting the final touches to her makeup.

"Evening, nephew," she greeted him in the mirror without turning her head, "I thought you'd be around before long. You made it sooner than I expected."

"Aunt Fil," said Ricardo, a little breathless, "Aunt Fil, I'm in the hell of a mess. I don't need to tell you all about it, for I think you're a sort of mind reader, but I do appreciate your backing me up this afternoon."

"Nothing at all," said Aunt Filomena, generously, as she rubbed her lips carefully with brilliant carmine, "I was glad to do it. All in the family. I have an idea I nearly shot the works for you once or twice. But after all you had'nt told me a thing about it. How was I to know I was supposed to have spent the past six weeks in your apartment?"

He reddened. "That isn't exactly—"

"Never mind," she interrupted, "it's not worth your while to whitewash yourself for me. But I could have given you a better sendoff if you'd let me in on it beforehand."

"I couldn't very well. I hadn't a chance to see you. You see, it's like this. I didn't know Rachel was coming to New York. I thought she was at home till I got this telegram. I thought—well, anyway, I was going home in another week myself. And this other girl—the one I had at your show the other night—"

"Yes. A little peach, too. Who is she?"

"That's a longish story, too. You see, she—her name's Filomena Stanley."

"Nonsense," she turned to glance at him, "of course her name's not Filomena Stanley?"

"Yes, it is, too. I didn't believe it either, but—well, the point is, I'd been around with her a lot, and when Web was here, he saw me with her a good deal, and he—that's the fellow from home who was—"

"The lovely boy. Wonder what he looks like."

"Yes, that's the one. He must have gone home and told Rachel—I don't know what he must have told her. But you see I'm engaged to Rachel—"

"All right. I won't give you away, I'll back you up if you'll just tell me what to do."

"I don't know what to do," said Ricardo despairingly, "I only wish I did. Her name is Filomena Stanley, you see, so Web was telling Rachel—she thought it was you, of course. That's how it was, you see."

"Clear as London in a fog," said his aunt, "I don't see just exactly what mischief you've been up to, but I can make a guess. Did you actually have the cheek to try to palm off a little blue-eyed baby as your aunt?"

"Well, I—I did let Web think. He didn't really believe it, I don't think, but he must have gone home and told Rachel—"

"Good loyal friend, isn't he?"

"Cue, Miss Stanley," said a girl at the door.

OFFICIAL CONTRACT

BY CHARLES TRUE ADAMS.

[International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight."]

Some time ago I told you that every now and then conscience compelled me to give a type of hand which is most frequently met with in ordinary bridge rather than the more spectacular but less frequent type that almost invariably draws a satisfying gasp from your audience. In yesterday's play-a-problem we had one of the average type which requires not spectacular but careful play and sound technique. This was the hand.

NORTH.
♦—K,J,4

WEST.	EAST.
♠—A,5,3	♠—J,8

♣—Q,J,2	♣—7,6,5

♠—K,Q,7,6
♥—A,10,6
♣—10,9,8

South dealt and bid a no-trump. West passed. North took out with his four card suit in clubs with a bid of two clubs. East passed. South now bid two no-trumps. He would have liked to have bid the game in at no-trumps since his partner's club bid filled the one hole in his hand. However, he did not feel that the strength of his hand justified more than a bid of two no-trumps. After West's pass, however, North took the bid to three no-trumps and all passed.

West opened the ♥ 2, North played the 8, East the Q, and South played the 6. East returned the ♥ 7, South played the A, West the 3, and North the 9. South now led the ♣ 10, and since West played the Q, dummy covered with the A. Dummy returned the ♦ 4, East played the 2, and South finessed the 10, which held. South now played the ♣ 9, West covered this time with the J, dummy took with the K. Then dummy led the ♦ J, which South overtook with the A, leading back the now good ♣ 8. Next South led the ♦ 3, which dummy took with the K and proceeded at the ninth trick to lead out the thirteenth club, which was the 3. On this trick South discarded the ♥ 10. To the tenth trick North [dummy] led the ♠ 10, East played the J, South the Q, and West took with the A. West then cashed in the ♥ K-J and to the thirteenth trick was forced to lead the ♠ 5 to dummy's K, giving North and South their game and one extra trick.

Here is tomorrow's play-a-problem:

NORTH.
♠—4,3

This way preserves the ELASTICITY*
• • that makes stockings fit and wear

DO YOU KNOW why new stockings fit with such alluring smoothness? Because each silk thread is elastic. Stretch it—it springs right back into shape.

But when elasticity is lost—the stretched threads can't spring back. Then you get wrinkly ankles—crooked seams. Runs start this way, too—the silk threads break, instead of giving, under strain.

The LUX Way*

Don't rub with cake soap. It destroys the elasticity. Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali which weakens and fades silks. Lux has no harmful alkali.

Don't use too-warm water—this fades color. With Lux you use lukewarm water. No hot water needed. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

Wash this 2-minute way:

1. One teaspoon of Lux diamonds for each pair of stockings.
2. Add lukewarm water to Lux, squeeze gentle suds through stockings, rinse well, shake and hang up.

frequent COLDS?

BE CAREFUL! Nearly always these are symptoms of a serious trouble you should correct!

LOOK at the man in the picture above, in the center. He has a good job, a lovely wife, a fine home. Every reason for happiness. Every incentive to success.

Yet he's not happy. Not successful. Why?

Only through the X-ray can we actually see the condition known as constipation.

It takes away appetite, "pep." It upsets digestion . . . makes the tongue coated, the breath bad. We find ourselves increasingly subject to headaches, colds.

Now, realizing what's wrong, many of us seek a short cut out of our trouble. We turn to cathartics. To harsh laxatives. To violent, dangerous pills.

But these are temporary measures. Doctors most emphatically warn us against them. And in their place they recommend a simple fresh food that acts naturally and easily, restoring our bodily functions to normal once again.

This food is fresh yeast . . . ordinary Fleischmann's Yeast. Eaten regularly, it actually "tones" and strengthens the intestines, softens accumulated waste matter . . . cleanses and stimulates the very region of the body where constipation gets in its bad work.

And, as yeast acts to clear the body of poisons, headaches disappear. Your tongue clears, your breath becomes sweet and pure. You are far less susceptible to sore throats and colds.

If you really want overflowing health, a clear skin and a trouble-free system, try Fleischmann's Yeast! Eat it just plain or dissolved in a third of a glass of water—3 cakes a day—before meals, or between meals and when you go to bed.

You can buy it at grocers', restaurants, soda fountains, and each cake is rich in health-giving vitamins B, G and D.

Burke Writes Good Story of Mountain Girl

'Call Home the Heart' Has Dignity and Beauty.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Call Home the Heart," by Fielding Burke [Longmans Green]. Published today.

REGULARLY, now and again, a new novelist discovers the gold mine of the mountain folk of the south and mints that gold into lucky pieces for readers. Fielding Burke is the latest of such literary diggers, and, it seems to me, one of the best, and "Call Home the Heart" a lucky piece for any reader.

It is the story of a mountain girl, Ishma, by name, who in her very presence reflects the mountains and the sky and the fresh, clear air. She is the kind of woman that men love once and forever. Her story is the story of the revolt of a sentient, ambitious human being against the rigors of life and of the conquest of love. It is a simple story and one that has been told many times before Mr. Fielding set it down, but in his telling there is dignity and a beauty and a strength which makes the story more than the usual mountain tale. There is as much drama in it as in any of the tales of the mountain people, and there is as much seething psychology [to mention the two opposing schools of mountain novel writing], but the reader is never conscious of too much happening in simple minds or in their environment.

Characters Speak Mountain Tongue.

Unlike Maristan Chapman, who writes her narrative in the same idiom that her characters speak, Fielding Burke confines his mountainese to the conversation of his characters. In speaking of Ishma's eagerness for self-improvement the author says: "She noticed that visitors in the mountains, who sometimes found their way to Cloudy Knob and commented on the native speech as 'quaint,' or 'really Shakespearean,' were careful to use nothing resembling it." The characters all talk that "quaint" or "really Shakespearean" idiom, which gives them and the book a flavor extremely piquant for most readers.

During the long minutely detailed story Ishma becomes a mill worker in a small city, and the author is lengthily concerned with the injustice of capital to labor, a concern just on the uninteresting side on account of its length. But the whole novel is done in such a manner, like the "lazily uttered, half finished words and twisted syntax" of the mountain speech, and the episode in the mill town takes its leisurely way through the pages.

Finds Advantage in Long Book.

It is a rare book which need be so long as it is. One of the most dangerous allurements of the writing business is the writer's eagerness to put in everything he knows, or fill his pages with [however charming] too much fine writing. That siren call of the pen Mr. Burke has certainly listened to. "Call Home the Heart" could be exercised down a third [with a blue pencil] and it would be a healthier body for the reducing. However, many novel readers are like the Turks—they like 'em fat!

Vast 450 page novels may tear reviewer's eyes out of their sockets, but they have one advantage over shorter novels so far as booksellers are concerned. Nobody can steal-a-read a book as long as "Call Home the Heart." You don't know what that is, steal-a-read? It's a well known phenomenon in any bookshop. Steal-a-readers are a large part of the population of any spot where books are sold. They are the customers who come regularly to look over all the new books, and if there is a nice cozy chair handy or a pillar against which to lean they settle down to the perusal of a volume which takes their fancy. If they are rapid readers they can get through a book in eight or ten visits [of some length.] Booksellers have a name for them, spoken more in affection than in condemnation. They are almost always extremely intelligent people who buy a good many books, but never want to buy what our ancestors used to call "a pig in a poke." So they read generously and [in most cases] so thoroughly that that particular book doesn't need to be put on their charge accounts.

How Steal-a-Readers Got Their Name.

Old Frank Morris, who had one of the most famous bookshops in Chicago, either originated the label "Steal-a-Readers" or made it common coinage in the book business, for it was in a little pamphlet which commemorated his twenty-five years of bookselling that I first saw the expression.

When I had my bookshop there was almost a Steal-a-Reader club there. The only thing that kept the membership down was the fact that there wasn't a really comfortable chair in the shop, sitting on top of the ladders was hard on the back at long stretches, and the only place to lean against had radiators that smothered you in hot air. There was one member who was half way through Conrad when the shop was seven years old. One of my greatest sorrows at selling my bookshop was the knowledge that one of my favorite Steal-a-Readers would probably never finish the works of one of my favorite authors!

BY MARY MEADE.

It seems as though we never know how much goodness there is in the world until trouble arises. Our department has been the recipient of numerous letters from men and women offering their help financially and otherwise.

For the benefit of those who have inquired as to the relative cost of feeding a family we are going to quote from a bulletin prepared by nationally known food chemists and home economists for this purpose. If we can be of additional assistance to those readers wishing help, please call on us. The bulletin reads as follows:

"A family food guide, prepared especially for families that are feeling the stress of diminished earnings and unemployment has been issued under the title of 'Getting the Most for Your Food Money.' . . . The new leaflet suggests two low cost weekly rations. One of these rations provides the smallest quantity of the cheapest of the necessary kinds of foods on which a family of five can live in health. The other ration provides the smallest quantities on which the same family can 'get along for a while.'

"Each ration is balanced, that is, each contains the required quantities of each of the necessary kinds of food material—starch, protein, minerals, and vitamins. . . . Science has shown that it is the lack of certain essential kinds of food, as well as the insufficient quantity of food that produces pellagra, scurvy, rickets, and other forms of malnutrition.

"The first ration, the leaflet says, 'contains enough of each food to meet the needs of the body with a margin of safety. You can live on this ration for any length of time.' This is the ration:

Bread, flour, other grain products, lbs.	30
Milk, qts.	22
Potatoes, lbs.	20
Dried beans or peas, lbs.	1
Tomatoes, fresh and canned, lbs.	6
Leafy vegetables [greens], lbs.	10
Other vegetables and fruits, lbs.	10
Butter, lard, bacon and other fats, lbs.	3
Sugar, molasses, sorgo sirup, lbs.	3
Lean meat, fish or cheese, lbs.	7
Eggs, dozen	1

"The second ration provides no margin for emergencies. It includes:

Bread, flour, other grain products, lbs	20
Milk, qts.	16
Potatoes, lbs.	10
Dried peas or beans, lbs.	3
Tomatoes, fresh or canned, lbs.	5
Leafy vegetables [greens], lbs.	5
Other vegetables and fruits, lbs.	8
Butter, lard, bacon and other fats, lbs	5
Sugar, molasses, sorgo sirup, lbs.	5
Lean meat, fish or cheese, lbs.	5
Eggs, dozen	½

"The five parts of the dollar should be spent, the leaflet advises, as follows:

FOR A FAMILY WITH CHILDREN.

Milk and cheese	25c
Vegetables and fruit	25 to 30c
Flour, wheat, cornmeal, oats, rice, grits, bread, and other grain foods	15 to 20c
Butter, lard, other fats, molasses, sugar	15 to 20c
Meat, fish, eggs	15 to 20c

"The rations given apply to a family of five and the amount is for a one week period."

LORD CAVENDISH.

ADELE ASTAIRE.
[Vandamm Photo.]

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Adele Astaire, dancer and theatrical star, today said she planned to be married to Lord Charles Cavendish, son of the duke and duchess of Devonshire. "probably shortly after completing an engagement in Chicago."

"I don't know just when the wedding will take place," she said. "I'm going to London just as soon as I can leave this show, and then to Paris to buy my trousseau. Then Lord Cavendish, his mother, and I are all going to an Austrian watering place. After that we'll be married."

Radicals Plan Drive on N. Y., J. B. Chapple Warns Club Women

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—A sweeping attack upon radical organizations with innocent sounding names which seek to undermine American civilization was made today by John Chapple, militant Ashland, Wis., editor and leader of the anti-La Follette forces in his state, speaking before the New York State Republican Women's club.

Asserting that President Hoover referred indirectly to these organizations in his Lincoln day address when he declared that "invisible forces of destruction are at work in this country today," Mr. Chapple said that they already have made Wisconsin "exhibit A" for the nation at large, and are seeking to make New York "exhibit B." Many of the organizations which have been active recently in Wisconsin maintain national headquarters here, he stated.

"Under the opportunism of world-wide depression," Mr. Chapple remarked, "these destructionists have grown daring in their efforts to undermine our faith in the American economic order, with which our family life, our home life, our moral code, and our religious liberty, are so inextricably woven. These disciples of destruction have taken advantage of temporary discontent to breed distrust."

Mr. Chapple charged that organized efforts similar to those made in Russia have been adopted by interlocked organizations in this country.

Chicago Woman Has Family Stake in Latin Revolt

The revolution in the Republic of Costa Rica, which followed the presidential election Monday, is being watched with special interest by Mrs. Carmen Campo de Reimann, 7223 South Morgan street. She is a cousin of Ricardo Jiminez, former president who led the election, and also of Carlos Maria Jimenez, who ran third.

With family loyalty, Mrs. Reimann declared that "all the drunks" supported Manuel Castro Quesada, former Costa Rican minister to the United States, who is leading the revolt. He ran second to Ricardo Jimenez in the election.

Mrs. Reimann's home is Cartago, one of the provincial capitals of Costa Rica, which American employés on the Panama canal use as a summer resort. It was there that she met and married her husband, Francis A. Reimann, in 1927. He was an engineer employed on the canal at the time.

Norma Talmadge to Divorce Schenck in Paris, She Admits

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Norma Talmadge, in the old familiar husky voice with the throaty chuckle, confirmed today the Hollywood report that she was on her way to Paris to seek a divorce from Joseph Schenck, producer, to whom she was married in the fall of 1921.

"That's not news," argued Miss Talmadge.

"Mr. Schenck and I have been separated for five years, but I'm just getting around to the divorce, that's all.

"It is absolutely true, as Joseph said, that business caused the rift. We were happy together for nine years. Then he became president of the United Artists and was preoccupied or away a lot on business. I was lonely and unhappy and the marriage became unsatisfactory."

"There is no other man," Miss Talmadge asserted.

"Gilbert Roland?"

"No, that's silly."

"George Jessel, as Waldorf gossip had it, perhaps because their apartments are almost adjacent in the tower?"

"I should say not. For heaven's sake, deny that."

Editor to Speak.

Paul U. Kellogg, editor of the Survey and Survey Graphic, will speak at the Friday morning forum of the Abraham Lincoln center, 700 Oakwood boulevard. His subject will be "Security in a World of Loose Ends."

He Never Even Hoped to be on the Job Today
Up till Dawn . . Dining . . Dancing

Yet . . No "Acid Headache"
No Upset Stomach This Morning

THE Law of Good Health says: "Don't overindulge — don't smoke too much, eat too much, drink unwisely."

Science says: "If you do, the QUICKEST, SIMPLEST and EASIEST way to avoid FEELING its results is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia taken this way:

"TAKE 2 tablespoons in a glass of water before bed.

"TAKE—2 tablespoons in a glass of water with the juice of a whole ORANGE when you get up."

Or take six Phillips' Milk of Magnesia tablets, which give the same amount of Milk of Magnesia.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes the excess acids in your stomach and alkalinizes its contents, sweetens them; banishes headaches and sour stomach.

Demand genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia: either the liquid form or the new, convenient tablets.

PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA
Neutralizes the acids that cause "Acid Headaches" and Sour Stomach within 15 minutes after taking!

TWO FORMS NOW AT STORES
You can now get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in tablet form, as well as ordinary liquid form. Each tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Milk of Magnesia. Carry the tablets with you wherever you go. They taste like mint candy.

The Ten, Group of Modernists, Hold Exhibition

Make Strong Appeal with Beauty of Color.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

For the third year the group which calls itself "The Ten" are seen in an exhibition in the Marshall Field galleries. The ten are painters and differ among themselves; the group, indeed, is held together only by the fact that each member is a seeker along new ways. These are modernists of a gentle persuasion. Gentle, at least, is applicable to certain of them; others, George Josimovich and Emil Armin, to be explicit, are too involved with the vigor of movement to have time for any gentlenesses.

Charles Biesel is represented with a gay and animated scene, "Adventurer's Camp," a place on a lake in the hills, where bright canoes in the foreground skim like butterflies over the very blue water. His "A Gloucester Fisherman" is a striking portrait of a boat, framed so that the frame accents the changing colors of the painting. His "Back of the Dunes" is a lovely landscape of hills and trees, all in the tenderest shades of young green. Fred Biesel throws a more direct challenge to the æsthetic with his blunt and forceful flower studies and his figure painting.

Emile J. Grumieaux, with his passionless, clear, and cool painting, offers a striking contrast to the rugged turbulence of color used by George Josimovich. Emil Armin is apparently still contenting himself with delightful jiggles of line and paint; Gustaf Dalstrom remains the poet and his "School Yard" and "Village Outskirts" are fascinating. V. M. S. Hannell is the most gently persuasive of the group, but his gentleness is not inspiring; one finds, for instance, "Shifting Sands" too tremulously soft. The iron that he lacks is plentiful in the work of Jean Crawford Adams, who concludes the exhibit. Her "Colored Boy" is fine and her carrots in "Blessing the Vegetables" are crisply perfect.

The exhibit will continue to Feb. 27.

Soviets to Hold Style Exhibition to Set Standards

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Feb. 16.—What the well dressed Russian will wear, soviet style, will be the subject of an exhibition soon to be opened in Moscow.

But this "spring showing" will be about as much different from a Rue de la Paix revue as the Krimlin is from the Empire State building. It will display clothes sent in by any one who feels so moved—workers, peasants or artists—and the garments winning the first prizes will be used as manufacturing standards.

Style as such will play no part in the awards. Indeed, the judges will consider the exhibits from the standpoint of sanitary design and suitability for different kinds of work. The purpose of the exhibition is to stimulate interest in "socialistic aims" for the clothing industry.

"The United States leads the world in the mass production of clothes, but there they are designed without thoughts of practical utility and millions of dollars are spent annually in producing new styles," a spokesman for the clothing trust said today.

Right now most Russians don't pay much attention to style—they want strong clothes to cover their bodies, not frills. In Moscow a small group does its best to copy foreign styles with the limited means at its disposal, but this question remains: When the soviets ease the circumstances somewhat and make plenty of clothes, will they be able to produce their own modes or will public pressure force them to follow the Parisian dictates?

Radio Queen Will Sing at Benefit Ball

Children's Pennies Boost Lunch Fund.

Northwestern university will be represented at the George Washington benefit ball for hungry school children Monday night at the Aragon by Ruth Wenter, a sophomore, and a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Miss Wenter was selected queen of radioland last December. She will sing two numbers.

RUTH WENTER.

Another radio star will be Lawrence Salerno, W-G-N baritone, who will be accompanied at the piano by Allan Grant, also of W-G-N. Wayne King and his band will play at the Aragon, while at the Trianon, the center of a similar Washington bicentennial celebration, will be Bernie Cummings and his orchestra as well as special entertainment. An added Washington attraction at both ballrooms will be the appearance of six girls dressed in Martha Washington costumes who will sell candy throughout the evening.

Yesterday's gifts to the fund took a sudden and welcome spurt due to the receipt of the contributions of children in the various Sunday schools and these of Parent-Teacher associations. The total was $310.09 and is acknowledged as follows:

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

: Movie Familiarities.

After the building had been darkened and the picture had begun to show on the screen, I found that it was going to be impossible for my wife or me to see the picture because of a tall young man who was standing in front of us and others who were on the edge of the crowd which filled the lobby and stairway where this program was being given. Due to my own proportions, I knew that I would disturb the audience too much if I acted personally to remove the obstruction to our view, so I looked around in the darkness for some young pupil of whom I could request this favor.

Just a few feet from me I saw the dim outline of a short boyish figure with the regulation boy's style haircut. Without being able to distinguish whether he was a blond or brunette, and not seeing any reason for worry as to that, I reached over, and placing my hand across the shoulders of this supposed schoolboy, I said, "Say, son, won't you ask that tall young man to try to get down lower or find a place further back where his height will not obstruct the view of these people around here?"

Then, while my hand was still on this person's shoulder, the light in the vestibule suddenly turned on, so that some early departing guests might find their way out, and by the aid of its reflection in the room I was made aware of the fact that instead of a young schoolboy, I was addressing a very small middle aged lady with boyish bobbed gray hair, dressed in sport clothes and sweater jacket.

Fortunate for me, the lights as quickly went out again, allowing me to regain my composure, and I presume the lady felt somewhat as I did, for after performing my errand for me, and accepting my stammering apologies, she hastily departed.

Jobless Fathers Learn Ways of Rearing Children

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

At first glance it wouldn't seem as though unemployment or part time employment could possibly show any benefit in its wake. But it does show some. The extension departments of colleges and various schools and courses for adult education and for work in the trades arts and crafts are showing tremendous enrollments as a result of unemployment or part time employment.

"During the unemployment period," a report states, "the fathers often came to the clinic and the classes, for they had begun to appreciate that with children, as with machines, prevention is better than cure. At these classes the teacher gave an informal talk, 'asting twenty to twenty-five minutes, and afterwards answered questions and discussed problems with individaul parents who wished specific help."

The outline for the talk on "Habits," for instance, ran like this:

"When we are born we have some ready made ways of behaving—kicking, sleeping, sucking, crying, and grasping. There are other ways of behaving which we have to learn. These are called 'habits.' We have to learn the habits of eating at regular times, sleeping at regular times, putting away our toys, and hanging up our clothes.

"Helps in teaching right habits to children:

1. Praise children when they do the right thing.
2. Be firm about doing things regularly.
3. Give children a chance to do things for themselves.
4. Be patient with children, for many times they are very awkward in trying to do things.
5. We must behave the way we wish the children to behave. We should hang up our clothes if we expect children to hang up theirs. We should say 'thank you' to a child if we expect him to say 'thank you' to us.
6. Children are not born with habits; they learn them. Grown up people who have charge of children decide what habits the children are to have.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfaction in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

BABY FRETFUL, RESTLESS?

Look to this cause—

Does your baby have nights when he fusses, tosses and seems unable to go quickly, quietly to sleep? Look for one common cause, doctors say. A constipated condition.

To get rid quickly of accumulated wastes which cause restlessness and discomfort, nothing is better than genuine time-proven Castoria.

Castoria, you know, is made specially for children's delicate needs. It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics of any kind.

It is mild and gentle enough to relieve a young infant's colic pains, yet is an effective regulator for children of school age.

When your baby is upset and unable to sleep, or has a little cold or fever, it is a wise precaution to give him the gentle but sure regulative help of Castoria. With regulation come relaxed comfort and restful sleep.

Keep a bottle always on hand. Children like the taste of real Castoria—which always has the name, Chas. H. Fletcher, on the package.

Chas. H. Fletcher.

Former Editor from Chicago Takes Film Job

Griswold Heads Publicity for Fox Interests.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 16.—Glenn Griswold, former Chicago reporter and editor, now here as one of the Fox Film corporation executives helping to reorganize things around the Fox plant, was lamenting today when be sieged by a bevy of feminine fan magazine writers at the "Café de Paris" [which is the grand title painted over the studio eating house].

"I haven't had time to see how they make movies or learn anything definite about the studio," said Griswold, who as vice president of the Fox corporation in charge of public relations, has been assigned to revamp the system for advertising, publicity, exploiting of pictures and gaining public good will.

"I've only been here two weeks. I haven't had time yet to go around our own lot. I'm going to get a torch some night, and walk all around the plant to see what a movie studio is like."

Griswold's job is a big one, for in the last several years the Fox studio, due to bans on interviews, office rules against quoting of stars and directors, and a variety of small matters, turned back much of the popularity with writers about movie affairs that Fox formerly has enjoyed.

Just about twenty years ago Jim Thorpe was the hero of the Stockholm Olympic games, greeted by kings, bemedaled and acclaimed in headlines of the whole world as the greatest athlete ever competing. Yesterday we spotted Jim sitting alone on the iron bench in the front lobby of the Fox studio, waiting for an interview with some motion picture studio subordinate boss about a job.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has been testing actresses for weeks trying to fill the name rôle for "Red-Headed Woman." [We suspect Clara Bow may still get the job]. But anyway, the current Hollywood crack is "They've tested every red-head in Hollywood except Mrs. Leslie Carter for the rôle."

The Hollywood description for the 1932 style bathing suit, applied after witnessing poses of several studio fashion designers' efforts, is "more girl, less suit." The screen beauties are doing their posing now for summer magazines and are wearing one-piece effects in striped cloth, checkerboard and two color jersey effects.

Another girl has thrown up a Hollywood contract and gone east out of homesickness. Nedra Gillette rang down the curtain on her budding career when she sent word to Universal she didn't want to come back and resume film rôles after going east for Christmas holidays. She was brought here from the stage and given the film name of Nedra Norris.

Music Director Reports Increase in Piano Study

Dr. J. Lewis Browne, director of music in the public schools, yesterday told members of the National Association of Piano Tuners, meeting in the Auditorium hotel, that interest in piano study for children is increasing.

He attributed this to constant efforts on the part of teachers. He added that in the last three years 36,000 pupils in Chicago grade schools had been given group lessons out of school hours at a cost of 25 cents an hour per pupil, and that of these children 6,000 are now being instructed by private teachers.

Gasoline May Be Used to Kill Old Tree Roots

BY PAUL POTTER.

Ordinary methods of getting rid of obnoxious or badly damaged trees sometimes fail city property owners. Where such varieties as willows or cottonwoods are to be cut away to make room for maples or elms, the destruction must often be carried down into the roots which continue to send up shoots.

A case in point is that of V. Barthel of 1620 Nelson street, who tells of cutting down two willow trees because the fine roots were growing into pipes at the joints. He cut the trees about a foot below the ground level, leaving the root system. Pouring a solution of 25 pounds of rock salt into the holes and covering them failed to kill the roots.

"Recently," Nelson writes, "we again had trouble with the clogging. What I would like to know is whether the roots of those willows will continue to grow even though the trees are cut down."

The handicap most property owners see in using salt or other killing agents for the roots is that the lawn is also ruined in the process. This is overcome by veteran foresters by removing the sod for a considerable area about the hole left by the stump. The sod is kept in a pile and moist.

Then about two gallons of kerosene or gasoline are poured into the hole and over the dirt where sprouts indicate the roots to be near the surface. This is not fired, but allowed to soak into the soil. Care must be used to see that the tap roots and laterals have all been severed and that sprouts are cut off.

In two or three weeks from the time of application the sod may be replaced, with additional soil being added to fill the hole, and little chance exists that the roots will survive.

Columbia Course Sees Need of New Type of Marriage

New York, Feb. 16.—[U. P.]—A new course at Columbia university, required of all undergraduates, teaches that the distinction between legitimate and illegitimate parenthood should be abolished.

"Rational considerations suggest," says the course, "it would be wise to extend social approval to responsible parents whether inside or outside the marriage relationship."

Moreover, the course in contemporary civilization attacks the modern home and family as inadequate in serving the affectional needs of those who have entered into the relationship.

"Its purpose," said John J. Coss, professor in charge of the course, "is orientation. Our course involves the teaching of how men have lived in the past and how they live today."

The students are told that there is a need in present day civilization for new forms of unions to replace those of marriage. The unconventional unions have assumed various forms, according to Miss Ruth Reed, author of the readings, but "primarily they are designed for those who wish some sexual companionship without the close association and manner of life now urged upon married couples and they aim to meet the need of those women who wish children without the constant association of a man which modern conventional marriage entails."

"The family in its present form is inadequate," the course points out. "At every period in the history of matrimonial institutions there have been considerable groups of people who have not conformed to the social dicta. Among these people have been artists, seers and poets who, in the conduct of their personal affairs, have been allowed a measure of freedom which has not been accorded to other groups.

"This desire for more personal liberty is now extending, however, to other groups of business and professional classes. The result has been the formation of new forms of marriage and of unconventional unions between men and women of similar background and tastes, in the hope that these unions may prove more amenable to their human needs."

Lubitsch, Film Director, to Produce Musical Shows

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 16.—[Special.] Ernst Lubitsch, German director of numerous movie hits on both sides of the Atlantic, arrived from New York today and declared he probably would accept an offer to produce musical plays on the Broadway stage. He said that Walter Wanger, former film studio executive; Dimitri Tiomkin, composer-pianist, and Albertina Rasch, ballet director, would be associated with him in his musical play venture.

"JIM was trying to be nice about it . . . but that painted look really repulsed him. He just had to say something."

Painted lips are one thing a man will not stand for. And it's so easy to offend. Colors that you think look well by themselves may look cheap and common on you!

Be safe! Don't run the risk of having painted lips. Forget your present lipstick at once. From now on, Tangee your lips!

Tangee can't make you look painted. It isn't paint. It's a new discovery that changes on your lips to the one color best for you! It brings you new loveliness and charm.

Tangee is permanent—waterproof. Its special cold cream base soothes and heals your lips . . . prevents chapping and caking.

Get Tangee at your favorite druggist or cosmetic counter. It costs no more than ordinary lipsticks. For Miracle Make-Up Set, containing purse size samples of Tangee Lipstick and Rouge—send 10c to The George W. Luft Company, Dept. T77, 417 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Cheeks Mustn't Look Painted! Tangee Rouge changes on the cheeks—just the way Tangee Lipstick does on your lips. It gives the color most becoming to you . . . ends that "painted look"! When you get Tangee Lipstick, ask for Tangee Rouge.

Just Follow These Rules

1. Each day for 36 consecutive days (except Sundays) the Chicago Daily Tribune will print a Washington Bi-Centennial Crossword Puzzle. In each puzzle an historic event in Washington's life will be named. You are invited to solve the puzzle and name the event.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved complete sets of puzzles in accordance with these rules. Note: This means that you do not necessarily have to solve each of the 36 puzzles correctly to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

3. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys, and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

4. Puzzles are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 36. Then send them to "Crosswords," Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Puzzle No. 36 has been printed.

5. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Postoffice Department. Make your entry simple and neat. Neatness will count.

6. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

7. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

MUSSOLINI TAKES CONTROL OF ALL ITALY'S INDUSTRY

System of Economics Is to Be Reorganized.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 16.—Capitalism, as it is understood in those countries where sales are the result of free bargains between buyers and sellers, will cease to exist in Fascist Italy with the approval by the chamber of deputies of a bill compelling all Italian industries to form cartels, or trusts, to regulate production and sales wherever this is declared necessary to public interests.

The proposed legislation was debated and approved by the central corporative committee presided over by Premier Mussolini last night. The measure now goes to the chamber, which will give it primary attention when it convenes on Thursday. It is described as a continuation of the process of implementing the corporative system in Italy. Effectively it means the adoption of state socialism, for in the future the production and sale of goods will be governed by state bodies in the interests it is said, of both consumers and producers.

State to Control Industry.

The bill was drawn up by the ministry of corporations. It gives effect to hints made in speeches by Mussolini and Minister of Corporations Giuseppe Bottai last fall that pre-war capitalism would soon die in Italy and that a system of complete state controlled economics would be established through the machinery of corporations in the Fascist labor charter.

The reorganization of industry now contemplated is a sequel to recent legislation on banking which resulted in the formation of a state credit institution for taking over industrial shares and the issuing of state guaranteed debenture bonds.

It was understood that compulsory cartelization will be applied first to the iron and steel industries, and later, as it is deemed advisable, to automobile, chemical, silk, mining, and public utility concerns. In fact, voluntary cartelization has been proceeding in certain industries for some time and the present legislation by compulsion extends it generally.

Rice Institute Established.

What is known as the rice institute was established some months ago and this body raised the price of rice from 200 lire [about $10.44] per ton, which was the prevalent market level, to 500 and 600 lire [about $26.10 and $61.32], or what it costs Italian growers to produce it.

Later a pact was reached between machinery producers and merchants' associations for regulating the sale of industrial and agricultural machinery. A month ago a decree of law was passed by the council of ministers compelling all metallurgical industries to combine to regulate production and sale, and it is apparent that this last piece of legislation is now to be extended to all Italian industry.

The text of the new socialistic scheme has not yet been made public, but the press tonight indicates the lines along which it will be applied, emphasizing its aspect of state intervention in economics so that all production will eventually form an organic system similar to Russia's system with the exception that private property will be admitted. Mussolini, it was announced, spoke of the new legislation on industry and then discussed each individual article at last night's session.

Announcement of these economic reorganizations made no change in Italian stock markets by reason that for more than one year there has been no individual public buying of Italian securities.

YOUTHS CONFESS 14 ROBBERIES IN CHICAGOLAND

Two 20 year old bandits, arrested last week in Aurora, confessed yesterday to police there that they had committed fourteen robberies of business houses in Chicago, Rockford, Elgin, Aurora, Joliet, De Kalb, Batavia, Pontiac, and Kankakee during the last few weeks.

The prisoners are Judson Lee Miller and Lionel Bruce, both of Joliet. Both are married and they left their wives in Peoria when they set out on the stickup expedition to Aurora which resulted in their arrest.

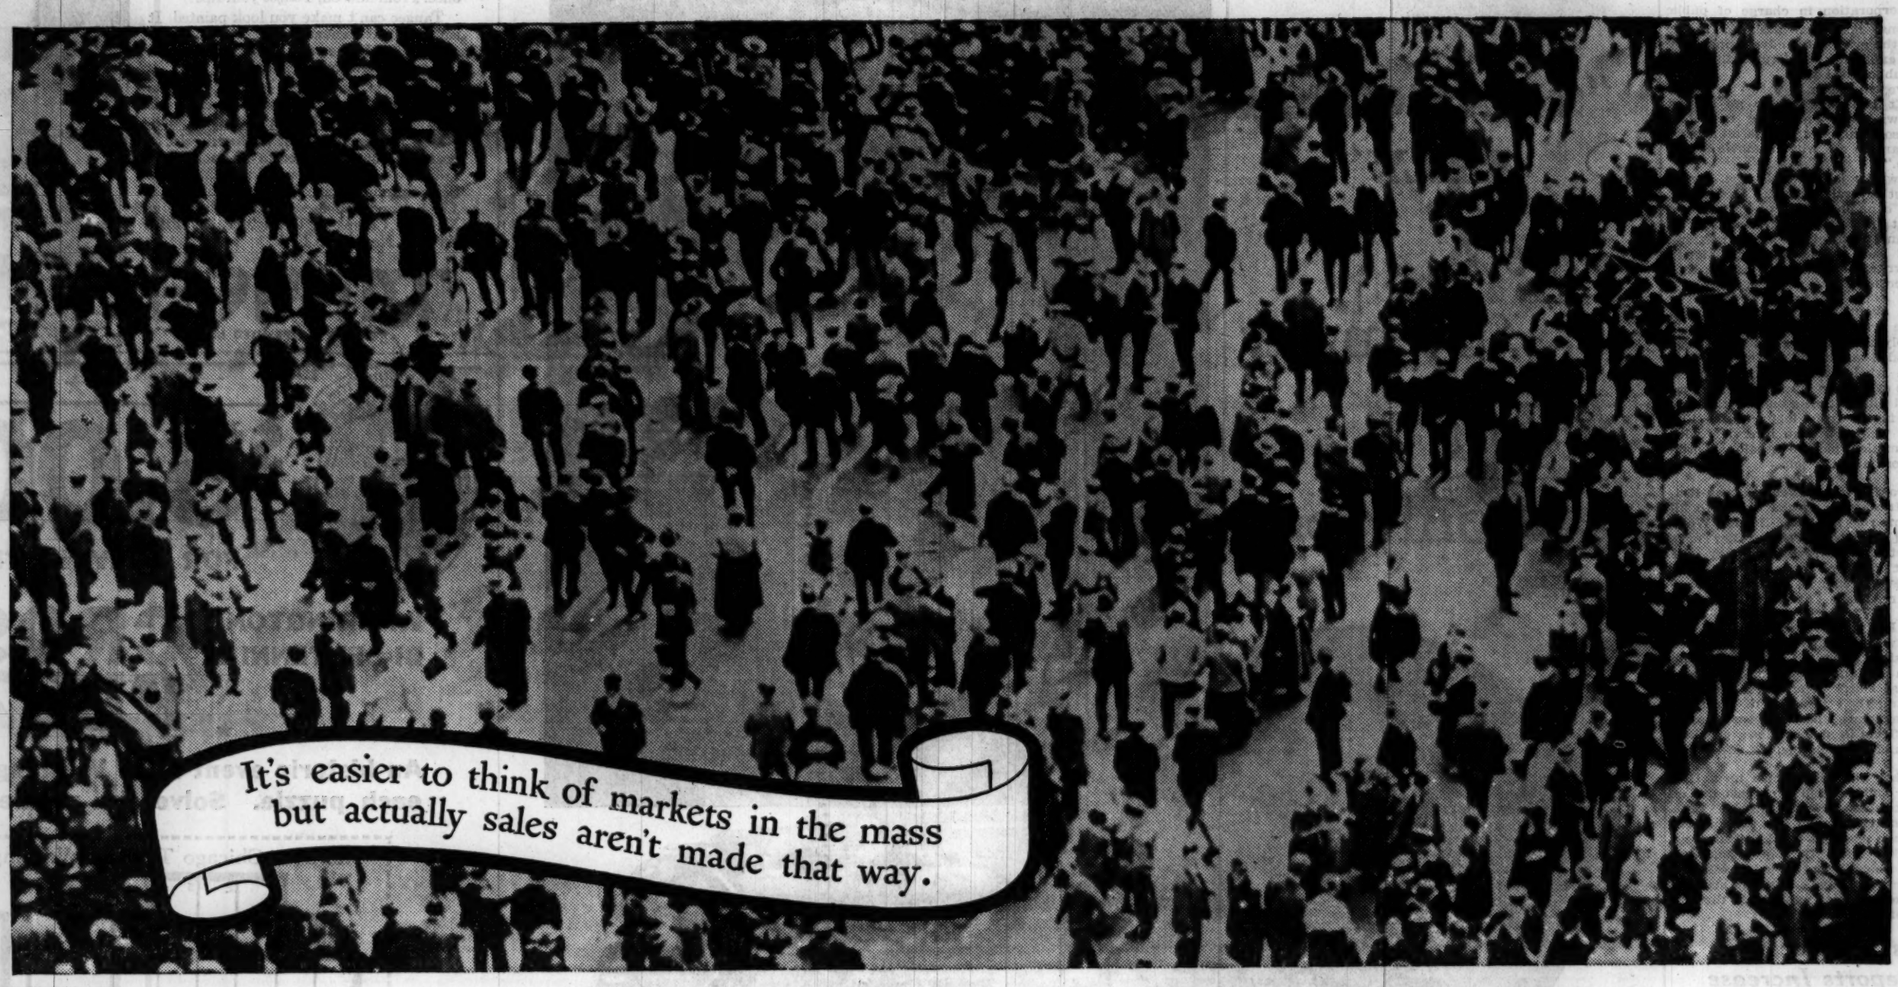
How do they spend their incomes?



$2,000 a year—people? $3,000 a year—? $5,000?.....over $10,000 a year—?

Consider Soap . . . Do lower bracket families use more of it because they get dirtier? Or do they use less because they don't wash so often? A ten-thousand-dollar income buys an oil burner. A two-thousand-dollar income doesn't. But how about the five-thousand-dollar income? Does it or doesn't it? That is the question.

HOW do families of different incomes vary as prospects for coffee, ginger ale, refrigerators, cosmetics, automobiles, gasoline, shoes?

How about the products you sell? Isn't the key to efficient selling an exact knowledge not only of where it is sold but of what income groups buy it?

Everybody knows that buying habits and preferences vary widely with income. But how do they vary? That has remained a mystery.

TIME has just completed the most thorough survey of purchasing habits by incomes that has ever been made.

In its New York office, TIME now has the records of a million and a half retail purchases made in the typically American town of Appleton, Wisconsin — purchases that reveal the buying habits of six thousand American families in various income levels, as told to investigators by housewives, verified by dealer records and correlated for the first time in any survey with sworn income tax returns.

The tabulations of this survey, now published in two volumes under the title of "Markets By Incomes," furnish the first accurate yardstick for measuring the cash value of markets by income groups.

Valuable to Sales Executives

The result is a vast fund of reliable information in a field that has previously been approached by guesswork based on individual opinions. "Markets By Incomes" is the only exhaustive survey of buying habits by incomes in existence. Hundreds of advertisers will use "Markets By Incomes" to arrive at a far more accurate analysis of their potential markets and as the basis for sales strategy that shoots directly at its target.

The information supplied in "Markets By Incomes" is given in both tabular and graphic form. Volume I will soon be sent to key executives concerned with sales and advertising.

RABBIT PUNCH IS TABOO; WHAT RABBIT PUNCH?

The One They Didn't Use in Football.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 16.—You may imagine your correspondent's surprise on learning that the football rules committee, including Mr. W. S. Langford, the secretary, had decided to eliminate or, anyway, restrict, the use of the rabbit punch, considering that Mr. Langford, with no little heat, denied not long ago that any such punch existed in the game.

Mention of the same was destructive and ignorant criticism, said Mr. Langford, and one was allowed to infer that the punch drunk centers and other linemen who babble and cry in the dressing rooms after the games and those who go to the infirmaries briefly between Saturdays to recover from concussion of the brain get that way from wearing Derby hats.

Kill Evil That Never Was.

For all that Mr. Langford's recorded opinions show to the contrary, he has now subscribed to a rule designed to eliminate an abuse that never had any existence, as though congress were to pass a law forbidding crooners to sing bass.

But anyway, it all shows that even if the rabbit punch existed Mr. Langford wouldn't like it and that is some comfort to your correspondent, who brought up the subject in the first place and felt quite lonely in his position until Mr. Pop Warner of Stanford, at the coaches' union meeting, casually acknowledged that linemen were being slugged on the head and taught how to slug back by their coaches. Mr. Warner is one who should know better than Mr. Langford and he dealt with the rabbit punch as something as familiar in football as perjury in the courts.

It is, however, hard to see how the new rule improves upon the old rule, because it still permits the players to use their hands to ward off or push an opponent on the head, neck or face to get at the ball or the man who has it, which privilege calls for a delicate discrimination between a shove and a blow.

It Isn't Being Done.

The old rule was a liberal paraphrase of the sentimental ballad, "Don't Sock Your Mother, It's Mean," depending for its success on the conscience of the individual, and the new one merely reaffirms that to clout an opponent on the base of the brain with a hand like a catcher's mitt stuffed with railroad spikes is indeed reprehensible in the eyes of all right minded citizens. It appears that a center, stooping over the ball with his two hands engaged, may still be shoved, gently but firmly on the exposed back and the base of his brain by some one wishing to establish contact with the ball or the holder thereof, the vigor and intent of the push to be matters of interpretation by officials, who may have business elsewhere. Possibly the situation calls for not more rules, but more police and an awakening of conscience among the coaches.

It has always seemed odd that football players, intending merely to push their opponents out of the way and never to slug them, should come onto the field with their wrists and hands taped for support as though they were Dempseys entering the ring for frank and earnest punching.

Bandage Familiar Item.

Yet the hand bandage has been a familiar item of the players' armor and the fact that it is wound upon their hands and wrists in their dressing rooms by their trainers will suggest that their coaches expect them to push so vigorously as to sprain the unsupported wrist or crack the knuckles. A captious referee might interpret such a push as a punch and the injustice of the new penalty, disqualification and half the distance to the goal, when a man in his secret heart wished only to push up to the limit of the law, is too apparent to need pointing out.

The old rule would have been adequate if any one had ever been able to define the exact difference between a push and a clout and since the officials are not the players' pastors the new one will call for arbitrary judgments at the risk of irreparable wrong to [a] the pusher, if his intent is misread, or [b], the sluggee, if the blow is under estimated.

A large football player with a heavy hand can drop it on another player's undefended neck or the base of his brain in strictly legal fashion under the most fastidious interpretation of the rules and still beat him dizzy and possibly rupture a few blood vessels.

They Just Won't Be Nice.

A certain way to have abolished the danger would have been to forbid the use of hands on the head altogether until such time as the coaches learn to be nice, if ever. That they have not learned to be nice for all their protestations at their union meetings was revealed by Mr. Warner when he wrote so familiarly about the rabbit punch.

There will be some who will deny the supposition that a center can be injured in the brain, quoting the old football theory that the brain power of the forward line starts at the center with a rating of zero and increases in proportion to the player's remoteness from the middle, the ends being regarded as really intelligent fellows. That may be the reason why the coaches, in drawing diagrams usually represent the center with a lower-

SHAMROCKS GAIN 2D PLACE BY WIN OVER FLIERS, 3-2

Dye Fined $50 for Only Row of Game.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—The Chicago Shamrocks climbed another notch toward the top of the American Hockey league tonight by stopping the St. Louis Fliers, 3 to 2.

A rough and tumble third period, in which Manager Babe Dye of the Shamrocks was fined $50 for arguing with Referee Eddie O'Leary, closed with the St. Louis sextet trailing after a valiant fight for a share in second place. The victory moves the Shamrocks into second place and drops the Fliers to a tie with Duluth for third position.

Burns Scores Flier Goal.

Clayton, center for the Shamrocks, scored the first goal in the opening period on an assist from MacFadyen. It came in 7 minutes. The Shamrocks easily had the upper hand through the other two periods, capitalizing on their snappy teamwork in the second period by scoring two more goals. Bud Wiseman was the hero in putting over both markers. He took an assist after three minutes of the period from Buswell and was wide open to drive in a score. With 13 minutes of the second session gone, Prelesnik took an assist from Wiseman and drove home the third Chicago score.

The only goal earned by the St. Louis sextet, aside from the one awarded by Referee O'Leary, was scored after 30 seconds of the second period by Bobby Burns, recently acquired by the Fliers from the Shamrocks. Lineup:

ST. LOUIS [2].		CHICAGO [3].

POLAND, 4; MARQUETTE, 2

The Polish Olympic hockey team, which ran like Dick O'Hara during the recent series at Lake Placid, coming home last in a field of four, underwent a sudden and unexpected form reversal, as the horse people say, at the Chicago Stadium last night. After having lost six games in the Olympic tournament, the young men from Poland turned around and with almost no difficulty defeated Marquette university, 4 goals to 2.

On past performances, the Polish team should have been about 10 to 1 in the handicapping charts last night, but they ran like a 1 to 2 chance throughout the three 15 minute periods, astonishing not only the boys from Milwaukee but also about 2,000 spectators, not to mention themselves. The proceeds of the contest went to the fund for defraying the expenses of Olympic athletes.

The Boys Move Fast.

Among those in attendance was a group of Blackhawks including Johnny Gottselig, Chuck Gardiner, Lolo Couture, George Boucher, Teddy Graham, Jerry Lowery and Helbe Bostrum, who stayed for the entire performance and seemed as much amazed as the spectators that such a speedy outfit could do no better than run last in the Olympics, which speaks well for the Canadian, American and German teams which finished ahead of them.

Both the Polish and Marquette teams displayed some of the fastest skating of the season at the Stadium, which may have been due in part to the fact that they packed less upholstery on their frames than their elders in the big leagues.

The heroes of the Polish victory were one Mauer, who scored two goals in much the same fashion as Gottselig, and Goalie Stogowski, one of the largest gatekeepers ever to appear at the stadium. Only one Marquette athlete succeeded in deceiving Stogowski. He was Squint Elnes, who concealed his partial baldness with a baseball cap and who scored both of the Hilltoppers' goals.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

VACATION THOUGHTS.

DURING our vacation period The Wake had occasion to make a trip to New York and New England. What impressed us most was the attitude of hotels and those public or private servitors accustomed to gratuities from the means of the common or garden variety of traveler. If this here now depression has accomplished nothing else, it has instilled a healthier regard for the dollar or parts thereof in the minds of those formerly somewhat contemptuous.

At the Gotham hotels whose clerks once looked askance if one wished a room for less than ten smackers per, with plenty above that figure, the young man at the desk without solicitation explained, "We have nice large, outside rooms for $6, or if for any reason you wish to pay less, there are good rooms for $5 and $4." Could it be possible?

Cards on room writing desks called attention to club breakfasts in the hotel dining room at economical prices and to table d'hôte dinners instead of the financially wrecking à la carte schedules of Knickerbocker hotels.

Pullman porters, to whom anything less than an iron man once was almost an insult, smiled and thanked for a four bit gratuity and hoped "you will be coming back my way." Red caps, bell hops, and others palmed eagerly two bits, where once such an indignity bespoke no future service.

Traveling expense, that is, the incidentals of traveling expense, which is the chief source of financial loss when one has to make up an expense account for Friend Arch, have been deflated. In that respect at least the depression has left whatever of blessing there may be in a depression. This is simply confidential with our readers and not intended for Friend Arch, for there still will be expense account problems with him no doubt.

DEMPSEY ENDS TRAINING TODAY FOR LEVINSKY

Kingfish Plans Rest at Miami After Bout.

Following light workouts at loop gymnasiums today, Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, and King Levinsky of Chicago will rest for their four round no decision bout at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night. Dempsey arrived yesterday from Flint, Mich., but he did not work out. He looked to be in good condition and the small cut he received in the K. O. Christner bout last week has healed.

Levinsky boxed four rounds with Roy Williams, south side light heavyweight, at Trafton's gym. After the workout he said he will leave for Miami, Fla., Friday for a three weeks' rest.

Real Test for Jack.

The Levinsky bout will be a real test for Dempsey, the King being the former champion's first real opponent since he started his comeback tour. The King has compiled a good record since losing to Ace Hudkins at Mills stadium last summer, engaging in nine bouts.

He defeated Joe Sekyra immediately after Sekyra whipped Charley Retzlaff. He boxed a draw with Con O'Kelly, lost to Primo Carnera and Max Baer and won from Tommy Loughran, Jimmy Slattery, and Paulino Uzcudun.

O'Neil Replaces Zorrilla.

Mickey O'Neil, Milwaukee junior welterweight, will replace Santiago Zorrilla against Barney Ross in an eight round supporting number. Millo Militti, Omaha welterweight, will make his local bow in the other eight round bout, meeting Franta Nekolny of Prague, Czecho-Slovakia. Billy Jones, Philadelphia Negro, will seek his fourth straight victory at the Stadium when he clashes with George Nichols of Buffalo in the semi-final match of the light heavyweight championship tournament.

Report Jones Is Considered for Iowa Job

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—It was learned here today that Coach Howard Jones of Southern California is among the coaches selected by officials of the University of Iowa on the possibility of succeeding Burton Ingwersen as head football coach here.

Southern California athletic officials, reached by telephone today, said they knew of Jones conferring with Hawkeye officials, but doubted whether he was asked to accept the head coaching position there. Jones coached at Iowa in 1921 and 1922.

It also was reported that Jones talked with a Hawkeye official in Chicago last week and is expected to come to Iowa City immediately after the football rules committee meeting, which he is attending with W. O. Hunter, Trojan athletic director.

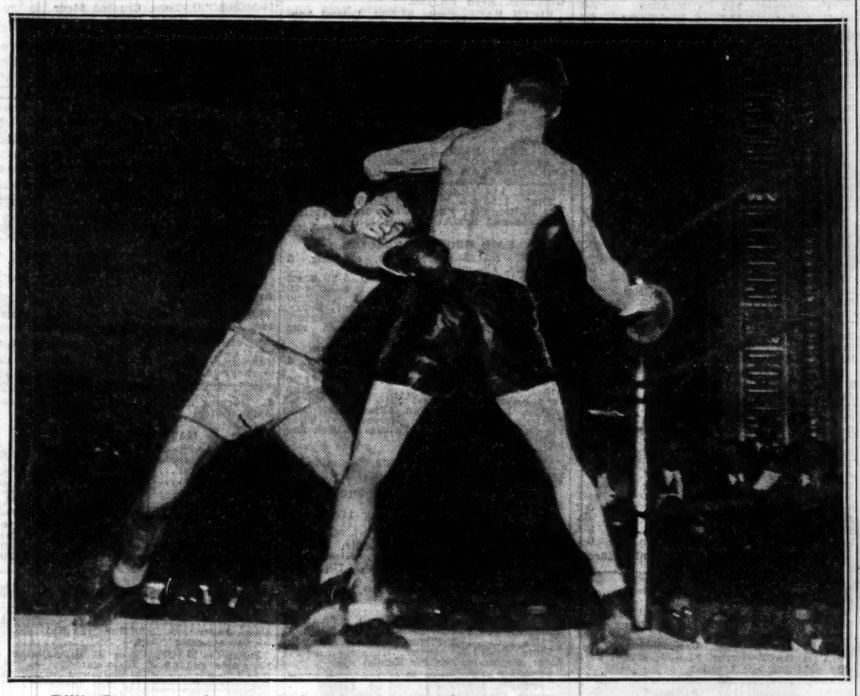
BADGERS SEEK CRISLER

Madison, Wis., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Three well known football coaches—H. O. [Fritz] Crisler, Minnesota; Maj. Bob Neyland, Tennessee, and Dr. Clarence Spears, Oregon—are being considered in the University of Wisconsin's search for a football coach as a successor to Glenn Thistlethwaite, resigned.

Crisler is wanted by the Wisconsin athletic council, and a tentative offer has been made the Gopher coach, but to date he has not accepted. Maj. Neyland was in communication via long distance with the Badger council yesterday, but he has not decided as to his course of action.

The fact that he has so far refused to sign a 1932 contract with Tennessee is looked upon as an indication that Neyland is considering the Badger berth, and rumors from Knoxville, Tenn., are to the effect that he has disagreed with athletic authorities there regarding the terms of the new contract.

SOCK! AND IT DOESN'T TICKLE, EITHER



Billie Barton pounds out a decision over Laddie Razhon, right, in 160 pound semi-final of west side Golden Gloves trials. Beaten later in the final round by Walter Jerz. Barton nevertheless proved his courage and ability, assets that will make him a strong contender in the future.

Frank Beran Jr. (left), one of the 16 survivors of the west section trials, is convincing J. Mirabile that he deserves that honor in their semi-final bout in the 126 pound division. Beran then beat Otto Prucha in a final bout.

Cookies, Keys Make Golden Glove Heroes

BY FRENCH LANE.

Tough guys who think a fellow must be a bricklayer, a steel worker, a steamfitter, a coal heaver, or a ditch digger to be able to fight please try and laugh this one off.

Out at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium last night near the center of Chicago's great melting pot sixteen boys—all of them game and all of them punchers—fought their way into THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions which opens at the Chicago Stadium on the night of Feb. 29.

A Stenog, a Biscuit Maker.

And from an original field which was a Golden Gloves record breaker two of the west side champions slipped out of the auditorium into the fog and the rain on Van Buren street with the cheers of every spectator ringing in their ears. These boys were both lightweights. Neither was a bricklayer, a steel worker, a steamfitter, a coal heaver, or a ditch digger.

One is a stenographer. The other is a biscuit baker.

Laugh, you tough mugs, until your sides hurt, but all the furious lightweight fighters from the west side were knocked over and soundly spanked by George Holden of Geneva, who is the stenographer, and by Danny Neenan, from the heart of the west side, who is the biscuit baker.

And the stenographer and the baker will be right in the thick of the fight until the championship Golden Gloves are passed out. Every spectator who watched these boys fight for two nights will tell you that, and they will not be making any wild guesses.

Holden No Stranger.

Perhaps some of the other west side champions will win Golden Gloves, for there are some real fighters in the ranks, but it will be Holden and Neenan—the stenographer and the biscuit maker—who will have the west siders all pulling for them.

Holden isn't a newcomer to Golden Gloves. He was the runner up last year. He whipped his man from New York in the intercity bouts. Fighting his way through this newest tournament he appeared to be a better boxer and a better fighter than he was a year ago.

He's a long, lanky, clean cut kid and he may get whipped some day, but he goes about his Golden Gloves fighting assignment in a way to indicate that no one should worry about the outcome but George Holden himself.

This kid Neenan is also rather tall.

HOMBURGER WINS 4 MAN BOBSLED TITLE FOR 2D TIME

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 15.—[Special.]—Traveling at an average speed of 48 miles per hour, Henry Homburger drove his team of Saranac Red Devils to their second successive North American and A. A. U. four man bobsleigh championship this morning over the Mount Van Hoevenberg bob run.

Homburger drove down the chute in 1:55 and 1:53.34, but it remained for the Rumanian combination, piloted by Lieut. Alexander Papana, to make the fastest run of the day, 1:53.01, not far behind Homburger's world's record of 1:52. With this fine trip the Rumanians gained runner-up honors, as their total time was 3:51.31 to 3:48.34 for the Red Devils.

Hubert Stevens piloted his Lake Placid A. C. quartet down in 1:57.39 and 1:54.30 for a total of 3:51.69. Raymond Stevens was fourth with 3:55.95 and Harry Grayson Martin fifth with 4:00.17. The original field of eight was cut to five when Hans Kilian of Germany, Reto Capadrutt of Switzerland and Curtis Stevens of Lake Placid failed to appear.

Host alternated with Ed Kosky at left end during the last two seasons. Kosky was also nominated for the position and Host defeated him on the final ballot.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Golden Gloves on the west side for 1932 is over. Last night at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium sixteen boys, two in each weight division, qualified for the Tournament of Champions. The other lads who set forth valiantly in quest of a diamond studded Golden Glove must wait another year.

Once again two thousand watched the second night of the west side tournament. Despite fog and rain, the hundreds came early and stayed late. The auditorium was well filled when the first bout was called at 7 o'clock and none left before the final match, nearly four hours later.

Ready for Other Qualifiers.

One hundred and twelve boys started in the west side tournament. Sixteen now remain, and most of these boys, judging by their performances for the last two evenings, are ready for the other Chicago qualifiers and the teams of champions which 21 cities will marshal at the Chicago Stadium Feb. 29.

Forty bouts were scheduled last night and, while the actual number fought in the ring was less because of disqualification by the examiners, there was enough action for twice that many professional matches. In at least three of the weight divisions no better bouts could be found, not excepting an intercity Golden Gloves series.

What's a Bruised Nose!

Ability, while it is essential if Chicago is to retain the greater number of positions on the intercity team as opposed to the out of town contestants, was not the outstanding feature of the qualifying tournament. Some had ability, but in the majority of cases Golden Gloves battles brought out those who, for the first time, tried their mettle under the glaring lights. There they learned whether they could take a punch and then give it back.

Golden Gloves bouts have proved that boys do have the courage to put on the padded mitts and that a bruised nose does not interfere with the enjoyment of the sport.

With the west side team determined the qualifying trials in the fifth annual tournament now shift to the north side. Another record number of entrants will compete tomorrow and Friday night at the Loyola university gymnasium for 16 positions in the Tournament of Champions.

Superior West Side Team.

The 1932 west side team undoubtedly is superior to that chosen last year. The lightweight division, in particular, has two representatives who could step into the ring against New York's best. One is George Holden, runner-up last year, and the other is Danny Neenan from Trafton's gymnasium. Neenan won the bout of the night when he defeated Earl Watson in three rounds.

Phil McQuillan of the Denemark Athletic club packs the hardest punch of all the west side Golden Glovers. This colored welterweight has been trying for a position on the Chicago team for a couple of seasons. Monday night he whipped Joe Fontana, last year's 147 pound runner-up. Last night in his qualifying match he knocked out Roy Brown of Maywood, another colored lad. And how he knocked him out! One punch, smack on the jaw, and Brown went backward to the canvas.

Colored Boys May Make Team.

Teddy Boyd of Trafton's gymnasium won the other welterweight qualifying position. He also is colored. With Johnny Phagan, the only Negro on last year's team, who also is a 147 pounder and who will fight in the south side trials, Chicago may have several Negro boys on the intercity squad.

Charles Neigo of Johnny Coulon's club is one of the qualifiers in the middleweights. Rugged and courageous, Neigo also possesses a punch which should take him a long way in the Tournament of Champions.

Duffy Dvonch of the Opal A. C. and Merrill Tonn of Dunning's Boxing school qualified as the west side heavyweights with scarcely any effort. In the final bout Dvonch, who is the Central A. A. U. champion from last summer's tournament, knocked out Fred Koenders of the Unemployed Clearing House A. C. in one round. Tonn was given a one round victory over Edward Barcal of Berwyn when Barcal went down without being hit.

Both of the qualifying heavyweights will be heard from in the Tournament of Champions.

JOLIET PICKS FINALISTS

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Joliet fight fans got a full portion of boxing tonight at the Spectator's Golden Gloves tournament when 16 boys battled through the semi-finals. The eight survivors meet the winners of last night's bouts in Moose hall Thursday night.

The order of the night was a bit different from that of last night, when knockout punches were making things hot for their opponents. The only knockout recorded tonight was that scored by Jack Kawa, Elgin heavyweight. He put Ronnie Davis, Aurora, down in one round and thirty seconds. Results:

Joe Alaimo, 118, Joliet, defeated John Gregorec, Joliet.

Joe Roman, 126, Joliet, defeated Henry Dunheimer, Aurora.

Bill Lorenz, 135, Aurora, defeated Dave Saunders, Lockport.

Thomas Murphy, 147, Joliet, defeated Clair Long, Rockdale.

Jack Kawa, heavyweight, Elgin, knocked out Ronnie Davis, Aurora [2].

SOUTH BEND FIGHTS

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—A Chicago boy attending Culver Military academy and an Elkhart lad stole the show in the opening bouts of the News-Times Golden Gloves tournament tonight. Neal Rumbaugh, Culver bantamweight, beat Zoley Horvath, one of the South Bend's best. Ronald Nelson, just a gawky Elkhart boy last year, tonight was a finished boxer with capable fists that brought him a decision over Steve Markovich, South Bend featherweight.

Izzy Gutstein, South Bend lightweight, floored Irving Warstler in a minute and 30 seconds for the only knockout. Seven bouts ended in technical decisions. Results:

Lightweight—Charles Tubbs, South Bend, stopped David Kocsis, South Bend [2]; John Houart, Benton Harbor, Mich., stopped William Smith, Buchanan [1]; Steve Horvath, South Bend, stopped John Redling, South Bend [3]; Isadore Gutstein, South Bend, stopped Irving Warstler, South Bend [1]; Kenneth Alwine, Goshen, stopped Wayne Glass, Plymouth [2]; David Hume, South Bend, beat Bob Parker, South Bend [3].

Cookies, Keys Make Golden Glove Heroes

Yet he has the build of an Apollo, and he rips into his foe from the time the first gong is heard until the battle ends. When he whipped Earl Watson, Negro lad who is a Golden Gloves veteran, he came out victorious in one of the greatest battles the west side sectional tournament produced.

Watson stood toe to toe with him and slugged for two rounds. Then he weakened and Neenan was all over him in the last round, delivering lefts and rights that would have knocked most anybody unconscious. But Watson still was on his feet fighting back with everything he had left when the battle ended.

Neenan is almost a novice in boxing as far as experience is concerned. About six months ago he got in the mood to do some exercising and he decided that boxing would answer the purpose.

Neenan a Sensation.

So he began taking on the fellows who were in training at Trafton's gym. He improved with each workout. Finally when the Golden Gloves entries for the west side sectional tournament were about to close he decided to get into the struggle.

He was the sensation of the meet. He would have stood out alone if such a clever boy as Holden had not been fighting.

Now the west siders can vision Neenan and Holden fighting it out for the Golden Gloves lightweight championship. They won't hardly know who to cheer for, the stenographer or the boy who bakes biscuits.

Scozza Gets Decision Over Larry Johnson

THURNBLAD AND BOZEMAN TO MEET HOPPE, COCHRAN

Arthur Thurnblad, former world's champion, and Jay N. Bozeman of Vallejo, Cal., have accepted the challenge of Willie Hoppe and Welker Cochran to a special three-cushion billiard tournament. Augie Kieckhefer, the world's champion, was included in the original challenge and will make his decision today.

Roy Hudson, Michigan Grid Star, Joins Indians

Cleveland, O., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Roy Hudson of Girard, O., captain of the 1931 University of Michigan football team, will be a member of the Cleveland Indians baseball club during spring training at New Orleans. Hudson, a first baseman, agreed today to General Manager Billy Evans' suggestion that he work out with the club this spring to give Roger Peckinpaugh an opportunity to size him up as a potential major leaguer. A contract was promised if he made good.

My Sullivan Knocks Out Gary Leach in Second

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 16.—(AP)—My Sullivan of St. Paul knocked out Gary Leach of Chicago tonight in the second round of a bout scheduled for 10 rounds. Leach bore in, smothering Sullivan with a two fisted attack through the first round and continued in the lead when midway in the second Sullivan sent his opponent down for a count of nine with a stinging right which traveled little more than a foot. Another right dropped Leach for a count of ten.

ROOSEVELT FIVE WINS TITLE IN NORTH SECTION

Defeats Senn, 35-15, to Enter Semi-Finals.

Semi-Finalists

FOLLOWING are the light-lightweight and heavyweight teams for each section which will compete in the semi-finals for the Chicago Public High School league championships:

LIGHTWEIGHT.
Central—Tilden and Phillips.
North—Roosevelt and Lane Tech.
South—Parker, Calumet or Bowen.
West—Crane, Tuley or Austin.

HEAVYWEIGHT.
Central—Phillips and Hyde Park.
North—Roosevelt, Lane Tech and Lake View tied.
South—Calumet nad Bowen.
West—Crane and Marshall.

Roosevelt's lightweight basketball team won the north division championship in the Chicago Public School league yesterday, defeating Senn, 35 to 15, in the last sectional game at the Roosevelt gymnasium. It will represent the division with Lane Tech, runnerup, in the semi-finals next week.

With Kreiger and Daar leading the attack, Roosevelt took a 25 to 4 lead at the half. Kreiger scored five goals and Daar sank four baskets and a free throw. Fox also starred, collecting four field goals.

In the central division, Phillips heavyweight team qualified for the semi-finals by whipping Tilden, 17 to 11. The score was tied, 5 to 5, at half time. Dennis and O'Neil led Phillips, the former scoring three field goals and the latter two.

Marshall's championship lightweight five lost its last chance to remain in the title chase when it lost to Tuley, 28 to 16. Tuley now is tied for second place in the west section with Austin, which won from Harrison, 42 to 19. Crane Tech won the sectional championship last Friday.

St. Mel's heavyweight squad took first place in the north section of the Chicago Catholic High school league by defeating Loyola, 34 to 18. St. Mel's victory broke the tie for the lead with St. Patrick, which drew a bye in last night's schedule. Cain led the victors, collecting seven points.

In the south section, St. Philip's heavyweight team maintained its lead, winning from St. Rita, 28 to 24. Mount Carmel, leader in the lightweight division, also triumphed, defeating Joliet, 44 to 9.

FAVOR BADGERS IN FOUR SCHOOL MEET SATURDAY

Track stars of four Big Ten schools will compete at Patten gymnasium Saturday night at the ninth annual quadrangular track meet among Chicago, Northwestern, Ohio State, and Wisconsin. The Badgers, winners of last year's meet, are a strong favorite to win again.

Wisconsin, in addition to being a heavy favorite in the high jump and the distance runs, stands a good chance of winning the pole vault and the shot put. Ralph Lovshin, Badger vaulter, is the best entered, while Simmons and Gnabah seem to have an edge on the other shot putters.

Chicago will be well represented in the dash and hurdle events. John Brooks, a sophomore from Hyde Park High school, is an excellent sprint prospect.

HELEN HICKS IS 1ST ROUND VICTOR IN FLORIDA GOLF

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Favorites in the Florida women's golf tournament, headed by Miss Helen Hicks, national champion, came through the first round today with brilliant victories. Miss Hicks found little trouble in defeating Mrs. R. P. Linburg, New York, 7 and 5.

Other favorites winning included Miss Maureen Orcutt, former eastern champion, who won from Miss Audrey Phipps, Palm Beach, 6 and 5; Miss Edith Quier, who triumphed over Mrs. L. Heineman, New York, 6 and 4, and Mrs. Lillian Zech of Chicago, who eliminated Mrs. George Howard of Canton, O., 4 and 2.

CUBS ARRIVE AT CATALINA ISLAND AMID DOWNPOUR

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Catalina, Feb. 16.—The so-called sunny state of California still was wearing its depression clothes when the advance squad of Cubs rolled into training quarters today. It was raining harder than the natives cared to admit when the big leaguers passed through Los Angeles this morning. It was still raining when the visitors arrived at their island camp this noon.

It was the first time in eleven successive years of arrivals here that the sun wasn't on hand to participate in the homecoming. What's more, the islanders have surrendered after a miserable winter and can promise the Chicagoans nothing in the shape of the greatly needed hot weather.

Band Greets Party.

Weather or no weather, the welcoming was conducted just as in other years. That was the way the late William Wrigley, owner of the island and the ball club, wanted it. Jimmy the Barber, bedecked in a white uniform and a cap which announced him as conductor, was at the pier leading the band as the steamer Avalon, once the Virginia out of Chicago, was tied up. And all the natives, hastily locking their house or store doors, declared a moratorium, to be present at the welcoming.

As proof that ball players, year in and year out, are excellent feeders, the dining room of the St. Catherine was comfortably filled fifteen minutes after the usual services, including thos directed by photographers, were completed.

Then with that pleasure disposed of, the boys were confronted with the seriousness of their labors. They had to dash a mile along the boardwalk through rain for a clubhouse visit where Andy Lotshaw, the emminent trainer, passed out uniforms, caps and other special tools used by the baseball industry.

Boys Fly Over.

Just when the lads are going to make use of the implements is a matter of conjecture. While Los Angeles has been suffering with snowfall, the island, 26 miles out in the ocean, has been deluged with rainfall. The latter is objectionable only because of the tourist trade and the Cubs' visit. The billiard-table-top field on which the Cubs do their work is so well drenched that there is some fear that it may take several days for it to dry out, even if the rain stops. In the event the diamond cannot be used immediately, Hornsby will start the year rolling with a few drills in the covered casino on the main stem.

Because of a dread for seasickness during the two hour voyage to the island, some of the gang deserted the ship in favor of Phil Wrigley's amphibian plane. But even this didn't go so well with the air voyagers. Among them was Hornsby, who is a veteran flier; Pat Malone, Gabby Hartnett, Coach Charles O'Leary, and Under Secretary Dan Cahill. For the last four it was a maiden flight. Malone prudently hung his head out of a window and Mr. Cahill was almost on the verge of admitting he would be more at home in a row boat. For Gabby it was just another lark. Their air travel permitted the fellows mentioned to take a part in the welcoming of the remainder of the party.

Root Reports Early.

Charley Root, the iron horse of the staff who winters in Los Angeles, came down to make his mates a visit and will be on the island Saturday to start his season's work. He isn't due until the regulars report ten days from now, but the bad weather has kept him so inactive that he has accumulated about ten too many pounds. He believes a few extra days will be needed to take off this off and after one look Hornsby agreed.

ARMOUR TECH'S TRACK MEN WIN TRIANGLE MEET

Armour Tech's track team scored 57½ points to win a triangular track meet with La Grange Junior college and the University of Chicago B team last night at the new Maroon fieldhouse. La Grange took second place with 43½, and the Maroon reserves were third with 22 points.

George Nelson led the Armour squad, scoring 19 points for the high point honors. He won the high hurdles, low hurdles, broad jump, high jump, and was on the winning relay team.

Kieckhefer Wins Second Match in Cue Tournament

Augie Kieckhefer won his second straight game in the all star three cushion tournament when he defeated Harry Ticks, 50 to 29, in 49 innings at the Kieckhefer recreation yesterday. In another game Earl Lookabaugh defeated Ed Peters, Chicago league champion, 50 to 25, in 45 innings. Lookabaugh made his last 29 points in 15 innings. Charles Morin will meet Charles Legros at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon and Paul Lewin will oppose Richard Valentine at 6 o'clock tonight.

Stagg Calls Football Rules Changes Best in 25 Years

Changes in the football code, announced by the rules committee Monday, will have "the finest effect of any legislation enacted since 1906," Coach A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago said yesterday upon his return from Hanover, N. H., where he participated in the committee's action. In his statement, Stagg, who is the senior member of the committee, explained the reasoning by which the changes were adopted and gave full approval to the revisions.

Injuries Will Be Fewer.

"It does not surprise me that there would be some unfavorable comments by the coaches on some of the changes," he said. "It is gratifying to observe, however, that the great majority speak favorably. From time to time during the twenty-nine years I have been a member of the committee, there have been outstanding rule changes which, like these, have met with some unfavorable comments. I am safe in saying that when the forward pass was put into the game it evoked the loudest and longest criticism of any rule which has ever been adopted.

"To my way of thinking, this year's changes will have the finest effect on football of any we have made since 1906. It is my judgment there will be fewer severe injuries because of the requirement that hard fiber pads be heavily padded on the outside.

Rule Misunderstood.

"Some objections have been made to the new rule on blocking and tackling. It probably is because the rule was not fully understood. I happened to be chairman of the subcommittee which drafted this rule.

"It is legal under the new rule for the tackler to leave his feet at the instant he makes contact with the ball carrier. It is also legal for the blocker to leave his feet at the instant he makes contact with his opponent. Inasmuch as there has been considerable faulty coaching in technique on tackling and on blocking, which will take time to eradicate, the penalty for the flying tackle and the flying block was purposely made only five yards.

Eliminates Piling Up.

"Criticism has been made against the rule which makes the ball dead automatically when any portion of the person of the player carrying it except his hands or feet, touches the ground while he is in the grasp of an opponent. It is clear that this rule immediately does away with all need for piling up, which has been another cause for serious and even fatal injury.

"Another rule objected to is that forbidding players on defense to strike an opponent on the head, neck, or face with hand, wrist, forearm, or elbow. This rule is put in for the scrimmage line where personal combat is at its highest and foul tactics are most frequently employed, and where personal antagonism and bitterness develop. This rule in my judgment will do more than any which has ever been enacted toward promoting fine feeling by the combating teams."

RABBIT PUNCH IS TABOO; WHAT RABBIT PUNCH?

case O and the other positions with the symbol X, which represents some positive quantity anyway, though it be unknown.

One should not show any quarter in a debate of this kind but it must be admitted that there have been very few old football players who suffered from that strange malady that ails so many punched-up prizefighters, commonly known as the mumbles or fighter's dance. But regarding the rabbit punch, as Uncle Will Gibson once remarked when Gene Tunney, riding on a bus top along Fifth avenue had explained all about carbon monoxide gas and its effect on the lungs, that sort of stuff probably doesn't do anybody a bit of good.

The second game for the city independent basketball championship will be played tonight at the B. B. R. gymnasium, 16th street and Hamlin avenue, between the Duffy Florals, champion of the Midwest league and the Eller Big Five, pennant winners in the Windy City league.

CANADIEN SIX INVADES HAWK RINK TONIGHT

Montreal's Flying Frenchmen, the world's champion Canadiens of Montreal, who have been playing title hockey the past month, will be the Blackhawks' opponents on the Stadium ice tonight for the last time this season, unless both teams qualify for the world's championship elimination trials which start the latter part of March.

Despite a slow start this season, the champions finally gathered headway and now, with Charley Conacher, the Toronto high scorer, out of the game with injuries, it seems almost certain that the Canadiens will take the lead from the Maple Leafs and keep it until the end of the season schedule.

The Canadiens' attack tonight will center around the visitors' main forward line which has for its leader Howie Morenz, acclaimed as hockey's greatest player. He has two mates who are not for behind him in Johnny Gagnon and Aurel Joliat.

Aside from a few minor ailments the Blackhawks will be in good condition for the game, the winning of which means more to them than to the Canadiens, since both Detroit and Boston are right on the heels of the Hawks. The recent trip of the Hawks was their most disastrous of the season and because of grippe, which attacked half of the team at New York, their first stop, and weakened them for the entire four games, three of which they lost.

Tonight's lineup:

BLACK HAWKS.		LES CANADIENS.
Gardiner	G.	Hainsworth
Boucher	L. D.	Burke
Wentworth	R. D.	S. Mantha
Cook	C.	Morenz
Thompson	L. W.	Joliat

Drop the curtain on "WHY..UH-H"

NO wonder the five cent cigar smoker fell into the habit of muttering "WHY . . . UH-H" every time he had to make a choice. Resting on the cigar case, the cast of five-centers looked like a group of chorus men waiting for the star to appear. And lo and behold that is exactly what has happened. The star has arrived! Take a good look in the boxes next time. The hero is listed on the program as the finest cigar that ever took a bow for a nickel. And its name is New Bachelor.

New Bachelor is a mellow drama in itself. It is the story of a rich, mild, quality smoke with a happy ending. And your taste will demand a return engagement. What a show for a nickel!

MRS. FISKE DIES; STAR OF STAGE FOR FIFTY YEARS

Illness Halted Last Tour in Chicago.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske, who belonged to the public in life, has found seclusion in death. The actress who brought drama into the lives of half a century of theater goers in hundreds of playhouses throughout the country left implicit instructions that there be no pomp nor display at her funeral.

Mrs. Fiske died at noon yesterday in a quiet retreat in Hollis, L. I., just as she was thought to be recovering from a three months illness. A heart attack ended her long career. Her death was not made known until this morning.

Tonight the body of the 67 year old actress, who liked best to be known as "the grand old trouper," lies in an undertaking establishment, the name of which has been withheld from the public. Tomorrow the body will be cremated, as she requested in written instructions to her husband, Harrison Grey Fiske, and Thursday the ashes will be returned to the Fiske home in 11th street, Manhattan, to await final disposition.

She Forbade Funeral Rites.

There will be no ceremony of any kind, Mr. Fiske said, and no one will be permitted to view the body.

"She desired as little ceremony as possible," Mr. Fiske explained, "and her wishes will be followed. Her instructions were very definite."

Illness closed Mrs. Fiske's last tour in Chicago three months ago. The aged actress was playing at the Blackstone theater in "Against the Wind," a play by Carlos Drake, son of the hotel man. Her physician, alarmed at her physical condition, ordered her to cancel all engagements. Her illness was diagnosed as auto-intoxication and she returned east to rest.

Planned to Resume Tour.

For a time Mrs. Fiske responded to treatment, and her friends say she planned to again resume her interrupted tour, but a heart ailment developed and hastened her end. Mrs. Mary Cox, her lifetime friend and companion, was with her when she died. Mr. Fiske had returned to Manhattan only a few hours before.

Mrs. Fiske, long known as America's most famous emotional actress, was born in New Orleans in 1865, the daughter of Thomas Davey and Elizabeth Maddern. She was christened Mary Augusta Davey, which she dropped in favor of her mother's maiden name. Still later she dropped the Minnie Maddern when she married Harrison Grey Fiske in 1890. She made her first stage appearance at the age of three in Little Rock, toddling on in "Richard III."

A Star at Sixteen.

Her work on the stage was interrupted for brief periods while she attended convents in New Orleans and Montreal, and then at the age of 16 she became a star. It was in the musical play "Caprice" that she popularized "In the Gloaming." In 1894 at the famous old Empire theater here she scored her first big hit in Ibsen's "A Doll's House." From that time on she was famous.

Mrs. Fiske was a firm believer in "the road." She often said that taste in plays was just as good in the small cities as in New York. Her later years were devoted to promoting a revival of the road.

Nine years ago Mrs. Fiske was said to have adopted a boy and named him Danville Maddern Davey. She surrounded the child with mystery and today her closest friends declared they knew nothing about the adopted son.

Foe of Vivisection.

Mrs. Fiske was an active foe of vivisection and often made speeches on her road tours on behalf of conservation of animal and bird life. She asked clubwomen to boycott furs and never wore furs herself.

Mrs. Fiske's companies were long considered the premier training schools of the country for the stage and many of her players have gained considerable fame. Of Mrs. Fiske a critic has said:

"She could star herself in a dramatization of the telephone book and I would praise her."

GUNMEN ROB 3 LOAN COMPANIES IN ONE OFFICE

Four gunmen, one of them masked with a handkerchief, last night held up the single office of three small loan companies on the second floor at 3837 Roosevelt road and escaped with $577.

Three officials of the companies and three employés were in the room when the robbers entered. The officials are Jacob Herman, 1311 South Springfield avenue, president of the Midcity Loan company; Ben Shlansky, [illegible] Grenshaw street, secretary of the Ideal Finance company, and Ben Zuckerman, 1309 Kostner avenue, secretary of the Oneca Finance company.

They were not molested, but the robbers took a total of $77 from the employés; Louis Balaban, 511 South Central avenue; Julius Perlman, 1319 South Avers avenue, and Manny Levin, 1250 South Keeler avenue. Then the bandits seized $500 from the office safe and fled.

Wm. Martin, Restaurant Man, Dies at Age of 68

William Martin, 68 years old, for many years a restaurant owner in the loop and on the north side, died yesterday after several months' illness at his home at 2735 North Racine avenue. He was the son of a colonel in the confederate army and was born in Little Rock, Ark., on the day that Union troops captured the city. Union officers joined their confederate captives in drinking a champagne toast to the new baby. His widow, Mrs. Tillie A. Martin, and a daughter, Mrs. Lester A. Drach, survive. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow at the chapel at 929 Belmont avenue, with burial in Irving Park Boulevard cemetery.

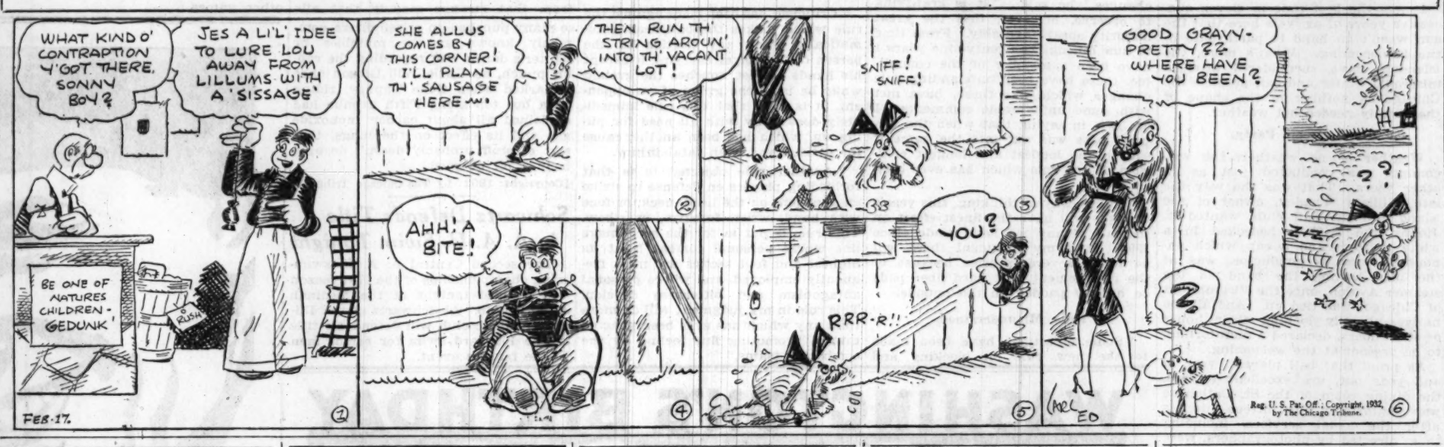
HAROLD TEEN—FISHERMAN'S LUCK



POWERS DENIED A NEW TRIAL ON DEATH VERDICT

Clarksburg, W. Va., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Harry F. Powers, under sentence to be hanged March 18, lost another legal battle for his life today, when Judge Birk S. Stathers in Circuit court denied his petition and bill of exceptions for a new trial without reading them within five minutes after they were presented in court.

The refusal on the part of the court to grant an appeal came as a surprise, but as a step tending to expedite the case as he explained in considerable detail.

Judge Stathers pointed out that since it was the intention to take the case to the state Supreme court, in the event the Criminal court failed to grant a new trial, it would be better to take the case to the higher court now, thus saving additional costs, and getting earlier action on the part of the highest state tribunal.

He also explained that should the state Supreme court order a new trial, there would be a clearer conception of procedure to be taken by the Criminal court than if the case were first reviewed by him and then taken to the Supreme court.

CHARLES BUNTE, CANDY COMPANY OFFICIAL, DEAD

Charles F. Bunte of Wilmette, vice president of Bunte Brothers, candy manufacturers, died yesterday in the Mayo hospital at Rochester, Minn. He went there a week ago in order to undergo a major operation last Friday. He was 60 years old. He had been associated for years in the business founded by his father and uncle.

Mr. Bunte is survived by his widow, Mrs. Celia O. Bunte, a daughter, Mrs. Catherine Johnson of Minneapolis, and a brother, Theodore W. Bunte, president of the company.

FRANK ROSS HASTINGS, 43 years old, Cincinnati, chief rate clerk for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad in the Cincinnati district, was pronounced dead at St. Luke's hospital yesterday after being taken unconscious from a passenger train on the Monon lines at the Polk street station. He was believed to have succumbed to a heart attack.

MRS. MARY THERESA SPENGLER, 77 years old, a Chicago resident since 1856, died at her home, 6907 Harper avenue. Funeral services will be held Friday morning at St. Laurence church, 1340 East 72d street.

GALESBURG, Ill.—[Special.]—E. I. Le cher, 70, who retired from the drug business here a few years ago after operating a Main street store for nearly 50 years, died.

Electric Plant Blast Gives Waukegan Crowd a Sight

The explosion of a transformer in the Public Service company's generating plant at Waukegan yesterday caused a spectacular oil fire, which firemen fought for four hours before they gained control. The damage was set at $20,000. Crowds watched the blaze at the plant, which is located on the north limits of Waukegan on Greenwood avenue and the lake. Fire departments from the Great Lakes Naval Training station, North Chicago, and Zion helped fight the flames.

2 KILLED WHEN AUTO SKIDS AND RUNS OFF BRIDGE

A small sedan in which a family of three was riding skidded on the railroad viaduct bridge at Central and Grand avenues yesterday, plunged through the iron railing and was smashed 25 feet below on the tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad. Mrs. Hazel Root, 26 years old, and her daughter, Hazel Marie, 8 years old, were fatally injured. Ralph Root, 28 years old, 610 Fullerton parkway, the husband and driver, is in St. Anne's hospital, where he is in an unconscious condition. It is feared that he will die.

Root, who is unemployed, was taking his wife to the Oak Park department store where she was a clerk.

John Lange, 64 years old, 4464 Armitage avenue, was killed yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which he was riding collided with another car and struck a telephone pole at 43d street and Western avenue. The pole fell on the car and broke Lange's neck. Police questioned Henry Getts, 2132 Powell avenue in whose car Lange was riding and held Thomas Chulos, 9337 Oregon avenue, the other driver.

James Lynch, 46 years old, an upholsterer, whose address police were unable to obtain, was fatally injured last night when he was struck by an automobile at 67th street and Cottage Grove avenue. He died in Woodlawn hospital. A passing motorist pursued and halted Warren Howes, 1726 East 83d street, as the driver who struck Lynch. Howes denied his machine had hit any one, but he was held for further investigation.

These deaths raised the 1932 Cook county motor toll to 146.

Judge Denies Stay to Four in $150,000 Gem Holdup

Judge Ralph J. Dady in the Lake County Circuit court at Waukegan yesterday denied a stay of mittimus pending an appeal for four bandits under sentence of from one year to life in the penitentiary for the $150,000 gem robbery in the Lake Forest home of William H. Mitchell on Nov. 21, 1931. Unless a stay is granted by the higher court, the four men, Paul Rossi, Joe Perrello, Frank Tufano and Nick Maentanis, will start serving their sentence on Friday.

HOSPITAL GROUP HITS U. S. POLICY IN TREATING VETS

Members of the American council on hospital service, at their annual meeting in the Palmer house last night, unanimously adopted a resolution opposing the present governmental policy of treating war veterans in government hospitals for injuries not inflicted in warfare.

It was asserted that the welfare of the veterans requires that they be kept in normal civilian surroundings and that "returning them to soldiering" hurts rathers than helps them. The legislation making possible their treatment in veterans' hospitals was designated as paternalism.

Speakers estimated that it would cost billions of dollars to erect the hospitals. They declared that the effect on existing hospitals, which are only two-thirds filled, and on the medical profession would be bad.

HEALTH CENTER HEAD IS HELD IN WOMAN'S DEATH

Rufus J. Valentino, operator of the Belmont Health center, 938 Belmont avenue, who terms himself a specialist in physio-therapy, was arrested yesterday in connection with the death of Mrs. Harry Golcher, 33 years old, 14725 Washington street, Harvey. He is held in bonds of $10,000 by the county highway police at Homewood.

The police also arrested Miss Katherine Heidman, a nurse, as a material witness. She is held in bonds of $1,000. Mrs. Golcher died at her home on Monday after naming Valentino and declaring that an illegal operation had been performed on Feb. 2. An inquest was continued yesterday to Feb. 26. The county highway police last night raided Valentino's health center and took all instruments as evidence.

Buisson, French Winner of Nobel Prize, Dies at 91

BEAUVAIS, France, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Ferdinand-Edouard Buisson, 91, long a noted worker against war and holder of the Nobel peace prize, died today at his home at Tieuloy-Saint Antoine. He formerly was a member of the chamber of deputies and president of the League for the Rights of Man. Among his works were treatises on women's suffrage and various volumes on peace and education. He was an honorary professor of the Sorbonne.

As street cars throughout Chicago were halted for one minute at 2 p. m. yesterday in tribute to Henry A. Blair, president and receiver of the Chicago Surface Lines, his friends and business associates gathered to pay their last tributes at the funeral at the Blair home, 209 Lake Shore drive.

A fifteen minute service was conducted by Dr. Duncan H. Browne, rector of St. James Episcopal church. The burial at Graceland cemetery was private, only the active pallbearers and members of the family attending.

Mr. Blair died on Monday after a ten days' illness of pneumonia. He was 79 years old. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Grace P. Blair, and two daughters, Mrs. Natalie D. Bradley and Miss Anita Carolyn Blair.

The active pallbearers — departmental heads of the surface lines—were H. H. Adams, Charles H. Allen, Halbert O. Crews, L. J. Dixon, C. H. Evenson, John R. Guilliams, Joseph V. Sullivan, and John E. Wilkie. In addition there were 45 honorary pall bearers.

The late Charles Netcher, president of the Boston store, left an estate worth approximately $400,000. This was disclosed yesterday in an inventory filed before Nuncio J. Bonelli, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner. Assets in the estate were listed as the home at 40 East Burton place, $40,000 in cash, and numerous small investments in stocks and bonds. The widow, Mrs. Gladys Oliver Netcher, is heir to the estate.

Unlisted in the inventory is the share of the income from the estate of Mr. Netcher's father, Charles Netcher Sr., who died in 1904. Under the latter's will a trust of $10,000,000 is established from which Charles Netcher Jr. received one-sixth of the income. This same share will be received by his widow and two children. He was 39 years old when he died on Nov. 4, 1931.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for Calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists. 15c, 30c, and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

CHRYSLER CORP. PROFIT EXCEEDS THAT OF 1930

Firm Pays Regular 25c Dividend.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Despite general depression and the sharp letdown in the automobile industry this year, the Chrysler corporation, third largest motor company, had larger earnings than in 1930. The company sold more cars than in 1930, although their total value was less, but operations were more efficient and economical.

W. P. CHRYSLER.

Net profit for 1931 was $1,468,935 after all charges, equivalent to 33 cents a share on 4,404,365 common shares, whereas net income for 1930 was only $234,155, or 5 cents a share. While earnings last year failed to cover dividends and recourse to surplus was made necessary, the directors yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share.

In making public the annual report, Chairman Walter P. Chrysler asserted the company had profited by entering the low priced car field. Sales totaled 272,118 units, a new high record, and comparing with 269,899 in 1930, but aggregate value declined to $183,805,105 from $207,789,338.

Expect Improvement This Year.

"It is necessary to go back a whole decade to find a year in which production and sales of automobiles were less than last year," Mr. Chrysler said. "Retail sales in the United States were 61.56 per cent and production 56.09 per cent of normal. What may be expected in the current year can be little more than conjecture. Nevertheless, there are constructive forces within the automobile industry itself on which improvement in sales may be reasonably expected.

"To what extent such improvement will become actual depends to no small degree on general business conditions. Here, too, however, may be found hopeful grounds for the belief that the corrective and recuperative remedies now being applied to the economic situation here and abroad may be productive of tangible results, especially in restoring the greater measure of public confidence which is an essential to business betterment. Every factor to which experience gives any substantial weight indicates that the potential market for automobiles needs only this spark to restore it to increased activity."

Dividend News Mixed.

Dividend news was mixed yesterday. The Chesapeake and Ohio railway declared the regular quarterly dividend of 62½ cents. The Chesapeake corporation, also declared the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents. This principal holding company of the Van Sweringen interests holds more than 4,000,000 shares of Chesapeake and Ohio railway, the dividends on which constitute a large part of its revenues.

Directors of several corporations voted to reduce dividend disbursements. Announcement of a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the stock of the Texas corporation establishes that issue on a $1 annual basis, compared with 50 cents quarterly or $2 a year heretofore. Last May the rate was reduced from 75 cents every three months.

The latest distribution is the smallest to be paid on the shares in the last thirty years. Prior to the four-for-one splitup of the stock in 1920 dividend payments ranging from $5 to $17 in cash annually were made, besides occasional special and stock dividends. From 1920 to May of last year payments were made at the annual rate of $3.

Bright Spots in Business

The Northern Pacific and Great Northern railways will spend approximately as much for maintenance this year as last, their presidents said yesterday. The total will be from $45,000,000 to $50,000,000.

World consumption of American cotton in the first half of the current cotton season was greater by 598,000 bales than in the corresponding period of last season, says the New York Cotton Exchange service. Consumption of all kinds of cotton was 11,475,000 bales, compared with 10,939,000 bales in the corresponding period last season. Consumption of foreign growths showed an estimated decrease of 62,000 bales.

New life insurance written in the United States during January totaled $949,848,000, an increase of 6.4 per cent from January, 1931, according to Dow Jones & Co.

Day's Export of Gold Sets Peak for Year

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The largest outward flow of gold for any day this year was announced today by the New York federal reserve bank.

Shipments totaling $38,045,400 to France and $200,000 to England were reported, but they were partially offset by a decrease of $18,033,000 in the stock of gold under earmark for foreign account. And imports of $997,700 from Canada and $415,500 from India. The result of the day's transactions in the yellow metal was a decrease of $18,763,200 in the country's monetary stock.

Pressure against the dollar lightened somewhat in the foreign exchange market today, although the French franc held firm, closing just above the gold point. Dutch guilders also improved moderately, but in most other rates there was a tendency to sag. Sterling cables closed three-fourths of a cent lower at $3.45. Futures, however, were quoted at a premium over spot, indicating increased bullishness among long holders. Japanese yen and Canadian dollars firmed.

Exports in January.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—An increase of more than $75,000,000 in the outward movement of gold from this country during January was attributed today by government officials as due in considerable part to European fears of American inflation.

Exports of gold from the United States in January totaled $107,863,000 it was shown in figures issued by the commerce department, as compared with exports of $32,651,000 in December. At the same time according to the figures imports into this country dropped from $89,509,000 in December, to $32,905,000 in January.

Officials declined to comment on the possibility that Europe may be alarmed over the banking situation in the United States, stating that any such comment would be "mere speculation." It was held that the movement might be attributed to an effort on the part of banks in several European countries to fortify themselves in view of exchange fluctuations.

Foreign Trade Drops.

The foreign trade of the United States in January showed a further slump in January, dropping to a value of 286 million dollars from $336,463,000 in the previous month.

January exports of merchandise, valued at 150 millions, represented the lowest level to which exports have fallen in any month since August, 1914, while imports, with a value of 136 million dollars, were at the lowest since February, 1915.

COPPER EXPORT GROUP BOOSTS PRICE ¼C A LB.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 16.—Copper Exporters, Inc., today advanced the price of copper ¼ of a cent a pound to 6⅝ cents delivered in Hamburg, Havre, and London.

The raise in price is the first upturn in the market in about a month. The official export price was 7⅝ cents in early January, but had been on the decline ever since until today, the new low record price of 6⅜ cents a pound having been registered last Thursday. In the meanwhile, custom smelters had been selling copper for export as cheaply as 6⅛ cents a pound.

Improvement in the price was ascribed to the large sales of metal for foreign trade at the recent low levels. Altogether, 8,000 tons or nearly 19,000,000 pounds of copper were sold in the last three business days. Sales yesterday reached the unusually large total of more than 8,000,000 pounds.

U. S. GOVERNMENT SECURITIES LEAD UPTURN IN BONDS

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—United States government issues led the bond market to higher levels today in a session of relatively quiet trading and conflicting price trends. The federal loans were strong throughout, four of the treasuries advancing more than one point and attaining new high records for the year. The Liberties were also in good demand, although their price gains were more moderate.

Among the rail bonds that rallied sharply near the close were Baltimore and Ohio 4½s of 1960, Chesapeake corporation 5s of 1947, Burlington 5s, Rock Island convertible 4½s and refunding 4s, Erie refunding 5s of 1967 and 1975, Kansas City Southern first 3s, Louisville and Arkansas 5s, Missouri Pacific 5½s, New Haven refunding 4½s, Reading 4½s, Southern Pacific 4½s, and Union Pacific 4s of 1968.

New York Curb Gives Short Position on Feb. 1

New York, Feb. 16.—The New York Curb exchange announced today that the short position in all securities as of Feb. 1 totaled 73,828 shares, compared with 80,796 shares as of Jan. 15.

VAN SWERINGENS ARE COMBINING EASTERN ROADS

Sell Pere Marquette Shares to C. & O.

New York, Feb. 16.—The Alleghany corporation, one of the Van Sweringen brothers' railroad holding corporations, has sold a block of 46,200 shares of common stock of the Pere Marquette railway at $11 a share to the Chesapeake and Ohio railway, also controlled by Van Sweringen interests, it was learned today. The purchase was effected, it was stated, through the issuance by Chesapeake and Ohio of $3,950,000 in 6 per cent notes dated Feb. 1, 1932, and maturing on Jan. 31, 1934.

Chesapeake and Ohio, it was reported, also obtained four year options on the Alleghany corporation's holdings of 215,000 shares of common stock of the Erie railroad and 167,300 shares of New York, Chicago and St. Louis railroad [the Nickel Plate] common stock, both at $13.25 a share. Alleghany controlled the majority of the outstanding Pere Marquette common stock. The block of 46,200 shares bought by the Chesapeake and Ohio comprised its entire holdings of the common as shown in the portfolio of investments at the end of 1930.

Go Ahead with Plan.

The action of the Van Sweringens means that they are going ahead with the consolidation of their eastern roads without waiting for the interstate commerce commission to approve the four party merger plan. Under the plan Chesapeake and Ohio would get Erie, Pere Marquette, Chicago and Eastern Illinois, Wheeling and Lake Erie, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, Lehigh Valley, Bessemer and Lake Erie, and several more smaller roads.

It is understood that the transaction will provide Alleghany corporation with sufficient cash to retire its bank indebtedness entirely. The company recently shifted the collateral pledged behind two of its bond issues in such a way as to strengthen the position of the bonds.

While the option prices set for the Erie and Nickel Plate common stocks are about 6 points above the present market, it was understood that the Chesapeake and Ohio management was entirely satisfied with the proposal.

Approves 4 System Plan.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The American Short Line association today gave its approval to the four-system plan of eastern railroad consolidation.

Ben B. Cain, vice president of the association, testified in hearings before the interstate commerce commission that the four-system plan proposed by the great eastern trunk lines was the best solution of the situation. He added the proviso that all short lines east of the Mississippi river and north of the Ohio river and southern territory should be included.

Cain said the five-system plan approved by the commission was "impossible and impracticable."

Cutler Hammer Reports $501,019 Loss for 1931

The annual statement of Cutler-Hammer, Inc., large manufacturers of electrical equipment shows a net loss for 1931 of $501,019, a deficit of $1.50 a share on sales of $5,904,000. The 1930 report showed net earnings of $1,190,000 or $3.60 a share earned from $9,342,000 sales. The earned surplus Jan. 1, 1931, was $1,741,000 from which the $501,019 loss and other items leave the total current earned surplus $1,161,000.

REVENUE FREIGHT LOADINGS FOR WEEK 13,599 CARS HIGHER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—Loading of revenue freight for the week ended on Feb. 6 totaled 574,756 cars, the car service division of the American Railway association said today. This was an increase of 13,599 cars above the preceding week, but 144,297 cars below the corresponding week in 1931 and 311,945 cars under the same period two years ago. Increases in coal and coke loadings accounted for the increased total compared with the preceding week.

Miscellaneous freight totaled 179,676 cars, a decrease of 69,683 cars under the corresponding week last year; merchandise, 187,541, a decrease of 27,897; grain and grain products, 31,424, a decrease of 10,029; forest products, 18,333, a decrease of 18,094; ore, 1,971, a decrease of 3,535; coal, 128,630, a decrease of 10,086; coke, 7,108, a decrease of 2,248; livestock, 20,072, a decrease of 2,725.

MUTUAL LIFE REPORTS GAIN FOR LAST YEAR

The Mutual Life Insurance company of New York, the first company in America to operate on the legal reserve mutual plan of life insurance, has issued its report for the year 1931 and shows gains in spite of the general adverse business conditions.

The company's total income for the year was $234,925,900, and the total of disbursements was $183,272,515, the income exceeding the outgo by $51,653,385.

The admitted assets increased $54,039,556. The assets on Dec. 31, 1931, were $1,106,236,049.

During 1931 the company placed $29,612,714 in first mortgage loans and invested $24,857,785 in bonds and stocks.

On Dec. 31, 1931, excluding policy loans and real estate, the company owned and held investments in the sum of $855,107,556, book value, with an average yield of 4.83 per cent.

During the year the company placed in new insurance, including dividends, additions, revivals, etc., the total of $365,818,680. The aggregate of insurance outstanding on Dec. 31, 1931, was $4,450,294,284.

ILLINOIS MINE OWNERS MEET TO CONSIDER WAGES

Members of the Illinois Coal Operators' association met at the Union league yesterday to discuss mine wages in addition to routine business. The current wage scale expires on March 31 and the miners are to meet in Springfield on Tuesday to select committees and formulate policies to be followed in negotiations with the operators which are expected to take place prior to March 31.

Some fifty mine operators attended yesterday's meeting at which was appointed an advisory committee of 22. This committee is to meet immediately to determine the operators' policy in the expected negotiations with the miners.

While no decisions were taken yesterday, it is understood that the operators will ask major wage reductions. In some quarters it was reported the cut asked would be as high as 40 per cent. The operators assert that their business is seriously crippled by competition from eastern and southern mines where wage scales averaging at least 50 per cent less than those in Illinois are in effect.

Some 50,000 Illinois miners would be affected by a reduction in wages.

Joseph D. Zook is president of the operators' group. Five of the members of the advisory committee were named to act as a scale committee in the negotiations with the miners. Membership of the scale committee is as follows: W. J. Jenkins, Consolidated Coal company; M. F. Peltier, Peabody Coal company; D. W. Buchanan, Old Ben Coal corporation; Paul Weir, Bell and Zoller Coal and Mining company; Fred S. Ffahler, Superior Coal company.

Dismisses Suit Brought Against American Tobacco

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Federal Judge Robert P. Patterson today dismissed without prejudice a suit for an injunction, accounting, and damages brought by Richard Reid Rogers, a stockholder, against the American Tobacco company, George Washington Hill, its president, other officers, and directors. Rogers' suit was brought to recover a block of common stock consisting of 56,712 shares, which, under resolution of the directorate, was turned over to the trustees for distribution among officers and employés of the American Tobacco company.

WHEAT SURGES AHEAD AGAIN ON BUYING WAVE

Market Rumors Lift Prices 2 Cents.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The wheat market forged ahead in impressive manner yesterday with a wave of general buying which lifted futures 2½@3¼c from the early low and carried the May up to 62½c and July to 63¾c, establishing new high levels on the current movement and since late in November.

The September delivery touched 65⅛c, a new high on the crop. Net gains were 2@3⅜c for the day with March 59c; May, 62⅛ to 62¼c; July, 63¼ to 63⅜c, and September, 64¾ to 64⅞c.

Rumors were current that some good news was to come out of Washington, sales of liberal amounts of wheat by the Stabilization corporation to China on long term credits being mentioned, and there was also talk that President Hoover had changed his stand on the prohibition question.

It was not until after the close that the farm board issued a general denial of the numerous rumors which had been current during the day. The trade generally regarded them as reports which originated in an effort to explain the market's action.

Trade More Confident.

There was a strong undercurrent of optimism as to the future of the wheat market, despite the oft repeated belief that the farm board holdings were a distinct menace to a sustained advance. A number of leading local professionals were credited with having bought wheat futures freely during the day on the belief that legislation already passed by congress or proposed, will be sufficient to bring about a general revival of confidence, and all that was needed to help the movement along was higher prices for grain.

A statement issued by H. J. Blum, one of the most prominent of the Chicago grain and stock traders on Monday in which he expressed the belief the trade would receive full hearted support from the government in an effort to advance prices, mentioning $1 per bu for wheat in this connection, attracted a great deal of attention. Mr. Blum refused to amplify his remarks yesterday, other than to express confidence that better things were ahead for the grain trade.

Washington reports claiming congress had turned a deaf ear to the pleas of farm organization that the debenture and equalization fee ideas be incorporated in the agricultural

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—They gave the bear irreconcilables another run around on the stock exchange this afternoon.

After waiting two days for the "corrective reaction" which developed in the wake of last week's sensational upturn to get in its worst, the so-called constructive faction of the market girded its loins anew in the late trading and returned to the business of yanking prosperity around the corner by drumming up values on the shares of the country's leading industrial, utility and railroad corporations. The operation was a complete success.

Shorts Driven to Cover.

Shorts were driven to cover without the least show of fight and prices went bounding up $1 to $5 a share all over the board. Numerous leading issues scored new high records for the year, some of them topping last week's peaks by a point or more. United States Steel hit a new high of 50, up nearly 2 points; American Telephone jumped more than 5½ to a new 1932 maximum of 135½, Consolidated Gas besting its old rating on a rise of nearly 3 points, and Air Reduction achieved premier honors with an advance of more than 3 points.

Trading speeded up to its old Thursday-Saturday pace, distancing the ticker by several minutes, but the spurt was too late to show up in the volume figures, the day's total coming to only 2,500,000 shares.

Other Markets Follow.

The enthusiasm on the stock exchange was communicated to other markets and gains on the curb paralleled the course of those on the big board. Cotton advanced after fluctuating narrowly most of the day and in the Chicago wheat pit prices spurted smartly.

Except for the resignation of Premier Laval of France, which some interpreted to mean an end to that nation's gold hoarding policy, and a Washington dispatch quoting President Hoover as announcing a trend toward the release of hoarded money

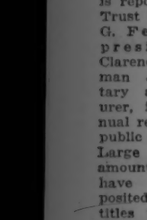
PROGRESS MADE, SAYS REPORT OF REALTY TRUST

Large Refinancing Loans Not Available.

BY AL CHASE.

Substantial progress in its program is reported for the Realty Investors' Trust by Edward G. Felsenthal, president, and Clarence L. Coleman Jr., secretary and treasurer, in the annual report made public last night. Large additional amounts of bonds have been deposited, many titles to properties have been acquired, foreclosure suits have been prosecuted where necessary, the management organization has been strengthened, and in one case a property was sold on a basis that yielded the bondholders 50 per cent in cash, in addition to which their class A shares were retained to represent the other 50 per cent of their investment, the report states.



E. G. FELSENTHAL. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

The Realty Investors' Trust, organized to safeguard the interests of the bondholders of Baer, Elsendrath & Co. issues, is now handling 187 properties.

"The original plan of the trust, which contemplated payment of approximately 50 per cent through proceeds of refinancing loans, has been necessarily halted, for the time being at least, because, due to generally unfavorable conditions, refinancing loans of sizable amounts are not obtainable," the report states. "Many such loans could have been obtained up to a few months ago, but the trust was not in a position to accept them because all bonds had not been deposited.

Rents Collected: $1,031,880.

"If this condition in the loan market continues, it may become advisable to work toward distribution of income rather than principal until more settled conditions are restored."

For the fiscal year ending Nov. 30, 1931, an auditor's report shows rents collected on the properties managed by the trust as $1,031,880. The total receipts were $1,168,944. Expenditures, including operating expenses of $623,562, were $1,101,854, leaving a cash balance on hand of $67,090.

The total par value of bonds called for deposit, 174 separate properties, was $11,501,200. The bonds deposited as of Nov. 30, 1931, were $7,951,400. Since then an additional $850,000 bonds have been deposited up to Feb. 10, 1932, the report states.

Calls Expenses Low.

An interesting slant on organization costs is contained in the following comment in the report: "The total cost of administration for the first one year period must be spread over the aggregate par value of bonds for deposit during this period, namely, $11,501,200, in 174 issues. The result is a cost of 36 cents against each $100 bond for administration for one year.

"There was an additional cost of 22 cents against each $100 bond for organization expense, which will not recur. Compared to expenses of other organization and committee handling defaulted bonds, these are extremely low figures."

Form Rival Committee.

Eleven men are directors of a newly formed organization called the Bona Fide Bondholders' Committee of Holders of Bonds Sold by the Sheridan Trust and Savings Bank, which announced yesterday that it represented from 1,200 to 1,500 bondholders who own more than a million dollars' worth of bonds. These directors are Norman E. Kirshoff, Louis J. Becker, A. A. McCormack, J. J. Mitbnick, Preston C. Patch, Paul Memmpher, Frank Scharf, Harry F. Lyons, C. P. Jenkinson, T. R. Martin and Homer Kirchhoff.

"The object for which it is formed is promotion of the interest of the members of the committee and of all other holders of bonds sold by the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank," the statement reads. "To cultivate friendly relations between holders of bonds sold by the bank and to inform them and consult with them from time to time as to their best interests; to foster united opinion and action by all holders of bonds sold by the bank for the protection and furtherance of their best interests."

Foreclosure proceedings were started yesterday by the new committee against the Del Ray apartments $50,000 bond issue. The regular committee stated by phone that it controls the situation and has from 70 to 100 per cent of all Sheridan Trust bond issues.

Gt. Lakes Dredge 1931 Net Equals $2.40 on Common

Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company reported a net income of $1,325,810 after depreciation, federal taxes, etc., for the year ended Dec. 31, 1931. This is equal to $2.40 a share on 552,120 shares of common. In 1930 the company showed a net income of $2,218,445, or $4.01 a share in 1930.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET PRICES MOVE UPWARD

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Croakings from those professional market tipsters who regard the current upturn as a "political rally." failed to check the forward movement yesterday in the market. Security prices on the Chicago exchange moved along with the general advance in stock and commodity prices in leading markets.

The range of prices on the Chicago exchange was comparatively narrow and recessions developed in some issues, but final quotations in the main represented moderate improvement over Monday's last transactions.

The heavy trading which developed in some of the utility shares when the annual reports of the two Insull investment trusts appeared abated yesterday and prices maintained comparative steadiness. Commonwealth Edison jumped a point after an early decline, closing at 111½. Insull Utility debentures were up slightly and the common shares were unchanged.

Lincoln Printing Reports.

Lincoln Printing company's annual statement, made public during the day, failed to stir much interest in the firm's stock, which appeared on the tape slightly higher at 12. The report revealed net profits for 1931 of $539,986, equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $2.55 a share on the 175,000 shares of common stock outstanding. In the preceding year the company earned $629,371, or $3.03 a share, on the same capitalization. The decline in earnings was approximately 14 per cent.

At the close of the year the company had current assets of $1,751,537, including cash of $509,115, compared with total current liabilities of $364,0[illegible]. Included in current assets was 8,[illegible] shares of the company's own common stock purchased at $619,376, against which a reserve of $227,450 has been set up.

Omit Crane Dividend.

Omission of the common dividend and declaration of the usual dividend on preferred by directors of the Crane company failed to affect the market prices of either of the issues. The common stock has b n on a 15 cents quarterly basis. The dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred will be paid March 15 to stockholders of record March 1.

Central Public Service corporation directors decided to omit the usual stock dividend on the A shares. In the previous quarter the dividend amounted to 1¾ per cent. The stock yesterday was unchanged at 2½. Directors will meet for preferred dividend action on March 8.

THE PURE OIL COMPANY

72nd Consecutive Preferred Dividend

The regular quarterly dividend of 1½% has been declared on the 5¼% Preferred Stock, 1½% on the 6% Preferred Stock, and 2% on the 8% Preferred Stock of THE PURE OIL COMPANY, payable in cash on April 1, 1932, to shareholders of record at the close of business March 10, 1932.

One month ago ..... 5.75@6.35

Top yesterday, $6.00; average, $5.90.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 7,000; hogs, 23,000; sheep, 12,000.

Another exceptionally light run of hogs, the smallest for Tuesday since middle of last October, paved the way for another quiet advance of the market. The extreme top of $4.20 was equal to the closing peak of Monday's trade, while the general average for the whole day at $3.90 showed 5c gain.

Fluctuations were mild and gains of more than 5c were hard to obtain, though the undertone to the trade yesterday was undeniably firm. Only the precautionary buying by all interests averted a more vigorous advance in prices in face of a comparatively steady wholesale trade which thus far has not warranted any marked display of strength in the market for live hogs.

Larger local houses limited their purchases, but showed a decided preference for better grades of swine. Advances in the hog market since the close of last week have been made in rather creeping fashion, and prevailing quotations are only 10@20c above the low spot of last week. Although prices have been zigzagging for more than a month, fluctuations during this time have been remarkably small. During the last five weeks daily top prices have held within a range of $4.10@4.35.

Hog Futures Steady.

The hog futures trade was a quiet affair. The few offers and bids posted were in line with Monday. July offers were made at $6.50, but $5 was the highest bid reported. May hogs were offered at $5.50 and bid $4.75@5.00, while March offers and bids were unchanged at $5 and $4.25.

After Monday's rather fictitious exhibition of strength the cattle market yesterday drifted back into the same rut it has been in for several weeks and finished quietly at the lowest prices of the session. No material change in prices has been made since the close of last week, and traders hope that, the market has about reached the bottom.

Only finished long fed steers were eligible to more than $7.50 yesterday, while the classes at $4.75@5.50 that comprise such a great share of offerings lately carry a fair layer of flesh. Occasionally stock selling downwards to $4 show a fair "kill," while only inferior grades are below that figure. One lot of 30 thin steers averaging 665 lbs. sold at $3.25. The top for the day at $8.50 was paid by Wilson for about 150 steers and yearlings averaging 942@1,291 lbs. Poorer quality lowered the average costs of most droves yesterday. Little action was reported in butcher stock and prices held steady. Calves sold slightly lower.

Lambs Break 25@40c.

The lamb market turned reactionary when burdened by the second largest Tuesday receipts since Jan. 5, and packers eagerly erased most of what they had been forced to put on Monday when offerings were abnormally low. Most slaughter lambs declined 25@40c, good grades selling largely at $6.00@6.35, with packers and shippers paying up to $6.50 for their best selections. City butchers bought natives and "fed" lambs at $6.60, the top. The high quality of yesterday's offerings took buyers by surprise and helped to stimulate eastern buying. Prior to this week there has been an acute shortage of well finished lambs.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil today closed firm at 3 to 15 points net advance. Sales were 20 contracts, or 3,000 brls. Strength of grains and stocks and a rally in hogs and lard, together with steadiness in cotton were outstanding supporting factors. Crude oil was quoted at 3½c in the southeast and the valley and 3c in Texas. Bleachable spot closed, 4.20c; March, 4.30c; May, 4.50c; July, 4.61c; September, 4.72c. Prime summer yellow contracts were neglected, closing as follows: Spot, 4.20; March, 4.25c; May, 4.35c; July, 4.45; September 4.55c.

WHEAT SURGES AHEAD AGAIN ON BUYING WAVE

Market Rumors Help Lift Prices 2 Cents.

marketing act caused favorable comment on the part of the trade. The belief was expressed this action was a recognition by congress that new experiments had better not be tried out in the present crisis.

Routine News Ignored.

Routine news was in the main bearish as far as wheat was concerned but the new found confidence of the trade led them to ignore the decline of 1@1½c per bu in Liverpool futures. May in the latter market was 1½c under Chicago at the time it closed, the finish being at 58¾c. Winnipeg was relatively easier, but gained 1¼@1¾c for the day with May at 66¾c in Canadian funds. Buenos Aires was up ¾@1c with March at 46⅛c, after being weak early.

Foreign demand for North American wheat was disappointing and no sales of consequence were reported. Scattered reports of crop damage were received from parts of western Kansas during the day, and some traders had visions of the anticipated crop scare getting a start. The Kansas weekly report confirmed damage in the southwestern part of the state due to soil blowing and other causes, and some abandonment of acreage was anticipated.

Country Sells Cash Corn.

Corn was easy early, but rallied sharply with wheat and on short covering and closed ⅞@1c higher. March finished at 37¾@37¾c. May at 41¼c, and July at 43½ to 43¾. The country took advantage of the upturn to sell cash corn freely and purchases to arrive were finally placed at 115,000 bu, while shipping sales were only 4,000. Selling against effects checked the bulge.

Oats and rye were easier with other grains only to reverse their trend later when wheat turned strong and oats closed ¼@½c higher on the active futures with May at 26c and July 25⅞@26c. Rye was 1⅝@1¾c higher with May at 47¾c and July 49¼c at the last.

LARD RALLIES

Weakness in grains and stocks had a depressing effect on lard early yesterday. Later prospects of a much lighter movement of hogs in the west, combined with the reversal of the trend in securities and grain and fair commission house buying, brought about a strong rally, with prices moving up 20c from the low, and the close was at net gains of 2½@12½c with September leading. Bellies were neglected and closed unchanged. Liverpool spot lard was 6d lower and futures unchanged to 6d lower. Movement of hogs in the west was smaller than a week ago, and a year ago, while prices at the yards were steady to 5c higher. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

A more confident feeling that the wheat market was getting out of the rut in which it has been for a number of weeks was apparent in some quarters after the close yesterday. It was pointed out that May wheat yesterday sold above the resistance point of 61½c after three previous bulges had been checked around that figure.

Acreage seeded to wheat in the four leading Balkan countries is estimated at 17,357,000 acres, compared with 19,314,000 acres in 1931.

Owing to opposition from farmers it is now predicted that the proposed import duty of 10 per cent on corn into the United Kingdom will be abolished.

BUTTER FUTURES LOWER

Butter futures declined ¾@¾c on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday, support being slow. Egg futures gained ½c. Profit taking started butter lower at the opening and new selling appeared. Covering checked the decline at mid-session and prices rallied a bit but the pressure increased again at the close. Statistical news generally was somewhat bearish, the outward movement from storage continuing light. Eggs remained quiet and the statistical news unchanged. Receipts are lighter than last year but there remains a fairly heavy storage supply which is not moving very well. Sales: butter, 96 cars; eggs, 5 cars. Prices follow:

Personal, Property, and Salary.

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Personal, Property, and Salary.

Commonwealth Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

COMMONWEALTH'S rate on amounts above $100 is substantially lower than the lawful rate usually charged.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.
